The Evil Genius of the American Labor Movement

A Monument to Gompers

"It is fitting that in the capital of the nation a statue should stand through the ages to remind future generations of the services to that nation of a patriot who served his country

These are President Roosevelt's words of tribute in dedicating a monument not to a general, an admiral or an imperialist free-booter but to a labor leader—Samuel Gom-later the workers. almost talking of union recognition. Murray is again rushing headlong to open new negotiations. The U. S. Steel Trust has finally consented o confer with the U.M.W.A. In hort, the miners have forced Roosevelt, the U. S. Steel, and the C. M. W .A. bureaucrats to begin all over gain in their attempt to swindle the strikers out of the gains of their strike. If, instead, the minrs had accepted Senator Wagner's ecovery philosophy, they would be back at work with nothing gained except bullets and deaths from its steel Trust's gunmen.

The strike is far from won. Although Roosevelt is talking bravey about "collective bargaining", he is still the same man who a week ago accepted the agreement that did not recognize the union. The Murray, who is now lacking the hand of the steel bosses, is the same man who threatened death to all miners who did not accept the sell out. From such people the miners can expect nothing but treachery. If the strike demands are to be won, it will not be won through Roosevelt's promises or hrough the negotiations of Murray. They will be won only through the militant struggle of the workers themselves. And only through a militant policy in the U. M. W. A. will these demands, once won, be maintained. For that policy to exist, there must be an organized Left wing in the union. PETER MORTON.

«Spiritual Values» for Hungy Men

Those unemployed workers who ed by the Stalinist national policy still believe that they will be helped out of their present intolerable situation by folding their hands and letting the President take care of them, would do well to read over Center, New Haven on the "Future An important question was the again a speech which he made Thursday night before the Federation of Catholic Charities. Especially three statements which he made there, taken together, give the whole gist of the unemloyed program of the Roosevelt administra-

> First the usual sugar-coated promises: "It is for us to redouble our efforts to care for those who must still depend upon relief, to ers were interested and learned prevent the disintegration of home And if their past experience with the depression until it is definitely over". This goes along with the the importance of working in the redoubling of the propaganda spread by the government, that it is about beck made clear to them the dif- to spend 700 million dollars for relief, that it will buy 75 millions of Lovestoneite policy of collaboration farm products to be worked up into food and clothing for the unemployed, etc.

What Does It Actually Mean? There is no question that 700 nillions is a great deal of money, whether to an unemployed worker or to J. P. Morgan. But what does Swabeck Tour Itinerary it actually mean even if the whole money were actually to be spent without deductions for costs of administration, honest and not-sohonest graft, profits, etc.? With 12 million workers out of jobs at the very least even after the so-called recovery, it means that for the whole coming winter the government proposes to provide about $60 for each unemployed worker, whether a single man or the head of a family. This means all of 8 to 9 dollars a month, or 2 dollars a week. On this amount the unemployed worker is expected to keep Wed., Oct. 25th.... Springfield, Ill his family together, provide food Thurs. > More than this, experience has shown that the Roosevelt administration is not likely to spend even the 700 millions about which all the propaganda is being made. Early this year they appropriated 500 millions for unemployment relief. In nine months' time they have succeeded in spending $182,500,000 out of this sum; it is being very economically administered, since they still have two-thirds of it left. They can find 2 1-2 billions to spend in loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to support bankrupt corporations and banks, 3,300 millions for a so-called public works program which turns out to be battleship construction to prepare for the next war, 2 billions for the saving of the small homeowner (in reality for the saving of the mortgage sharks)—but even when they do get money appropriated for unemployment relief, they find it is very hard to spend it. Spiritual Values" for the Hungry

No wonder Roosevelt went on to say, right after his sweet promises of help to the "victims of the depression",: "The Federal Government has inaugurated new measures of relief on a vast scale, but the Federal Government cannot. and does not intend to, take over

Notice with what art he raises the workers' expectations, then keeps them suspended with the carefully-worded warning that the Federal Government refuses to assume full responsibility for the unemployment question.

After this, it is quite logical that I believe, recognize with firmer ual values count in the long run more than material values".

This is nothing but a translation

And what gives special point to piece of sickening hypocrisy to show how superior the American system of "spiritual values-not where they are doing away with religion but are intensely interested in such things as wheat and steel. The Gist of the Roosevelt Program

The Roosevelt program comes to this. then: first feed the worker with promises, then shove the responsibility off to others—the state, the city, private charity; finally, when the worker realizes he has gotten nothing at the end of it all, tell him to be resigned to his fate and to think of all the "spiritual values" which he is accumulating as he starves.

