How the Communist Party is Organised.

SECOND EDITION

Morkers 3 Dreaduought Founded and Edited by

FOR INTERNATIONAL COMMUNISM.

SYLVIA PANKHURST

VOL. VIII. No. 6.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23RD, 1921.

[WEEKLY.] PRICE TWOPENCE.

MINING AS A SWEATED TRADE.

STAGGERING CUTS IN WAGES.

By SIR LEO CHIOZZA MONEY.

One of the best known of Coalition writers aid on April 10th:—

"The coal-owners proposed the most staggering 'cuts' in the modern history of wages."

That is true. Never before, in the worst hour of trade depression, have workmen of any class been asked to accept such enormous reductions as have been proposed to hundreds of thousands of miners, with the knowledge and consent of the Government.

Mr. Lloyd George has spoken of the miners as misunderstanding the "psychology" of the Pritish people. The miners with their dependents, form a very large and representative part of the British people. In Great Britain, one person in about every dozen is either a miner or a dependent of a miner.

Let us suppose that the miners had accepted the coal-owners' offer. It would have meant that the psychology of a large part of the British people was so despicable, that it was prepared to consent to the payment of starvation wages for the performance of arduous and dangerous work.

It is fortunate for the nation as a whole, that so large a section of it proved its manhood in such a test. If it had failed to do so, it would have been proof that Britain had fallen very low indeed in the scale of nations.

Durham and South Wales.

Very different are the mining features of Durham and South Wales, and their poulations differ also in many things. We may surely rejoice that the men both of Durham and South Wales refused to accept such reductions as are here stated.

In Durham, the underground able-bodied adult labourers were asked to accept about one-half of their former wages, thus:—

Old wage. Proposed wage Reduction.
Shifters 66s. 9d. 39s. 0d. 37s. 9d.
Wastemen 65s. 3d. 37s. 2d. 28s. 1d.

These men form 25 per cent. of the miners, and it will be seen that they offered less than £2 per week, and £2 per week now buys what 16s. 6d. bought in 1914.

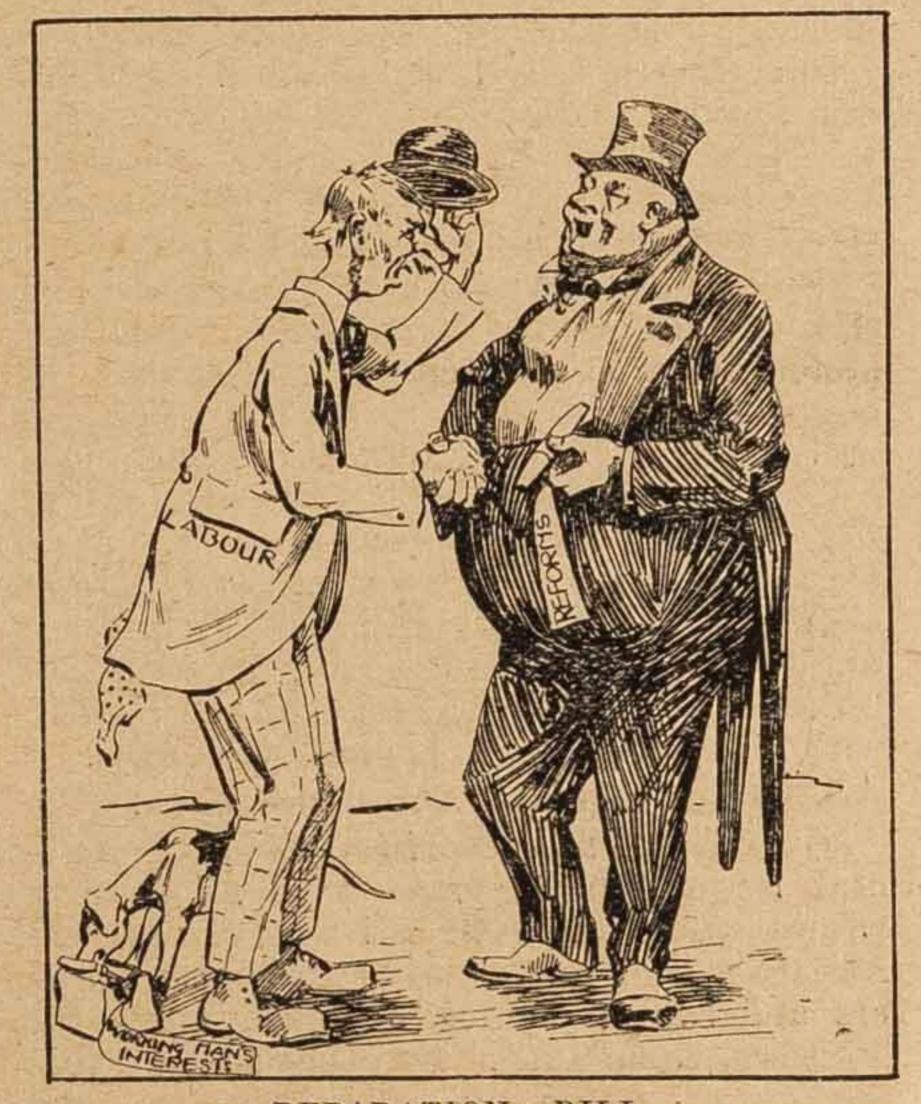

Coal hewers in Durham earning 82s. 3d. were offered 59s. 7d., a reduction of over 23s. a week a blow.

The colliers of South Wales were asked to accept 35s. 8d. a week less, reducing them to 53s. 6d. South Wales labourers were offered 39s., a reduction of 35s. upon their wage of 74s.

Lancashire and Somerset.

It should be understood that the rates vary from district to district, and that in some areas such as Nottingham, the proposed reductions, although severe, are not comparable with those mentioned. The number of districts in which the cuts are "staggering" is, however, very great. The colliers of Somerset, for example, are asked to accept a reduction of 26s. 4d., leaving them a wage of 46s. 8d. per week, again a starvation rate. A Lancashire collier (hewer) is cut down by 17s. 11d. a week, to 64s., the equivalent of 24s. 9d. in 1914.

In short, it is an army of adult men, up and down the country, that is, it is suggested, to be suddenly plunged into extreme poverty—into a position far worse than the indefensible one which existed in 1914.

REPARATION BILL.

Labour: We are solid, eh? And, of course, don't embarrass one another.

Comparison with Sweated Trades.

As is generally known, a Trade Board Act was passed to determine minimum wages for sweated trades. Here is a striking comparison of the Trade Board rates for certain of the sweated industries, with the offers just rejected by the British miners:—

	Paper Bag Making	(Trade Board)	65	0
	Forest of Dean Miners		43	4
	Rope Makers	(Trade Board)	56	0
	North Wales Miners		52	0
ġ	Tin Box Makers	(Trade Board)	60	0
	Bristol Miners	三元之后 医甲烷 至以	55	6
	Button Makers	(Trade Board)	60	8
	North Stafford Mining
	Horse-keepers		48	2

These comparative pairs are of much interest.

Think of one of the lately most sweated industries, Paper Box Making, having a much higher rate than hundreds of thousands of miners! Or consider the last item. We have heard of pity for the pit ponies. Is there to be no pity for the man asked to accept 48s. a week, when the loaf costs a shilling, to take care of the pitied pony?

IN MEMORY OF
THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE
WHO DIED AN EARLY DEATH

WHO DIED AN EARLY DEATH ON FRIDAY, MARCH 15TH, 1921.
AT 10 P.M.

FROM INTERNAL WEAKNESS AND PARENTAL NEGLECT, CUTTING SHORT A LIFE FULL OF PROMISE.

O passer-by, do not weep or cry, but ever remember,

R. I. P.

This statement may well be rounded off with a reminder that in many districts, agricultural labourers are receiving a higher wage than was proposed for many classes of mining workers. Thus, in Durham, the Agricultural Wages Board gives the agricultural labourer 50s. 6d. a week against the less than 40s. offered to the Durham underground mine worker.

Finally, let me remind the reader that the wages which it is proposed to cut (not the cut rates) are very little more than sufficient to compensate for the rise in the cost of living. They represented, on the average, an increase of 155 per cent over the 1914 rates, whereas the cost of living is 141 per cent. more than in 1914. Until quite lately, the rates, indeed, were not quite high enough to compensate for the fall in purchasing power. It was admitted by the Attorney-General, in opposing the miners' application for unemployment pay, that the cut wages of the miners left them, on the average, only 91 per cent. above 1914, leaving 50 per cent. to the tightened belts of the miners and their families.

The fact is that the proposed "staggering cuts" in miners' wages would reduce the great and essential mining industry to the status of a sweated industry.

CAPITAL LABOUR'S BEST FRIEND.

Capital is "Labour's best friend." Lord Leverhulme has said so!

In a discussion at the Free Church Conference held in Manchester last month, my lord of the soapsuds actually admitted that "this country would not be content until we lived under ideal conditions," and then he made the qualification in defence of his class: "but the ideal could not be reached by dethroning Capital. Capital was confidence, and it was the best friend of Labour, because when confidence went, when people were afraid to invest their money, unemployment resulted. Conscript Capital, and they killed the goose that laid the golden egg."

Oh! we who have denounced the highwayman proclivities of capital, let us weep tears of remorse, and we who draw the weekly dole, let us renounce our quidlet so that Capital can recover, and all will be well "in the land which the lord god Leverhulme giveth we!"

Is it nothing to us, friends, that Lever Brothers Ltd., the soap company controlling over 180 Associated Companies, of which the Defender of 'the Capitalist Faith aforementioned is the head chief, holdeth property to the value of more than £50,734,770? Is it nothing to us, especially those who produced for the firm, that out of our labours since 1913, Lever Brothers have paid out to co-partners and shareholders £12,97,140? Of course not! We don't mind. Ha, ha!

