This is what they have learned from the great trade union developments which are taking place before everybody's eyes. This is the incredible deduction from the Left wing catastrophe in the needle trades. Are the masses themselves going to the A. F. of L. unions of their own motion? Is the Communist International dead? This question may well now be asked more insistently, more sharply than ever. It demands an answer.

At this moment the Second International has just concluded its special international congress. The Amsterdam International of trade unions recently held its congress. Left Socialist parties from various countries are now meeting in special conference. Only the Comintern remains silent. There are no signs of its Seventh World Congress.

It is now five years since the Sixth World Congress. Five years marked by the most severe capitalist crisis ever known. Five years of the most fatal consenuence to the world proletariat, culminating in the disastrous German defeat. Five years filled with dreadful experience of false policy pursued by the Comintern leadership. The German proletariat lies prostrate, trampled underfoot by the Fascist hobnailed boots. Its revolutionary party is obliterated. The Communist parties elsewhere, misguided and disoriented are declining in numbers

Soviet Union, once the proletarian tower of strength, is facing the greatest danger in its existence. And now a new reactionary period has been inaugurated with the Fascist victory posing new problems in all their magnitude to the world revolutionary movement. But its general staff fails to meet. Again we ask: What has become of Lenin's International? The Second International leaders gathered under the heavy shadows of these terrific defeats and their own openly demonstrated bankrupety. A motiey crew of periidious betrayers attempting to shove off the burden of responsibility and attempting to find new avenues to capitalist ministerial posts. Though they failed entirely, as could be expected, to draw a balance of events the rank and file Social Democratic workers are now proceeding to do it for them. That is manifested in the many currents of Social Democratic workers everywhere moving in a Leftward direction, toward Communism. But at least the Second International called its congress. Not even that much sign of life is displayed by the Comin-

Do the Comintern Stalinist leaders fear to give an account of their stewardship openly before the world proletariat in a World Congress? If so-and there are good reasons to believe that such is the case-that will prove even more fatal than the combined results of their disastrously false policies and orientation. That could only mean that the Comintern is entirely wiped out as a world revolutionary force for the future tasks.

But what about the millions of Communist workers? Their heavy tasks still lie before them. What about the still existing official Communist parties? Are they content to become reduced to impotent nationalist sects without an international revolutionary leadership? Will they raise their voice in a powerful demand for the convocation of the Seventh World Congress? We address this question to the American Communists. You must know what your international leadership has to say, what it intends to do. Demand that the Comintern leaders give an account of their steward-

With the blue eagle of the NRA on their breasts, the American flag in their hand, and patriotic speeches in their mouth about the new Messiah, Roosevelt, the AFL is accomplishing the organization of hundreds of thousands of workers through the country. The AFL organizers are now met with open arms by the at-their-wit's-end bosses. Even the Southern bourbons responsible for the Gastonia and Harlan nightmares now give the glad hand to their arch enemy of yesterday, the American Federation of Labor.