All the agencies of the Statethe government itself, the newspapers, the radio, the church, all try to make him swallow these ideas, which are so profitable to them because they prevent the worker from, realizing what the situation is and from putting up a fight for his demands. The first step is for him to clear away these cobwebs if they have found a place unconsciously in his own mind. Then he will be ready to think of how to organize to get what he wants, and what he must have if he is to survive as a decent human —B. J. F.

The A. F. of L. Convention, the Strike Wave and Trade Union Perspectives

The 53rd annual convention of the American Federation of Labor convened at a turning point in the life of the labor movement when the resurgent forces of new life, thrust forward by the powerful impulsion of the class struggle, are beginning to push their way through the dry crust and restraining forms of conservative trade unionism.

The new masses who are sweeping into the trade union movement, heralding their arrival by tumultuous struggles, are without any direct representation at the convention. The strike wave, the great, new, vital and determining factor in the labor movement, lacks an authentic spokesman there. But this dread spectre is present all the time and dominates the proceedings. The strike wave is the unofficial delegate which disturbs the dead calm of self-satisfied conservatism so familiar at all A. F. of L. gatherings in recent years. All the important speeches and deliberations were made as if in reply to the thunderous arguments of this new force which is speaking in terms of class battles, of strikes and picket

The forces of resurgent life, represented by the strike wave, which have not yet found formal expression in official representation, did not record their real strength in the convention proceedings. They only recorded their presence in the situation and served notice of a future participation. That alone was sufficient-so ominous is the new power-to make it the axis around which all the proceedings and discussion revolved. The stormy and irrepressible forces of the new labor militancy, clamoring their demands in the nation-wide strike movement, evoked the terrified concern of the labor lieutenants of capital gathered in solemn convention, and of the political spokesmen of capital, including the president of the U. S. and his general, Johnson, who addressed them.

The Real Program of Roosevelt

The real design behind the benevolence of the Roosevelt administration towards union organization was brought out more sharply and clearly at the convention. They want a trade union movement that will be an instrument to restrain the workers, to prevent strikes and to suppress and outlaw the strikes that do occur. Only a few months have gone by since the NRA was hailed as the liberator of the workers, and already the iron fist is coming out of the velvet glove. Roosevelt's threat to put the recalcitrant horses in a corral; General Johnson's blunter declaration, "You cannot tolerate the strike". and his appeal to public opinion "to destroy every subversive influence"; the glorification of Gompers and the reminder of his role in dragooning the American workers into the war-in these expressions of the authentic spokesmen of the capitalist exploiters the Roosevelt program was given a plainer and more easily read translation than before.

The appearance of Green in a Washington church pulpit, with his pitiful appeal in biblical language to the "masters" to be good to their "servants", unspeakably contemptible and servile as it was, only served to demonstrate how neatly the A. F. of L. leaders have fitted themselves into the NRA scheme to harness the insurgent movement of the American workers through the official trade union movement. There is no doubt where they stand, nor where the convention which they dominate stands.

The New Factor in the Labor Movement

But the outward manifestations at Washington are by no means an accurate reflection of the situation within the A. F. of L., and still less of the present-day labor movement in its broader aspects. Against the policy and intentions of the capitalist politicians and their labor allies, as revealed at the Washington convention, the new outstanding developments must be considered—the influx of hundreds of thousands of new workers into the unions, the formation within a few months' time of 500 new federal unions, the insistent demand for the industrial union form of organization to meet the needs of the newly organized masses. These factors, counterbalanced to the formal official decisions and pronouncements, require consideration in a rounded view of the actual situation.

They are an essential part of the "proceedings" of the 53rd convention of the A. F. of L. And in addition to that, the thunder of the strike wave outside the door also belongs in the record. An appreciation of the present situation in the trade union movement, and of the A. F. of L. convention as a distorted reflection of it, is possible only if these factors are taken into account and given due weight and importance. In that case the one-sided picture of the Washington gathering, as just another expression of hide-bound conservatism, fades away and we see the actual movement as it is in reality, fermenting with new life and on the verge of great convulsions which will upset all the schemes and plans.

Nothing was firmly settled or decided for the labor movement at the Washington convention. The new elements at work in the trade unions registered themselves and served notice, so to speak, of a further participation later on. The contending forces in the trade union movement, which will clash with increasing fury from this time forward, met in a preliminary skirmish at Washington. From there the conflict will be transferred back to the field of class struggle-to the strikes, the picket lines, the battles with the state forces and armed thugs, and the forthcoming internal struggles within the trade union

All of this is projected on the basis of a strike wave of such dimensions as has not been seen in recent times and which, in our judgment, is only a curtain raiser of what is to follow. The bosses and their political and trade union agents apparently have the same opinion. They have enunciated their program at the A. F. of L. convention. The labor movement itself, that is, the real movement of the masses. has not yet worked out an estimation of the perspective and a program of its own. This is the big task and need of the present time. Its solution devolves naturally on the class conscious elements.