On March 5 the "Grocer's Journal" reported the case of an old man, also a Lord, William Lord, 63, who borrowed two wee tablets of soap from a grocer's shop. The value of the soap was 2d.; he was sent to prison for one month. He will be a wiser man when he is released.

Had he done a greater deed than pinching two pennyworth of soap, he would have amassed great wealth, like Leverhulme; he would become interested in dope schemes for Labour and would have been worshipped as a benevolent pillar of our beautiful capitalist system; but—

"Capital lays the Golden Eggs and is Labour's Best Friend."

Reverse it, and the real truth is seen: Labour is Capital's best friend; Labour is indeed the Goose!

Let us briefly note the salient points in you? Let us see. the Wangle since the commencement of the miners' lock-out. If the miners would not work for reduced wages, then the owners of the mines would refuse them work uintil they "saw reason." So they locked them out. Now, they didn't want the engine and pump men to stop work, because they were key-men, protecting "their property" from the encroachments of nature. However, the pump-men decided they were members of the working class first, and came out: became part of the sectional lock-out. That did it! Every capitalist Press "rag" denounced this act of sabotage. Their wily method of attack on this occasion was to carefully inform "the public," and attempt to influence the leaders towards the recognition that this sabotage was really inimical to the best interests of the miners; the mine-owners were never mentioned. 'Twas mighty good dope! It washed-sufficiently to help the Wangle. Blacklegs raised their evil dials. Members of the Universities, young bourgeois paradate of the lock-outs, sailors were drafted to Fife mines, later to South Wales and other parts where (vide the Yellow Press) the men showed "a truculent spirit."

On April 4th Frank Hodges is reported as saying: "If it becomes the view of the working classes that the Government are prepared to starve sections of the community into submission then there will be

The Loco. Man goes Holidaying.

On the same day C. R. Cramp said:

The workers have again been fooled by and that being so, I think we ought to

When we saw the wangling commence we Again on the same day Ben Smith shoutfeared it would become "the strike that ed: "If the workers are to be 'licked, won't come off." Time and again have it will be better if we are all 'licked' together. If the places of workers are taken by volunteers, I ask: 'Are we going to

> Now, from the foregoing utterances, you wouldn't think these leaders would guilty of traitorous compromises, would eration met (five days to think about it!) ling and Robert Williams. It ran: "Star with Ll. G. as their prime spokesman.

J.H.T. Anxious About the Boss.

Meanwhile the authorities got busy. Sevsites, volunteered to help pit managers. - eral large London parks were filled early Strong resistance everywhere caused them with trained troops in full war equipment. to think twice about acting up to their At last a General Strike of transport work- Mister—the adorable Mister Thomas — on what fine speeches are delivered to inspire the spineless aspirations. Four days from the ers and railwaymen was decided upon for Friday night made "a dramatic announce-Hodges expressed his anxiety because the was to be NO STRIKE. Saturday's Press who suffering in workaday existence!), and Tho- position up to date is that the officials of mas said he was "not anxious for a revo- the Alliance stand by their friends The lution," and wanted only "a fair deal and Boss, as against the mine-workers, but the overthrow of a government system, and which, as The Boss. About this time the Capitalist the miners. If the leaders have proven "I believe the railwaymen, miners, and (Liverpool) station workers, to give the im- Your leaders have proven traitorous. Sack break the men's spirit. On the 9th Hodge sent a telegram to miners' branches tellin now, through the traitorous action of Union leaders! Remember it! The 'Ever "He really excels in his negotiating executive met on the 6th, adjourned, and Hitch Won't Do Us Any Harm!" Mr more white (Guard) hope—the Triple Al- most firmly rooted, most tenacious part of this menliance were to meet the National Executive tal attitude is dependence on the leaders, to whom of the Labour Party—just one hope! Then the Trypy Alliance slept till Friday, held secret session with the Bosses, and so, the activity needed for the revolution. No matter Tuesday, April 12th. Four days before this ment"—this time without tears! There strike might entail suffering (there is no was filled with "official explanations." The an honourable settlement" for the "pros- rank and file all over the country are resperity of the nation"-meaning his friend tive, and demand a strike in sympathy with of the masses. The revolution requires that the Press, understanding working-class psy- traitors, sack the lot, we say; set up your in hand, that difficult decisions shall be made, that chology, was very carefully and insidiously own Strike Committees, arrange amongst impulse; and this is only possible if first the adtrying to convey to the rank and file lies, yourselves all the necessary local and nat- wance guard, and then an ever greater mass takes such as the one about the Lime Street ional work, and carry on-for your class! things in hand-a mass that is conscious of its > DREADNOUGHT DEVELOPMENT FUND. Brought forward £31 4s 6d, A Friend 2s 10d, J. E. Mathews 3s 3d, J. H. Parker 5s, total £31 15s 7d.

C. B. JIMACK-WARWICK

Literature Secretaries of each Branch of the Y.W.L. should place a weekly order for a definite number of Dreadnoughts with their newsagent. If they have any European workers must in the first place act for in England, with its tremendous history, tradition, to come in the long run. This pride and courage, difficulty in obtaining them, they should apply to 152,

OUR COMMON ENEMY, the Capitalist Class, are busy carrying their lies and mis-statements into the homes of the toilers by leaflets, and door-to-door visits, well knowing the power that there is

They particularly attack the WORKERS' Government of Russia and Nationalisation. THEIR LIES are bound to hurt our Cause we don't counteract them with the TRUTH.

The enclosed leaflet, "TRUTH WILL OUT," has been specially written in a simple style, for door-to-door distribution, to reach the masses Workers who can be reached in no other way.

HELP ALONG the LEAFLET CAMPAIGN by send-

100 3s. 3d. (post paid) 500, 15s. To L. M. LEIGH ROTHWELL, East Boldre, Hants.

BADGES.

9d. each, 12s. and 6s. per dozen.—Apply, sht, the example, the lead. Manager, "Workers' Dreadnought," 152, Fleet Street, E.C. 4.

them not to interfere with volunteers (blacklegs). "Lloyds News" gave a free photo of J. H. Thomas, "who announced the good news." If the back of the strike movement was not broken before, it was powers"—that is the Wangler's character- can do the fighting for them. Formerly the beistic! On the 12th a message to their On the 5th the Transport Workers' Fed- Union branches was signed by Harry Gosand they decided to "postpone their de- by; wait for orders!" The orders came cision." Meanwhile the authorities got alright, and they were to the effect that since parliamentarism acts in a more honest way, busy. Havelock Wilson "counselled a policy Tuesday's strike was to take place on Friof caution"; Bromley said his executive, day night for sure. More "Peace conferthe Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, ences," more "Breakdowns"—but the strike were not interested, and that he himself movement had failed. The capitalists were was going on a holiday. The Railwaymen's toasting one another with "Another Little in the democratic guise of congress discussions and met again, and J. H. Thomas made the Thomas, when he read out the announce. mine their own politics. Wherever the proletariat statement that "There is no element of ment that Friday was strike-day, "he was goes in for parliamentary action, all this is inevidoubt as to what the railwaymen's decision in tears "-poor devil! Henderson and will be." This was true all along; the Clynes here entered more fully into trying rank and file were with the miners, but to throw oil on troubled waters in favour masses can act for themselves, and can consequently the leaders were conferring and wangling of The Boss. Thursday, April 14th, saw determine, the disadvantages of parliament than outside it. On the other hand, with the owners and the other capitalist "The Star" announcing Mr. Thomas's class representatives. Every day, nay every "Gesture of Despair" (it ought to have The problem of the tactics is how to eradicate night, noon, and night again, we heard of been framed)! He also said: "I see no in the proletariat mass the traditional bourgeois way his parliamentary action would have a harmful ef-Peace Moves" on the part of the Bosses, hope"—but there was one hope, just one strengthens anew the traditional view is wrong. The

it leaves the decision in all general questions, and has the inevitable tendency to crush in the masses kers to revolutionary deeds, revolutionary action does not spring from such words, but from the keen and hard necessity that leaves no other choice

Demands of the Revolution.

The revolution also demands something more than the fighting-action of the masses that causes the we know, is not at the command of the leaders, but only can proceed from the deep-felt impulse great questions of social reconstruction shall be taken he entire proletariat be roused to one creative onsibilities, that searches, propagates, fights, ves, reflects, considers, dares and carries out. transport workers, united, could succeed, pression of division in their ranks, and so the lot, and fight The Boss as a class united. I lil this, however, is hard and toilsome: therefore, s long as the working-class imagines there is an way, that of letting others act for it by ying on an agitation from a high tribune, by ng decisions, by giving signals for action, by ing laws, it will hesistate, and the old ways thinking and the old weaknesses will keep them

> The workers of Western Europe, let it be reeated a thousand and, if need be a hundred thousand or a million times—and whoever has not, since November, 1918, learnt and seen it is blind—the West ORKERS THEMSELVES. That is why comrades there. he Left Wing are right in saying to the German nrades: Leave the elections alone, and boycott iament-politically you must do everything for rselves—you can not win unless you know this nd act up to it-you cannot win unless you do or two, five, or ten years; unless you train yourelf to it man by man, group after group, from own to town, from province to province, and finally he entire land, as a party, a union; as indusial councils, as a mass, and as a class. You annot win unless finally, through incessant traing and incessant fighting, and through defeat, you

SOVIET ARMS, in gilt on red enamel, 1s. 3d. and seal question, there is an urgent need for the cally as yet.

An Example Needed.

they done nothing but preach and propagate the world, against every foreign, as well as against Europe it may continue to be!

OPEN LETTER TO COMRADE LENIN.

An Answer to Lenin's Brochure: "'LEFT WING' COMMUNISM: AN INFANTILE DISORDER."

world, there had to be a group, that gave the exam-site tactics, parliamentary action, can but harm this small profit of parliamentary propaganda, for this higher motive the Left Wing rejects parliamentarism.

all the bourgeois parties oppose us on one united the masses, to a very great extent, would leave everything to be done through his speeches, so that Big Numbers of no avail.

believe in themselves, will be satisfied with these total slaves, and in this subjected West European ample.†

Continued from last issue.

April 23, 1921.

has been excellently characterised by Comrade

Parliamentarism is the typical form of the by means of leaders in which the masses emselves play but a minor part. Its practice sists in this: that representatives, individual perns, carry on the actual fighting. With the masses it must therefore awaken the illusion that others was that the leaders could obtain important orms for the workers through parliament; many ave even had the illusion that the members of arliament, by means of laws and regulations, could carry out the transition towards Socialism. To-day, Communism. Ever again the importance of the mass as a whole. lers is emphasised, and it is only natural that essionals should decide about politics, be it then resolutions. The history of Social Democracy is one higher cause, infinitely high as compared to the series of fruitless attempts to let the members detere, as long as the masses have not yet created might work wonders in the Reichstag. We deny it. the organs for self-action; as long, therefore, as the Politically he could not manœuvre there, because olution has not broken out. As soon as the thinking that saps its strength; everything which fect.*

control of all class matters. Parliamentarism

For Germany and Western Europe they are the only tactics possible. This holds good particularly Comrade, do you know the bourgeois individua ism of England, its bourgeois liberty, its parliamentary democracy, as they have grown during some six or seven centuries? Do you really know them? Do you know how utterly they differ from conditions in your country? Do you know how deeply these ideas are rooted in everyone, also in the proletarian individuals of England and its colonies? Do you know into what an immense whole it has developed? Do you know how generally spread it is? In the social and personal life? I do not think there is one Russian, one inhabitant of Eastern Europe, who knows them. If you knew them, you would rejoice at these among the English workers who totally break with this greatest political formation of all capitalism in the world.

If this is done with full consciousness, it de- jects parliamentarism, and that calls out to the mands a revolutionary mind, quite as great as that entire class in England: Let go of parliament, the which once broke with Czarism. This rupture with symbol of capitalist power. Form your own party the entire democracy of England constituted the and your own industrial organisations. Rely on your era of the English revolution.

themselves—in the Trade Unions and also politically, and strength; it is done with the utmost firm- born out of the greatest capitalism. Now that and they must let their leaders act, because the ness of purpose. Because the English proletariat it comes at last, it comes in full force at once. rkers stand alone, and because no clever tactics of has the greatest power (potentially it is the most eaders can help them. The greatest impetus must powerful on the earth), it makes a sudden stand ome from them. Here, for the first time, to a far against the mightiest bourgeoisie of the earth, and er degree than in Russia, THE LIBERATION OF with one stroke rejects the entire English democracy WORKERS MUST BE THE WORK OF THE although the revolution has not yet broken out

> That is what their advance guard did, just like those of Germany, the K.A.P.D. And why did they do it? Because they know that they also stand alone, and that no class in all England will help them, and that before all the proletariat itself, and not the leaders, must fight and win there.

A Great Day.

It was an historic day, Comrade, when on this June day in London the first Communist Party was founded, and this Party rejected the entire structure and government apparatus of seven hundred ance to that stage, the great majority among years. I wish Marx and Engels could have been ou, where you can do all this, and where, at present there. I believe they would have felt a st, after all this schooling, you constitute one great, a supreme joy at seeing how these English workers rejected the English State, the example for and that is why the comrades of the K.A.P.D. all States of the earth, and which for centuries has ere right, perfectly right-history demanded it of been the centre and stronghold of world-capitalm-at once to proceed to a secession, to split ism and rules over one-third of humanity; how they Trade Unions; as this covers the entire poli- reject it and its parliament, though only theoretic-land because English capitalism supports the capi- the course of opportunism, through parliamentarism, these comrades of the Left Wing, the talism of all other countries, and will decidedly it is a tactical necessity to defend the anti-parlia-.D., would have committed a grave mistake not scruple to summon auxiliaries from all over mentarism. And thus in many countries of Western this. Here even more, perhaps, than in the case of its own proletariat. The fight of the English prothe party, when the Spartacus League or rather letariat, therefore, is a struggle against world-capithe Spartacus Zentrals, refused to stand this pro- tal. All the more reason for the English Commupaganda of theirs. For what the German slaves, nists to give the most elevated and brilliant examwhat all workers of Western Europe needed in the ple. To wage an exemplary fight on behalf of the first place, was an example. In this nation of poli- world-proletariat, and to strengthen it by its ex-

By HERMAN GORTER.

ple, of free fighters without leaders, that is to say, Thus there has to be everywhere one group that without leaders of the old type-without members of draws all the consequences; such groups are the salt of humanity.

And once again all this must be, not because Here, however, after this theoretic defence of it is so beautiful, or good, or heroic, but because anti-parliamentarism, I have to answer in detail your the German and West European proletariat stands defence of parliamentarism. You defend it (from alone in this terrible fight, without help from any page 36 to 68), for England and Germany. The other class, because the cleverness of the leaders argumentation, however, holds good only for Russia is of no avail any longer, because there is but one (and at the very utmost for a few other Eastthe argument is heard that the representatives may thing that is needed, the will and firmness of the European countries), not for Western Europe. That, do great things in parliament for the propaganda mass, man for man, woman for woman, and of the as I have said before, is where your mistake lies! That turns you from a Marxist into an opportunist leader. That causes you, the Marxist, radical lead-For this higher motive, and because the oppoer for Russia, and probably a few more East European countries, to sink back into opportunism where Western Europe is concerned. And, if accepted here, your tactics would lead the entire West to perdition. This I will next prove in detail, in answer You say that Comrade Liebknecht, if he yet lived, to your argumentation.

> Comrade, on reading your argumentation from page 36 to 68, a recollection was constantly recurring front. And he could win the workers no better to me

Amongst the Social Patriots.

I saw myself once more at a congress of the old Social-Patriotic Party of Holland, listening to a speech of Troelstra's—a speech in which he depicted to the workers the great advantages of the reformistic policy, in which he spoke of the work-It is true that this work of the Left Wing ers that were not social-democratic as yet, and that would take years, and those people who, for some were to be won, by compromise; in which he spoke reason or other, strive for immediate results, big of the alliances that were to be made (only pronumbers, large amounts of members and votes, big visionally, of course!) with the parties of these parties, and a powerful (seemingly powerful!) In- workers, and of the "rifts" in and between the ternational, will have somewhat long to wait. Those, bourgeois parties, of which we were to make use. however, who realise that the victory of the German In just the same way, in almost, nay in absolutely and West European revolution can only come, if the same words, you, Comrade Lenin, speak for us a very great number, if the mass of the workers West Europeans!

To be continued.

* The example of Comrade Liebknecht is in ftself a proof that our tactics are right. BEFORE the revolution, when imperialism was as yet at the summit of power, and suppressed every movement by martial law, he could exercise an enormous influence through his protests in parliament; DURING the revolution this was so no longer. As soon, therefore, as the workers have taken their lot in their own hands, we must let go of parliamentarism.

 It is true that England has no poor peasants to support capital. But the middle class is only the greater, and is united with capitalism. By means of this advance guard the English proletariat shows how it wants to fight: alone, and against all classes of England and its colonies.

And, exactly like Germany again: by giving the example. By founding a Communist Party that reown strength exclusively.

And this is done, as it must inevitably be done This had to be so in England, Comrade; it had

† In England, more even than elsewhere, there is always a great danger of opportunism. Thus also our Comrade Sylvia Pankhurst, who from temperament, instinct and experience, not so much from deep study perhaps, but by mere chance, was such an excellent champion of Left Wing Communism, seems to have changed her views. She gives up anti-parliamentarism, and consequently the cornerstone of her fight again opportunism, for the sake of the immediate advantage of unity! By so doing she follows the road thousands of English Labour leaders have gone before her: the road towards subjection under opportunism and all it leads to, and finally under the bourgeoisie. This is not to be wondered at. But that you, Comrade Lenin, should have induced her to do so, should have persuaded her, the only fearless, consequential leader in England, this is a blow for the Russian, for the world

One might ask why I defend anti-parliamentarism for England, whereas above I have recommended it only for those countries where the revolution has broken out. The answer must be that in the struggle it may often prove necessary to go one step so much to the Left. If in a country so diseased with opportunism as England, the danger should These tactics are all the more necessary in Eng- arise of a young Communist Party falling back thato successful meeting, the International Women's Day.

MESSAGES TO COMRADE SYLVIA PANKHURST

Both in the Parisian suburbs and in the provinces meetings of similar character took place with equal success.

the women who have given their lives to hurst. the Cause.

They also remember those who in all capitalist countries are now suffering in prison for the workers' welfare.

To the victim of British Capitalism, our dear Comrade Sylvia Pankhurst, they sp cially sent their expressions of sympathy and solidarity.

"La Voix des Femmes," our Socialist paper, has been entrusted with the pleasant task of conveying this message to her, and also of making known that the French Communist women are in complete solidarity with their sisters across the Chan-

For the French Communist Women, MARTHE BIGOT.

We have celebrated in Paris, with a From the Information Bureau of the Communist International Secretariat for Work amongst Women.

The working women of the town of Moscow. at a meeting held on the occasion of Fleet Street, E.C.4. the International Women's Day, when 3000 Through these meetings the French Com- women were present, sent their hearty munist women have joined in spiritual greetings to the brave and dauntless fighter communion and respectful remembrance for for the proletariat, Comrade Sylvia Pank-

> "On the day on which the Communist International held a review of their forces. which number many millions of women, and who are ready to fight for the great cause of Communism, you, dear Comrade, are not

> "But the day of victory of the proletarian world-revolution is near at hand. The revolution will destroy the bourgeois world order and will sweep it away together with its domination and oppression.