The strike wave is the first reply that the American workers have made to the frightful conditions and standards imposed upon them during the crisis and which the NRA mechanism is seeking to stabilize and make permanent. The present scope and insurgent militancy of the strike wave are especially portentous as to what is to follow if the workers fail to get satisfaction of their demands. Trade Unionism - - After the Collapse of the NRA

And this, in our opinion, is precisely what is going to happen. The attempt of the Roosevelt administration to "plan" industry on a basis of capitalist private ownership is inevitably doomed to a resounding collapse, and that very probably in the near future. With that, and with the failure also to satisfy the expectations of the workers which were aroused by the ballyhoo campaign of the NRA, will crop down, to curtail the live stock. on a Stalinist string to serve as a come a tremendous disillusionment of the workers They have to. The leaders of this noose for the militant proletariat and a rapidly increasing tendency, on their part to resort to more aggressive struggles; to rely on their own strength and organization. Trade unionism, which was held out to them in the first stages of the NRA as a device to restrain their independent movement, will become for the workers the medium for its expression on a colossal scale. The workers will turn to trade unionism in real earnest, and they will be bent on making the unions serve as instruments admit to himself, and keep wonderof struggle against the exploiters.

Then, as has already been clearly intimated in the threatening speeches of Roosevelt and Johnson that the worker can t just stop with at the Washington convention, the benevolent mask mere wondering. of the Roosevelt administration will be taken off. The unions they encouraged, and even coddled, as long as they thought they could serve as "harness" will meet open opposition from the government. All the boss class, the head of General the forces at its command, from systematic anti- Electric and a member of the NIRA eral, or even imperialist war as union and anti-strike propaganda to police and mili-board, was caught thinking aloud. tary force, will be brought to bear. The unions. insofar as they really fight—and that is the function Mr. Swope: which the conditions of the times impose upon them -will have to fight for their existence against the government itself.

The capitalist attack against the trade unions as organs of struggle will be carried inside the unions. Green, Lewis & Co. will be called upon to purge the organizations of their militant elements and restore the unions to conservative and respectable docility. The prompt response of these treacherous agents of capital to this demand is assured in advance: their attitude at Washington, in harmony with all their previous conduct, signifies this first

Every worker who wants to fight for his rights and wants to make the union fight for them will be branded as a "red". The next developments of the trade union movement will unfold in a seething tide of labor rebellion-of "outlaw" strikes clashes with the authorities, fierce internal struggles in the unions, expulsions and splits.

And you've got to do may be, no matter how reactionary their present more than just wonder this time. leadership, and regardless of what the real purposes of the Roosevelt administration were in giving a certain encouragement and impetus to this trade union revival-in spite of all of this, the movement itself represents an elemental force, a power which properly influenced at the right time by the class conscious vanguard, can break through all the abso lete forms and frustrate all the reactionary schemes

The Task of the Militants

This movement of the masses into the trade unions can be seriously influenced only from within. From this it follows: Get into the unions. Stav there. Work within.

Before any serious development of a revolution ary organziation can be expected in America this penetration of the trade unions must begin in earnest. The militants who undertake this task now after all the discredit brought to the name of Communism by the Stalinists, will labor under a double handicap. The complete and unchallenged supremacy of the reactionaries in the trade union leadership; the weight of the government and of all capitalist propaganda and repressive forces on their side; the popular hostility to Communism and the relationship system, the system of profit and of forces in general-these circumstances alone will greed, of wasteful competition and constitute huge obstacles at the beginning. Besides industrial anarchy. that, the new Left wing movement will have to pay for the sins and failures of the old. The labor fakers will start new expulsion campaigns against the radicals the movement their influence is felt again in the mass movement. It is folly stands in the way. In so many to think that the task of penetrating the mass trade unions, under the given conditions, and of reconstituting a vigorous Left wing within them can be accomplished with brass bands playing and banners flying. Quiet and persistent work, and loyal cooperation with all progressive-minded workers who want to build fighting unions—this simple prescription stands first in order. The rest will follow. We give no pledge to refrain from revolutionary activity in the unions or to turn our backs on "out law" strikes. We leave such trade union tactics to opportunists and traitors. It is our aim, on the Martin Abern James P. Cannon contrary, to be with the masses, especially at the Max Shachtman moment of their sharpest collisions with the capital ists, whatever form these collisions may take. In order that this association with the revolting masses can have a fruitful revolutionary influence, it has to begin now by an entrenchment of the militant and class conscious elements in the A. F. of L. unions Foreign $1.50 a yr; .75 for 6 Mos. and the formation of a Left wing within them.