"We are convinced that you will always be found fighting in the front ranks of the great proletarian army which is raising itself against its exploiters.

"Long live the proletarian revolution. "Long live the Communist International."

Editor: SYLVIA PANKHURST. Acting Editor: JACK O'SULLIVAN.

All Matter for Publication to be Addressed to the Editor Business Communications to the Manager: Workers' Dreadnought, 152, Fleet Street, London, B.C.4. TELEPHONE: CENTRAL 7240,

Subscripti	ON:
THREE MONTHS (13 weeks)		Post	Free	2/9
SIX MONTHS (26 weeks)		27	99	5/5
ONE YEAR (52 weeks)		44	••	10/10

Vol. VIII. No. 6. Saturday, April 23, 1921.

T. M. G.

According to the Press Association, J. H. Thomas has issued a writ for alleged libel against the printer of The Communist.

We assume it is with reference to the article of The Communist, which is still on sale, and should be obtained.

The case being, by the issue of the writ, now the libel."

In certain political quarters, J. H. Thomas had been spoken of as the probable Prime Minister of England, should official Labour get to power, "Goodenough," let us proceed! his emotional qualities well fitting him for the Class-conscious Trade Unionism might decree otherwise.

The Railwaymen might say, as we do now, independently from the case now pending: Thomas Must Go."

THE FOOD OF THE FAMISHED.

There are some who live to eat: mine-owners, politicians, labour b-leaders, for instance. The many eat to live-when they can eat. Selling their all—their labour power—wages they receive. Masters, profits receive; Fakirs are kept, they live to de-ceive; Politicians concur. Thousands, millions, starve on a dole. Trade is slack, profits are a little less than last year; then "We Must Reduce Their Wages " cry the plutocratic industrial parasites!

Are profits less? Not much!

and light; for light is needed as much in the five times over, and this year they have been inproletarian piggery as in the magnate's mansion, the Right Honourable roué's Ritz.

not by bread alone (what a price it is!); some- facts are facts. times they can afford margarine, which is advertised "good as butter." Manufacturers of this £397,741 last year, and £411,132 this year: delicious grease do well, evidently. Recently, "some" salty profit! a director of the Maypole Dairy Co., Ltd., entered those regions celestial, about which we hear so much and know so little. Being but a mortal, the margarine man had to leave behind "his" fortune, which is stated to be worth £470,922. £250,000 was left to charitable institutions; they all do that trick, thinking the the next yacht race! Lord might forgive them for evil doings.

From Marge to Milk let us meander.

The United Dairies, Ltd., made last year, £279,668 clear profit, with a balance of £84,923 from the previous year; making a nice little sum of £364,591. Now this concern supplies probably the major portion of London with milk. I'm not going to suggest for one moment that they are a profiteering trust!

drink plenty of milk; when we do get it, we Bovril. dilute it considerably with a certain dye known as tea, so that we hardly know the true flavour of either.

that cheers." Here again our taste is exploited. tell anybody!

Take one well-known Company, the Mazawattee Tea Company. During the last three years, this firm hath raked in £191,921.

What! another penny? Godstruth! the gas is always going out!

Light! Light! Well, I can't go on until the meter is satisfied, so here goes. Turn forward, turn backward, and-Light! Which reminds me. Last January the price of gas went up again in our quarter of the Metropolis. We were one of 830,000 customers affected; and the folk reponsible trade under the name of the Gas Light and Coke Company.

The price rose from 4s. 8d. to 5s. 6d.—just 10d.—per 1,000 cubic feet of gas. When I mention that this makes 120 per cent. increase in price since 1914, you'll not wonder at folks getting wild when a penn'orth amounts to next to nothing. Of course, at the time, the Controller of the Company's gas sales blamed the miners' strike (they're a regular nuisance these 'ere miners, Henry!). His name is Goodenough; but the stuff he came out with wasn't good appearing over two pages, 6 and 7, of the last issue enough for this child. I happened one day to glance out of the corner of my eye at a Financial rag, and there, behold, was an item of gaseus interest, which let light on the subject.

sub-judice, we cannot comment upon it, further. The Company's revenue merely for tar and remembering the common saying, where law- ammonia, by-products, was £1,018,300 last yers assemble: "the greater the truth, the greater year; 70 per cent. greater than the previous year's income; gas itself was not mentioned.

> Radiation Limited has done well in the gas stove business since 1919—just about £289,451.

Because £2,000 was secured in a recent "hold up," in Regent's Park, need we worry? It is written that the result of the Salvation Army's "Self Denial Week" is as much as £167,842; who said "Daylight Robbery"? But let us ter: "England, the Home of the Free. Military Party as a whole; others acclaim the Party, but combating the counter-revolution, which has to We set off from Moscow, four British, a Swede not be o'er frivolous, Henry, dear; remember, we are supposed to be getting hungry, wondering how food pirates, in broad daylight, have the audacity, et cetera . . .

"One man's meat is another man's --- "; but let us proceed.

The British Argenta Meat Company made only five hundred and two thousand, five hundred and eighty-four quidlets last year; It's a damned shame, for in the year 1919, they made £87,000 more that is £589,584. Ah! forget it.

Give the babies Glaxo. Why Glaxo?

Well, that is so that Joseph Nathan & Co., Colonial merchants, who have the run of that milky dust, can "carry on." You see, last A few items of food, let us consider; food year's profits covered their dividends more than creased, that is £89,206, and £56,259 last year.

What! you will take such statements with a The working man, and his "better half," pinch of salt, that commodity necessary for who has most of the worry of providing slave melting the snows, and for making prison grub you that every bourgeois is not always fat. Some fodder for a perpetually famishing family, live palatable. You can have your little joke, but

As for salt—well, the Salt Union made

Then there's Lipton's round the corner; that valve" ever called to their aid. provision purveying concern profiteers more and more yearly, thus: 1917, 258,530; 1918, know that capitalism is based and maintained £374,043; 1919, £401,363; 1920, £411,192. force, and by force alone can it be destroyed. Good old Tommy Lipton! Let's hope he wins In Holland.

One of the smaller fry in this line, C. & E. Morton, Ltd., managed £183,495 last year.

Now just along the road, past the Red Lion, where Dubb slips in "to have one," day and night, is the Aerated Bread Company's place; just one wee shop out of their many, helping the whole to capture in food profits, more this year than last, which soared up to £165,000.

Interesting, is it not? And before we retire We cannot afford the health injunction to let us have a glass of - I mean a cup of reformist organisation of Britain, have only

Now "Bovril never profiteered," the firm's press announcements tell us so, so it must be. All the same (I could hardly believe my eyes, The Russians wonder why we make tea as we but there it was in cold print), I noticed in the do; the Chinese laugh boisterously (I've never columns of the Grocer's Journal for February seen one laugh boisterously; I've read about 19th last, that in 1920, Bovril, Ltd. made them doing so); anyhow, we enjoy "the cup over 219,738. Isn't it scandalous? Sh! don't

Food, the chief necessity of the toiling, slavemillions! But don't strike, " when we want to make the purchasing power of your wages less " oh! no-profits are profits, while wages are simply wages; and we common, ignorant working or workless males and females do not understand such deep matters. Noses to the Grind-stone, Dogs. Don't Look Up! The class interests of the workers and their employers are identical. therefore — Of course, of course!

RED YOUTH NOTES.

An International Letter.

I have received the following letter from Comrade Bamatter, secretary of the Y.C.I.: "I have just received your letter and the 'Workers' Dreadnought.' Thanks for sending it on every week, because it contains so much information regarding the movement in your country. I am more than delighted to see that you have begun writing those Red Youth Notes. They are splendid, and the Dreadnought' has always been so kind as to al-Youth. Communist greetings to yourself and a in connection with your valuable paper." We are glad that the comrades of the Y.P.C. think our notes are good.

Lieutenant Commander Kenworthy, in the House of Gas (sorry, I mean Commons) stated he had reliable information that, owing to torture, Kevin Barry collapsed before his execution, and was hanged Irish Youth have shown the world the way but in the meantime they should join the Proletarian Schools and the Young Communist League, and concentrate on the perfecting of their ganisation. Young comrades of the working class, we call you to the fray.

Blessings of Civilisation. The cartoon in the April "Red Dawn" is splendid. The artist is Babe. It depicts two men-savages and heathers-laughing about your civilisation, and your God and Saviour. They are looking at a poslum. Secret Spies. Criminal Amendment Law. dustrial conscription. And MORE TO FOLLOW. Oh! and they do think it a capital joke judging by the way they are laughing about it. It con tains other fine things by well-known writers

the Young Movement. A Red Social.

The comrades at Glasgow intend holding a soc for the children on the first Sunday in May, the S.L.P. Hall, Renfrew Street. They intend hole ing games, dancing, etc. All young rebels v

The Power of Youth. "Give us the young," said Benjamin Kild. "G us the young, and we will make a new heaven and a new earth in a single generation."

Our Maxim No. 4. Thou shalt not take part in any bourgeois was for all modern wars are the result of the cla of economic interests, and your duty as an inte nationalist is to wage class-wars against all such

In Case of Mistake.

The bourgeoisie is your master; but for feat any of you should make a mistake, might I of them are lean, some are squint-eyed, some them are bandy-legged, some of them are hunchbacked, some of them are tall, others short; some of them have whiskers, others have not; some them are Christians, others are not, but the mo of them have a sneaking regard for Christianity, clear-thinking and powerful personalities. for Christianity has been the most powerful "safety organ, which was formerly called the "Yonge Socia of May 23rd-24th, 1920, been called "De You Komunist" (the Young Communist). The you Anarchists have also an organisation of their ow the S.A.Z.C., which, especially lately, shows self very anti-Communist. That is a pity, for S.A.Z.C. has much revolutionary sentiment.

The Wisdom of Youth.

The only organisation of young workers in Holland that is affiliated to the Communist Youth ternational, is De Zaaier, with 300 members.

Those S.S.S. So long as the Socialist Sunday Schools, the your motto on their flag, "Love and Justice," the "mi ters" will tolerate them and their Press will gi them kindly notices, for they well know that the words mean absolutely nothing, as they are the the World, Despite All!"

Esperantists! learning, the international language, will he or she who are fit. kindly correspond with me. Don't forget.

By E. SYLVIA PANKHURST.

Experience teaches—Russian Communist Leaders steeled and broadened by necessity—Peter of the "Cheka"—Joyous Melanchansky-Leather and Bark Shoes-A useful old man.

What Delegates from Other Countries think of the Communists.

April 23, 1921.

Delegates from other countries had been discussing the Russian Communist Party throughout the Congress. All admitted Lenin's preeminence in the world movement and recognised him as the leader of the International. Not only was every delegate prepared to acknowledge his political greatness, but all expressed a regard for his personality.

"He is a very nice old man," said a British delegate, who was perhaps the most critical and unenthusiastic of all.

Trotsky too, is universally acclaimed. As to the others, there is much diversity of opinion. do the work most repugnant to her. She had exact opposite. He is a Jew, dark and sallow, Many express admiration for Bukharin, Zinoviev, been a spy for the Soviet Government in the wears ugly black clothes and is apparently quite Lunacharsky and others, but there is no general White Army, and in the Red Army too, on the careless of dress and outward appearances. He concensus of opinion. Some delegates express look-out for counter-revolutionary elements is exceedingly serious, always near the boilingprofound respect for all the prominent Russian there. She had also been a member of the point of enthusiasm and ever ready with inform Communists and for all the Russian Communist "Cheka," the extraordinary commission for ation. population in these days. Others belittle con- she obeys. stantly the Russian people and the Russian Communist Party, saying that the Russian Communists have no capacity for organisation, and that they had no hand in making or moulding the Revolution, which "just happened." When the getting of probusks and the sameness of black bread and weak tea become irksome to them, these people complain that the Russian Revolution is an example of "how not to do it."

to leave out of account the movement in their own country, and to compare the Russian Communist Party with the Communist Party of any other country, they will at once, unhesitatingly, give the palm to the Russians, even though they may sigh ruefully for the paucity of great people, and of greatness in those called great.

The Greatness of the Russian Communist

To me it seems that, in surprising numbers, the Russian Communist Party possesses he oic, look in vain for their like in Britain. Perhapt the future may develop them, but I see absolutely no sign of it at present. In a generation of letarian State which is faced with bigger oppor- unawakened workers against them. tunities and difficulties than ever State faced before, the Bolshevik leaders have been broadened and steeled by the necessities and experiences of their position. The habit of command and leadership makes leaders and com-countries have been tried, for the most part only, Moscow Communist Party, was also going to as irresponsible propagandists. Amongst the Kolomna to attend a quarterly conference of the Russians, not only the score of leaders whose local Party which he wanted us to see. she had spent most of her time with the Red slang and humorous anecdotes. Armies. The Party had called on her always to Minkoff is in most things Melanchansky's

Beside her in the Kremlin was the President of a far-Eastern Republic situated within the territory which once comprised the old Empire of 1908, said:-Russia. He wore an immense fur head-dress. He too, had spent years of unknown proletarian poverty as an exile in London.

As the sittings of the Congress closed for the last time at three in the morning, I went out with Comrade Peters, made notorious by the Yet if we ask even the most critical delegates "yellow" press of the world because he was a member of the Cheka.

> The press has said that Peters of the Cheka is Peter the Painter of the Sydney Street affray. Peter the Painter was a cousin of Comrade Peters and much older than he. He brought Comrade Peters into the Marxian Socialist movement, but later drifted away and became "spoilt" from the point of view of Peters of the Cheka. Nevertheless, the object of Peter the Painter and the other Sydney Street burglars was to obtain money to propagate the Cause. That is doubtless why Winston Churchill was so eager in exterminating them, and went himself to take part in burning out their place of refuge.

Peters of the Cheka.

autocratic persecution and revolutionary fighting. Slim and boyish-looking, with small-featured a couple of hundred yards from the bridge. in which even the bourgeois reformist had to face brown face and wearing a simple cotton blouse, Mrs. Sheridan, in her diary of Russian exstern sacrifices and grave and constant risks of no one would guess that this was Peters of the periences, tells that when a sentry stopped which we in this country have no experience and Cheka. Carrying my bundle of literature, help- Trotsky's car and she asked him to reveal himlittle comprehension, the Bolshevik Party came ing me as we groped our way in the dark over self, Trotsky abruptly silenced her. The Times to the front and proved its paramount qualities the cobble-stones, he talked earnesly of the inferred that Trotsky was afraid to make Limist" (the Young Socialist), has, since the Congress in the Russian or-Bolsheviki Party only came to the head of that smashed to pieces again and again, with only a ganisers rightly desire that where there is a Party of truest and strongest stalwarts and few branches left to it. Even after the Soviets rule that only persons carrying permits shall be clearest thinkers, by virtue of special qualities, came to power and it rose to the height of Gov- allowed to pass, the rule shall be obeyed irtested in time of danger, when courage and ernment, it was rent asunder, with only half a respective of personalities. strength of conviction are of most account. dozen stalwarts left in the Central Executive, Having won through to the positions of foremost watching, waiting and working throughout the stoppages and told us that Lenin once said to a power and responsibility in the State, that pro- night, with a world of militant Capitalism and

CHAPTER VI. To Kolomna with Melanchansky. How the Communist Party is Organised.

One morning, Melanchansky, a prominent manders of those who have capacity; the practice official of the Russian Trade Union movement, quiet, pleasant place, with very wide cobbled If any young worker is learning, or intends of administration makes administrators of those offered to take some of us to see the big metal streets, large detached wooden houses and many factory of Kolomna, more than sixty miles away fruit trees.

The representatives of Communism in other from Moscow; Minkoff, an organiser of the names are known the world over, but thousands Melanchansky is a genial fellow, big, blonde of other Communists have been tested, refined and and burly, with a broad, cheerful face, ruddy, strengthened by battle and responsibility. In healthily tanned and clean shaven. In his blouse the Conference Chambers of the Kremlin, a of bright brown sateen and light grey cloth suit. woman comrade of the proletariat, who passed he looked both spruce and comfortable. He is uneventful days in London, and attended our an old revolutionary, and has spent long years in Trafalgar Square meetings there, all unknown to Russian prisons. He was also an exile in us, told me that she had just returned from the America, and speaks English as though it were Polish front. Since the Bolshevik Revolution, his mother tongue, with a wealth of idiomatic Conscription. Defence of the Realm. Right of Asy- declare, that after Lenin, it contains no epeci- try men and women charged with counter-revo- and the two Russian comrades, in a big motor ally remarkable personalities. Some insist that lutionary crime. She loathes this work, but it car, using the railway track as our road. Trains the Russian people are the best of the world's is necessary; the Party calls on her to do it, and are infrequent, and roads often bad or nonexistent in Russia.

> William English Walling in "Russia's Message," Hodder and Stoughton, published in

"I have seen almost no paved roads, except for a few miles down the towns and across some of the properties of the Grand Dukes and the Czar. The mileage of paved roads in France is one hundred, and in Great Britain, six hundred times as great as in

Occasionally we came to a bridge, where we always halted, that our driver's pass might be examined by the Red soldiers stationed there. On the return journey, the soldiers seemed dissatisfied with the pass, which ought perhaps to have been renewed; there were many discussions over it. One sentry fired a shot in the air to summon his superior officer, to decide whether we might go forward. Another sentry ordered us back to the preceding station, but to be merciful and allowed us to go on. Melanchansky's personal credentials would have proved his authority, but he did not intervene, except once, when the soldiers, instead of being at their post, suddenly sprang out upon us.

seeing the driver preparing to obey him, decided Melanchansky only laughed at the various sentry: "I am Lenin."

The soldier answered: "You might be Lenin, but let me see your pass."

On nearing Kolomna we left the car and found the carriages, each with a pair of horses, waiting for us on the high road.

The country was luxuriant, and Kolomna, a

The Metal Factory. We took a glass of tea with the young manager of the Kolomna metal factory in the one-time Board-room of capitalist directors, where portraits still hung on the walls.

The manager had begun his working life as a child employee of those directors, and had respirits of the concern. On the whole, he was Red Army Units, Young Communists and so on. was much greater than the last, and the present production was exceeding the programme.

The Russian organisers of production being short of many things, have constantly to make good with something else. He pointed to his own shoes by way of illustration. They were trim-looking and well-shaped, made of light green canvas, with soles of thin three- or fourply wood, and a hinge under the ball of the foot, so that they would bend comfortably in walking. Owing to the shortage of leather, a large proportion of Kolomna people were wearing shoes of that kind, also the shoes of plaited bark, which have been usual amongst the peasants for generations. Such shoes were very fine in the fine, warm weather prevailing at that time of the year, but in the winter snows they are of little use. It is for the winter season that Soviet Russia must make the great effort to provide leather. Bark shoes have their draw-backs, however, at all seasons in the metal factory. Presently we saw two men wearing them hammering away at a red-hot iron. Sparks flew, and one of the bark shoes caught alight. Its owner kicked out the flame and no harm was done, but the shoes would not last long under such conditions, and seemed a poor protection for the feet.

Do not imagine that the scarcity of leather shoes is a new thing in Russia: it certainly is not. William English Walling who made an exhaustive study of Russian peasant conditions, reported in 1908:-

"In the South and North in summer, the the shoe is not of leather, but is of woven Even in winter, one sees more boots of felt than leather."

in pre-revolutionary times were deprived of cuse that their position as technicians in the serviceable leather shoes. A secret report on factories left them too little time for study. the Manchurian war by the Controller of State Moreover, the Party Executive had had to choose for 1904, endorsed "August 6th, 1905, N. its lecturers with care. An instructor had been 741," stated :-

frightful condition; the soles are made from chips of wood covered with strips of leather." The Czar added a marginal note:-

"This is disgraceful: How many legs have been frozen as a result?" As we left the Office Department, the manager called our attention to a photograph of a group of men employed in the factory and a young girl clerk in the office. Every member of the group looked dejected. Under the photograph was a posts in the factory without reasonable excuse, and that their fellow-workers had therefore decided to exhibit their photograph here for public condemnation.

In the factory itself, things were going briskly, and the Shop Steward members of our gates to the Second Congress of the Third Inparty announced that the poeple were working ternational, and expressed the hope that our harder than they and their comrades do in the attendance at this ninth Congress of the capitalist concerns at home.

us to his lathe, saying that he had been engaged well, he thought, for us to see the hardships thus for fifty years, and before the war had won of Soviet Russia, in order that we might underseveral gold medals for his skill. When the stand what we ourselves must face in the Revolution came and shortage of raw material struggle for Communism. He urged that where made it impossible to keep all the machines we saw scarcity, we must remember the British going, he was told that he had done his share, blockade and the attack of the Entente Capital-and that his sons could do the family duty as

"But they couldn't do without me; they had to send for me to come back, old as I am," he added triumphantly.

How the Communist Party is Organised. The Conference of the Kolomna Communist mained at the factory ever since. He was an Party met in a sort of open-a'r shelter. The enthusiast, keen and eager for production and delegates came from units of the Party in facprogress. He told us that out of 6,000 em- tories, villages, agricultural Communes, the ployees in the factory, 600 were members of the adult staffs of children's homes and schools, the Communist Party. They were the guiding staffs of hospitals, Soviet institutions and offices, well pleased with the general atmosphere and At one time it was the rule that each member discipline of the place, and with the rate of pro- of the Party Executive must directly represent duction, the difficulties being considered. The a large unit of the Party, having at least fifty factory was not so well provided as he would members. It was found by experience, howwish, either with fuel, raw materials or skilled ever, that the best committees were not obtained workers. Nevertheless, the programme of work, in this way. Some of the units had no specially which consisted mainly of the construction and able members: some possessed several. It was repair of locomotive engines for this half year, therefore decided to elect the Executive from amongst all the Party members, without regard to their special units. To secure that the Executive shall keep in touch with all the units, frequent meetings are held between the Executive and the secretaries of the units.

The formation of Party branches in all centres of industry and administration, instead of on a merely territorial basis, is, of course, the right method of organisation for a Party seeking to create a Communist Society administered by Soviets. This method of organisation must inevitably be adopted by the Communist Parties of all countries both before and after the Communist Revolution; but it is especially essential after the Revolution has placed the power in the glibly against Bolshevik dictatorship in Russia, hands of the proletariat, when the difficult work of social reconstruction is entered upon.

The Kolomna Conference elected, according to custom, a committee, called the presidium, for the temporary duty of attending to the business of the Conference. The Conference also elected a new Executive for the Party, to hold office for three months, at the end of which the next Quarterly Conference would elect another committee, the retiring members being eligible for re-election. Local Party Executives usually consist of from nine to fifteen members. A commissission of three members is also elected to supervise the finances of the local Party.

The retiring Executive of the Kolomna Party having given its report, the delegates proceeded to criticise its work. The chief complaint was point in that Party's programme. The same is that the committee had not arranged enough of course true in Russia. The Russian Comlectures in the factories. Members of the Executive replied that they had done as much elections; it has greater popular support than bark, such as is used by many a primitive race. as they could with the lecturers at their disposal. More could have been accomplished had some of their critics been willing to qualify themselves It was not only in summer that poor Russians as lecturers instead of sheltering behind the exsent to a certain Party unit; but instead of im-"In the 4th Corps, the winter shoes are in proving it, he had done such bad work that the unit had to be disbanded. A motion to accept the report of the Executive was finally carried.

Comrade Minkoff addressed the Conference as epresenting the Moscow Executive of the Party He reported on the national and international situation, giving the latest news on all important questions, and especially in regard to the Polish front: He declared that the situation necessitated harder work by the Communist Party. Production must be increased; there must be in every department of the social structure, better discipline, and better work in the facnotice stating that these workers had left their tories and other institutions. Each Communist must be at his post, careful, tactful and zealous, doing everything possible to sustain Soviet Russia till the workers of other countries should be ready to join the World Revolution.

Minkoff explained that we strangers were dele-Kolomna Party would induce us to organise in A rugged old man with long white hair called our own countries on the same basis. It was of work, that the community would support him, ism on Soviet Russia. We must remember that the workers in the Entente countries were still

Some of us were asked to address the Conference after Minkoff had spoken. We did so with humility.

Russia is struggling through countless obstacles to Communism. Naturally he Communist Party leads the way. Obviously, the lead cannot be taken by people who either do not know what Communism is, or are not sure that they want it. Obviously, too, the Communists, banded together in a strong party, are able to act more effectively than if they were working in isolation and disunity.

Bourgeois democrats of capitalist countries complain that the Russian dictatorship of the proletariat is dictatorship of the Communist Party. They are shocked when they find that the Communist Party is in command at the Soviet offices. Yet these same democrats do not see anything unfair in the dictatorship of the Liberal, Conservative, or Coalition Party, whichever happeps to form the Government in power in the British Parliament. They do not object to the dictatorship of Republicans or Democrats in America. When the Party which is successful in the election appoints the Ministers at the head of the great Departments of State, and fills all the seats of Government with its Party friends, no outcry is raised by the partisans of bourgeois democracy. They make no objection based on principle, but merely blame the electors for stupidity, and urge the members of their own Parties to redouble their efforts to convert the voters. Ramsay MacDonald, who has talked has actually opposed proportional representation in Britain, on the ground that it might militate against large Government majorities. He argued that strong Governments with large majorities

When the Russian people send to their Soviets, as they have done steadily, a majority of Communist Party delegates, it is natural and inevitable that the Communists should control the Government and appoint the heads of Departments; in fact, that is precisely what the Soviet electors instruct the Communist to do, by giving them the majority of seats in the Soviet.

When the majority of the electors in any country have placed a Party in power, we find that not all, even of those who voted for it, fully understand and are convinced of every munist Party secures big majorities in all the any other party in the world. Nevertheless, neither all the people of Russia, nor all those who vote for Communist candidates, are convinced, logical, and unswervingly sincere Communists. Some do not fully understand Communism, some are without settled convictions, some are a prey to self-intereset. Some are even opposed to Communism.

On every question that arises, whether theoretical or political, whether dealing with home or foreign affairs, there are, of course, many different opinions. The Communist Party works out for itself a definite policy on each question, always guided by the final objective: World Communism. When the Communist Party's policy has been settled, the group of Communists in every factory and on every factory committee, in every dockyard, mine and office, in every village and farm colony, methodically set to work to apply and propagate the Party policy, meeting regularly to confer, as we saw them doing in Kolomna. tremendous driving force is thus generated. non-Communist elements, inconsistent and vacillating, adopting a hundred different policies and constantly desiring to modify Communist application to suit each temporary and personal interest that appeals to them, are naturally swept aside by the united force of the Communists who, even when they are few in number, are always united, determined and consistent.

"Soviet Russia as I saw it in 1920," by E. Sylvia Pankhurst, is copyrighted in accordance with the regulations of the Copyright Act, 1911 (1 and 2 Geo. 5, Ch. 46). American copyright has been applied for. Provided acknowledgement is made to the "Workers' Dreadnought," Communist and Labour papers can reproduce for the purposes of propaganda any part of this book.

lagging behind, unready to rise. INTERNATIONAL NOTES.

Co-operative News.

April 23, 1921.

on behalf of all Co-operative bodies of both coun- members either in the form of money or of detries and provides for mutual supply and exchange livered products. The products brought or obof raw material and manufactured goods and reci- tained in such a way will be exchanged among procal aid in securing transportation from other untries for goods addressed to contracting paries. The agreement is signed for one year, with comatic extension for another year. In Liquidation.

telegram from Erivan, Armenia, reports the plete liquidation of the last adventure in the hnak Party, which sought to hold the Arnian capital by aid of a nondescript band rkish mercenaries and other anti-revolutionary elehents from abroad. The Armenian workers and sants victoriously entered Erivan amid rejoicings the entire population. Soviets now reign through-

Defensive and Economic Alliance.

A treaty has been signed between Soviet Russia and the Soviet Republic of White Russia, by ich the two contracting parties enter into defenand economic alliance. For its realisation the governments declare union of their following missariats: Military and naval affairs, supreme ancil of public economy, foreign trade, finances, bour, ways of communication, post and telegraph. nese united peoples' commissariats of both counries enter into composition of council of peoples' amissars of the Russian Socialist Federated Soviet public, and have their plenipotentiary represenlatives in the White-Russian council of peoples' mmisars, subject to appointment and control by White-Russian central executive committee the All-Russian Soviet Congress.

Petrograd Provincial Alliance.

n open session of Petrograd Provincial Council partciipation of delegates from all principal R.S.F.S.R. tories and workshops, deliberated on the best eans of realising the Government decree authorising exchange of goods. Orators are recommended to organise the participation of the factories in the exchange of commodities so as to harmonise it with general plan of production. The orators also mmended that all factories should be placed on equal footing regardless of the fact that some cories by their nature can not produce comdities immediately necessary to the peasants.

Soviet Decree on the Co-operatives. The full text of the decree over the Co-operatives

All citizens of the R.S.F.S.R. form one le Consumers' Co-operative Society. Each citithe Co-operative.

3. Within these Consumers' Co-operatives the greement concluded between representatives of the citizens of the same profession may unite. A-Ukrainian Co-operative Union and representa- these organisations have the right to purchase proives of the Roumanian Central Commercial Bureau ducts of all kinds through the Co-operative of Co-operative Societies. The agreement is signed whose district their activity lies, by levies on their the members of the given group.

> 4. The Consumer's Co-operative Society has the right to purchase the surplus products of agriculture or of the domestic industry and to exchange them for other products or to dispose of them through sale to its own members. Therefore the co-operatives have the right to purchase all articles from the peasantry, hand-workers, or workers, in domestic industry, and to conclude agreements with them (which, of course, must not be contrary to the Soviet laws), for example, contracts for the supplying of implements, cleaning of grain, storing and delivery of products.

> 5. The Co-operatives have the right to organise manufacturing undertakings, and for the improvement of production, and they have the right to organise agricultural undertakings, dairy farms, etc.

> 6. The Co-operatives have the following duties. They must be the official medium of distributing the exchange articles which are allotted by the State in exchange for other cards and must carry out in the whole country the distribution of food and of the industrial articles which are allotted to them for this purpose. Food and articles of common use can only be distributed throughout the country by

7. Concerning the administration of the Consumers' Co-operative Societies the head of each organisation will be a person charged with the control and revision, elected by the members in general meeting. All citizens of the R.S.F.S.R. have the right to vote and to be elected. The only person excluded are those who have been deprived of Illiteracy. their franchise according to the constitution of the

The Labour Army.

A decree of the Council of Commissaries authorises the Commissary for Labour to form special units out of demobilised soldiers. At the same time the Labour Army which already exists will be placed under the Commissariat for Labour until June 1st. The Increased Food Ration.

"Novij Mir" reports that the number of workers who received the extra food ration has increased as follows: March, 1920, 1,116,894; December, 1920 2,738,886; March, 1921, 3,374;958.

New Polish Chief.

The new chief of the Polish General Staff is Władisław Sikorski. He is a former Legionary, three to twenty years. Among those sentenced to confidant of Pilsudski, and one of those in favour of an energetic campaign against Soviet Russia.

Who let this Slip Past.

On April 7th the English steamer "Wimbledon" arrived in Danzig with a cargo of ammunition for The Counter-Revolution.

"Golos Russij" reports that Petlura has issued a manifesto to the Ukrainia people in which he announces that he soon intends to return to the territory of the Central Ukraine. He has promised to bring his "government" with him.

Education in Soviet Russia.

"Isvestia" reports that the Council of Commismissaries has ordered that the students of the labour faculties and all proletarian students are to receive housing, food and clothes.

Postal Communication with Soviet Russia.

The Norwegian Government has received a note from the Soviet Government, dated March 29th, in which the resumption of postal communication with Russia, via Riga, is requested.. The Norwegian Government has decided to meet the Russian Government in this matter.

Denmark and Russia.

The Chief Inspector of the Danish Post Office has stated in reply to a question that Denmark has already resumed postal connection with Russia, through the Norwegian city Vardo. However, it was stated a few days ago by the German authorities that the post can be much more quickly and easily handled over Lettland. The Danish Post Office has begun to use this route since the beginning of the present week, and it can be stated that at present it operates very satisfactorily. The same route will now be used by England.

Farm Colonies for Prisoners.

In the province of Odessa farm colonies have been established for prisoners undergoing sentence, where they will have the opportunity to learn practical work. A large number of vineyards have been allotted for this purpose.

Commercial Agreement with Norway.

The negotiations between the Russian and Norwegian representatives are said to be approaching a satisfactory conclusion. The agreement contains 15 points, and both parties have already agreed upon most of the conditions.

Lettish Railways.

The Lettish Cabinet has voted a sum of 1,640,000 Lettish roubles for the alteration of the guage of the Lettish railways. In order to facilitate the railway traffic between Lettland and Russia they are to be broadened to the same wadth as that of the Russian railways.

"Trud" reports that the Central Labour Committee of the all-Russian Trade Union Council and the special Commission for the Combatting of Illiteracy have issued a circular in which the necessity is pointed out of releasing all citizens from work for two hours in order that they may have an opportunity of learning to read and write. Even military units are obliged to release their illiterates three times a week so that they can visit a school. All workers who attend schools for illiterates are freed from extra work on school days.

Comrade Rakovski Sentenced to Death.

The court martial in Bucharest has found a number of escaped Communists guilty in their absence and has sentenced ten of them to death, and the remainder to terms of imprisonment varying from death is Dr. Rakovski, the president of the Ukrainian

INDUSTRIAL JOTTINGS. By WARD NEWTON.

The testing time of Trade Unionism in this coun- practicability of a national pool. So it it is plain tlement could be arrived at was the concession of a national system of wages and a national (pool. on this the railway and transport workers' leaders withdrew their support from the miners and the Triple Alliance cracked. Now that the miners left to fight alone, there is little doubt that hey will be beaten as regards their principal aim e national pool; and although they may suced in obtaining a few concessions such as a revision of wages in the poorer coalfields, the efforts of the capitalists to reduce wages all round meet with increasing success now that they e won the first big round in the battle.

"Divided We Fall!"

lited in a vague way upon the principle that a united stand must be made by labour against any efforts to reduce the workers' standard of living, dey lacked unity both as to aim and the method and transport workers as to the advisability or support a national settlement. Had there been no present one.

try has come and gone. The Triple Alliance, the that unless the Trade Unionists in Britain can frongest organisation the workers had, has been unite upon some clear and definite policy as to weighed in the balance and found wanting. The the future of industry, their efforts to make any and transport workers' leaders were willing real impression upon the forces opposed to them to negotiate with the mine-owners on the basis of will be vain and futile. What is wanted is a re-Unionism—unless it is to remain impotent for ever -must assume a new role.

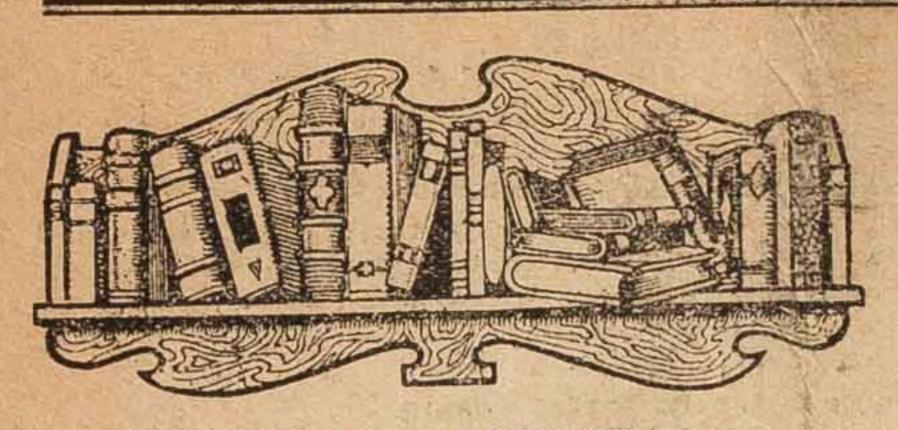

The Real Issue.

The Government, in charging the miners with attempting to coerce it by direct action for political ends-a charge which the leaders and the whole Labour movement denied - have really stated what, to my mind, is the whole issue. Whether realised or not, a strike to obtain a national wage system is direct action; it is now up to the Trade Unions to decide definitely whether they will endorse such action and combine for the purpose of using this weapon in the future, or whether Although the parties to the Triple Alliance were they will definitely drop the idea. If they are going to reorganise the Triple Alliance on a sounder basis, or form any other and more powerful combination, they will have to accept once for all the policy of direct action for political ends. The be employed in resisting reductions. With no history of this dispute shows that, whereas the ity of command, they split when the test came parties to the Triple Alliance were absolutely united One side was for a policy of compromise and arbi- to the sweeping cuts in wages offered the miners, tration; the other that of no compromise and a the real split only came on the question of naight to a finish. Apparently, too, there was only tional organisation. While the miners were adasalf-hearted conviction on the part of the rail mant on both points, the other parties would not question of a national pool there is little doubt that the miners would have agreed to negotiate with the owners, but in refusing to negotiate without the concession of a national pool under Government control, they definitely challenged the Government.

Even the General Council of Labour, representing the whole Labour movement in all its asemporary arrangement without insisting for the . vision of Trade Union ideals, the discarding of pects, condemned the Government for taking the oment on the national pool; the miners replied worn-out and reactionary ideas of sectionalism, and owners' side, more particularly its military prethat the only condition on which a temporary set- the definite statement of aims and the immediate parations. Thus it will be seen, that although practical steps to be taken in attaining them. Trade the General Council of Labour denied that underlying the dispute "was an attempt to impose a form of nationalisation by direct action," they admit that in fighting the owners they were in reality fighting both the owners and the Government. Therefore any dispute on a national scale, while we have capitalistic government, means direct action. Indeed, the Government always have it in their power to charge Labour with using direct action, for whenever the public is lakely to be hit, they at once proclaim that the national life is at stake and immediately bring the issue into the sphere of direct action. So that whether the Trade Union movement boldly decides to adopt direct action as one of its weapons or not, it will always be charged with using that weapon whenever it suits the convenience of the Government. If there is any satisfaction in being hanged, there is much less in being hanged innocent than guilty, but the Labour movement is to be hanged in either case if the Government has its way, so it might just as well make up its mind whether it will fight-and winopenly with direct action as its weapon, on whether, by continually burking the question, it will assure a repetition of disastrous failures like the

BOOKSHELF.

"THE STATE AND REVOLUTION."

No student of the revolutionary movement should be without this splendid work among his books, as it is such convincing proof of the hollowness of any reformist policy and the arguments of the lower middle-class democrats that are to be found drifting into the Labour movement.

Comrade Lenin, in this book, by submitting many quotations from Marx and Engels, followed by brilliant explanations, very plainly points out the necessity and the inevitability of a revolution by force. He also very ably exposes the distortion of the works of Marx and Engels by a number of people, among whom Kautsky and his followers, the bourgeoisie, the social chauvinists, and the opportunists within the Labour movement, come in for a great deal of attention. He shows, too, the fallacy of the idea that it is possible to achieve any fundamental change, or, indeed, any sound advantage whatsoever, by working constitutionally through the State.

The first chapter in particular is a vivid explanation of the purpose and vindication of the existence of the State, and affords a clear idea of the programme which must be adopted by those who have indeed interpreted Marx and Engels aright and from a Left Wing standpoint.

The general interpretation, or rather "misinterpretation," of the works of these great writers, by the Social-Democrats of the Right-whom Lenin very accurately terms "lower middle-class democrats with a phraseology very nearly Socialist"-is that society must develop along constitutional lines, undergoing a slow, continuous change; that the destruction of the State by mass industrial action will not be necessary, but that the State itself will gradually decay. This is the conclusion drawn by those who talk so freely about the "peaceful transformation of society," the people who would speak with disdain of a violent revolution leading to complete economic freedom, but would always be ready to submit a considerable amount of data to support their arguments in justification of an imperialist war!

Lenin gives a detailed exposure of the manner in which the official Socialist parties have thus distorted the teachings of the founders of German Socialism, the real revolutionaries.

Great emphasis is laid upon the important passages which are very discreetly "forgotten" by the Mensheviks and Social Chauvinists, and also such passages which justify a proletarian dectatorship, relying upon the armed force of the workers for the purpose of subduing the resistance offered by the privileged classes. And a clear idea can be formed of the necessity for a sufficiently strong organisation to take the reigns of power at a given moment for the purpose of guiding the masses in the work of reconstruction during a period immediately following a revolution. With this point Lenin deals at great length, attacking certain views held by many Anarchists who are opposed to a proletarian dictatorship, and at the same time affording a strikingly clear idea of the trend of events which existed in Russia under the Kerensky regime.

Another very interesting characteristic of the book is the attention which is paid to the Paris Commune of 1871. A detailed analysis of the most important events of the Commune, is given, in which Lenin elucidates its many interesting features and lays particular emphasis on the great lessons that are to be learned from the significant experience which was thereby extended to the masses who took part. It is most important to notice, as Lenin states, how the work began by the famous Commune of Paris, has been continued under different circumstances in Russia by means of the Russian Revolutions. Also that although Lenin wrote this book on the eve of the 1917 revolution, his many prophecies have been confirmed with remarkable exactitude.

The chapter dealing with the first phase of Communist Society clearly demonstrates the great need for the enormous amount of constructional work which will fall to the lot of the industrial workers, who, owing to the role they have played in capitalist society and the experience gained thereby, will be empowered to carry on this great work of Communist construction of society. The reader is also afforded a clear, concise, conception of the many difficulties that may confront the struggling proletariat, and above all this chapter should serve to banish from the minds of many the fallacious idea that a fundamental change in society can take place without a period of transition.

When studying the highest phase of Communist society as depicted by Marx and Engels, and very ably concentrated upon by Lenin, there comes before the mind of the reader the many possibilities that will result from complete economic freedom being the order of the day.

LUCK OF THE ALMANACK.

There is no mistaking the fact: Labour is coming into its own, and this is the eventful year. The Miners have been let down by the most powerful alliance of workers of modern days, but that, indeed, is a very small matter, compared to the fact that the ponies have been saved, and that the kiddies of the miners will be saved by a shower of pennies on the plinth of Nelson's Column in Trafalgar Square next Sunday, and by the joint sympathy of the Daily Herald, of a few wellmeaning ladies and of some idle and Sunday-dressed passers-by.

Our "big Bob"—as soon as he can be spared from his present pressing duties—will go crusadering against Militarism-in foreign countries.

Peace is restored at home, or nearly. The "Guineas" will be run next week, and we shall be able to make pots of money by following "Templegate" selections, as the posters blazoned on the delivery cars of the D.H. invite us.

Next week, an event of first magnitude will crown the success of Labour. The luck of the Almanack.

First of May falls on Sunday!

Hyde Park, in all probability, open once more.

Contingents with banners, the huge, big "artistic" standards of the Unions, will move toward stalwarts-declaring the International the "great lung" and "safety valve"-carried by solidarity of Labour,.

First of May on a Sunday! All of us able to celebrate it without the need to postpone it, as we were wont to do, and without danger of "getting the sack." Busy pens already are putting to paper the resolutions that—on a Sunday—our best clothes on-we shall pass, nemo con., demanding the "abolition of Capitalism," protesting against wages reduction, declaring our solidarity with Soviet Russia.

Speeches! "Some." Against Lloyd George, of course, against J. H. Thomas, of course. Yes, it will be fine, and the weather will be fine, too.

Labour is coming to its own, with the First of May on a Sunday.

The Miners are down. What matters?

We shall all be rich by the First of May, for the whole of the German gold reserve will pass into our hands.

Think of that, 'Enery!

It should be clearly understood that it is by no means claimed that all Communists will agree on all points raised by Lenin. Nevertheless, the book is invaluable to students of the revolutionary move-MIRREX. ment of the world.

WAGES AND COST OF PRODUCTION

It is quite easy to understand employers saying that it is high wages which are responsible for the high cost of living. As a matter of fact they have been reiterating that ever since the cost of living began to be alarming. But why some workers should agree is unexplainable. If you thought about the matter for yourselves instead of letting your masters think for you, you would not be so ready to repeat such a lie. For it is a lie, and its untruth can be demonstrated.

Let us assume that, if wages were reduced 10 per cent, the cost of production would come down by one-tenth in every industry. Now, supposing the cost of living came down by ten per cent., would you be any better off? Remember, your wages are 10 per cent. lower. But the wages of the other workers, who buy your commodities in England, are also ten per cent. lower, and do you think they would be able to buy any more of the commodities you help to produce? The answer is plain. They would not. It is conceivable, of course, that employers would be able to sell cheaper in the foreign markets through this ten per cent. reduction of wages, and that more trade would result in more work for our unemployed. But it would mean that some other workers would be put out of work in some other country, and the net gain to the workers of the world would be nil.

Now, it does not take much intelligence to see that the cost of production is an important factor in regulating the cost of living. But when it is tacitly assumed—and deliberately reiterated by the capitalists—that wages are the main factor in determining the cost of production, you are deceiving yourserves, and the capitalists are deceiving you. The truth is that the cost of living determines your wages. During the war you have seen your wages go up. What for? Because the cost of living was rising—and all the time your wages were painfully and vainly trying to catch up to the cost of living. The Press described this as the "vicious circle," and the false assumption was made that if wages stopped rising the cost of living would cease soaring. But they omitted to tell you a few facts that would have given their case away immediately.

Just consider these astounding facts. Sir L. G. Chiozza Money, in his "Riches and Poverty," says that-

"Nearly half of the entire income of the nation is enjoyed by but one-ninth of its population, and that more than one-third of the entire income of the United Kingdom is enjoyed by less than one-thirtieth of its people. "It will be seen that of a total of £277,000,000 per annum, as much as N197,000,000 is left at death by only 3,907 persons, giving an average of over £50,000 each. Eighty-sever persons die per annum worth £150,000 each; forty-eight die worth over £250,000 each; seventeen die worth over £500,000 each; and eight die worth nearly £3,000,000 each. Thus in an average year eight millionaires die leaving between them three times as muchi wealth as is left by 644,000 poor persons who die in one year. Again, in a single average year the wealth left by a few rich people who die approaches in amount the aggregate personal property possessed by the whole of the living poor. In an average year 27,000 persons die worth £257,000,000, while 686,000 persons die worth only £29,000,000."

How comes it, if wages are such an important factor in the cost of production that the people who receive wages are so dreadfully poor? If wages are such an important factor in costs, one would imagine that there would be little left for anybody else? But you can see from the above figures that somebody gets quite a lot after wages have been paid. These figures were compiled before that war, but they are as true to-day relatively, as they were then. Last year Bradford earned the name of the city of the 3,000 per cent. wool profits, And now the workers who helped to pile up those profits are in thousands of cases walking the streets starving.

The larger proportion of the wealth taken by the idle drones is the surplus left after wages have been paid. The rest is rent and interest. But you who made the wealth only received a pittance. Do you really believe that what you take from industry-your jerry-built houses, single rooms, shoddy clothes, third-rate furniture, cheap and nasty food, inadequate recreation, and meagre provision for sickness and unemployment do you really think that this reward for your industry represents an important part of the cost of production?

If it does, how is it that there is so much surplus wealth left for your masters and their class for joy riding, travel, banqueting; wintering in Switzerland, commodious mansions, town and country houses, etc.?

Does it not strike you that the greater portion of the cost of production is due to profit? And does it not occur to you that instead of high wages being responsible for the cost of living, it is the low standard of living of the workers which is primarily responsible for the piling up of millions by a handful of drones?

The only way to reduce the cost of existence is for all workers to take over the industries themselves.

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR LIBERTY An Anthology of Freedom

Over 200 great thinkers on Democracy and Government, Law and Lawyers, Individual Freedom, Bureaucracy, Empire and Liberty, and Free Society. "It is calculated to make thinkers and rebels."

6d. Net.

The Herald. Postage 12d.

London: C. W. DANIEL, Ltd., Graham House, Tudor Street, E.C. 4. List of Other Books on application.

SMALL ADVERTISEMENTS-1d. a Word.

FURNISHED FRONT ROOM for two or three TRUE Communists. Library in different land guages at disposal. -58, Fortess Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

Published by E. Sylvia Pankhurst at 152, Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4, and printed by S. Corlo at 10, Wine Office Court, Fleet Street, London E.O. 4.