Wireless Telegraphy in Russia.

Workers 3 Dreadnought Founded and Edited by

FOR INTERNATIONAL COMMUNISM.

SYLVIA PANKHURST

VOL. VIII. No. 12.

SATURDAY, JUNE 4th, 1921.

[WEEKLY.] PRICE TWOPENCE.

PRISON LIFE.

It is a strange contrast to go from Communist Russia, the highest point yet reached in civilisation, to Holloway Prison, where one comes in contact with some of the saddest miseries resulting from the capitalist system in directive centres of the largest and most powerful empire in the world. A term in prison has always meant to me a renewed spur to work for the overthrow of the hideous conditions of which prisons are a part.

When I first went to Holloway as a "hard labour" prisoner in 1906 for being a Suffragette, I passed, as number 12, through the hard mill of the ordinary prison treatment of those days, eating the oatmeal gruel and bread which then formed the greater part of the diet, sleeping on the wooden plank with the small and strangely hard herb-filled mattress and pillow, which still survive. "Don't look about you 12!" was the constant admonition I got as I passed with the line of women to chapel each morning, or into the exercise yard for halfan-hour once in three days. But I did look about me, and as the result of what I and others saw there, an agitation grew up which resulted in some minor amelioration of conditions for the ordinary prisoners. This agitation, when intensified by the hunger strike, secured also improved conditions for the political prisoners. In 1910 Parliament approved the making of rule 243a, under which political prisoners became entitled to have their own food sent into them from outside, to wear their own cret clothes, to receive a letter and a visit once a week, to have daily newspapers, as well loy as their own books, and writing materials, to write what they pleased during their imock prisonment, and to take this out with them vigit on the expiration of their sentence.

The very modest rights granted by rule 243a were much smaller than those acceed corded to political prisoners in some other countries, and to W. T. Stead and others imprisoned here in the days of our fathers. These rights were wrung from the Asquith Government after a hard struggle. The Lloyd George Government has taken them away.

They It is rumoured that ameliorations estading blished for the general body of prisoners are also to be withdrawn, and that the like Home Office wishes to "cut out Reform," the to abolish the hospitals, and make other thanges of which I shall write later.

When I went to prison on this occasion did not know whether rule 243a. was be be granted to me. I addressed a petition to the Home Office for the rights granted ander this rule, and received a negative reply. It was known to the authorities by medical evidence produced at my trial that I had collitis and other chronic ailments, and in my petition I referred to this, but wen the request for the food which might lave minimised the injury to my health, which must inevitably result from six months' imprisonment, was denied.

What I felt much more keenly was being deprived of writing materials and the opletter portunities of study and intercourse with current thought, which rule 243a would have afforded me.

Those who have not been in prison will not realise that I and the many other polical prisoners, in common with all the thousands of other unfortunates who fill the prisons of this country, are obliged every alternate week, on some unknown day, to submit to the indignity of a "general search," the prisoner's person and cell being simultaneously searched by the officers to see whether they may have in their possession anything they are not allowed to have. Prisoners are punished if they are found to have a pencil or any other such forbidden article, to be wearing more than the regulation number of prison garments, or to have more than the regulation amount of the inadequate bed covering under which they shiver in the cold winter nights, or to have exchanged a library book with a neighbouring prisoner, when both had read their books before the day for book-changing had come round. The last is a very common "offence," a pathetic circumstance. It is indeed cruel that the craving for mental occupation felt by these captives, a large proportion of whom have always been denied opportunities for study, should thus be crushed. Third Division prisoners and the great mass of prisoners, remember, are in the Third Division—are granted books from the prison library when the first month of the sentence has expired. Then they may have two "library books" every three weeks. Second Division prisoners have their "library" books changed each book, their educational books once a fortnight. Educational books, according to the rule card, include "all books of general interest other than novels and magazines." A large proportion of the educational books are small quarto volumes of a hundred or two hundred pages in these little scrappy book series which pretend to give a superficial knowledge to the million as it were in tabloid form. Such books, read in a few hours at most, do not deserve to be read several times in succession!

TO FIGHT AGAIN!
Comrade Sylvia Pankhurst.

Many women expressed to me their loathing of the "general search." "It degrades you so!" said a hard-working mother of seven, nursing her three months old baby, and serving her first offence. The prisoners are supposed to undress and hand their garments to the officer. The officers pull the coverings off the bed and search every corner of the cell. It is an unpleasant ordeal for them, as well as for the women who have to submit to it.

By SYLVIA PANKHURST

Even those reformists who imagine that they can do all that seems to them necessary in the way of improving the ordinary human lot within the capitalist system; should surely realise that it is a peculiarly gross scandal that Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Shortt, and the other members of the Coalition Government should be able thus to misuse and insult their political opponents.

What would have been said of the Russian Communist Government if the British and other Allied counter-revolutionaries, as well as the Russians of that brand, imprisoned in Red Russia, had been subjected to the indignities heaped upon me and my fellow Communists? (The Irish have had to endure the same conditions.) We know that those counter-revolutionaries imprisoned in Russia, loud though their complaints have been, were allowed to receive visits freely and to have food and comforts supplied to them in prison by friends and sympathisers. In this, as in every other respect the White Terror which is used in the effort to stop progress, is infinitely more severe than the Red Terror used to maintain the liberties of the masses against the selfish reactionaries, who would re-establish the cruelties and tyrannies of capitalism.

The odious "general search" was perhaps not in force when we were going to prison between 1905 and 1914; certainly I never heard of it. The search on entering the prison was greatly resented by the political prisoners of that period, and the old Suffragettes and their friends will remember that they thought 6 weeks a terribly long sentence in those days! To-day we Communists get six months for a speech or an article to which the authorities object. But those who stood up for political liberty and free speech when Suffragettes were burning buildings seem to be deaf and blind to what is in progress! Was it only the glamour of Albert Hall meetings and smartly-dressed ladies of the middle and upper classes which caused this fervour which was supposed to be animated solely by the love of political liberty? Do the liberty-loving Reformists forget that these monstrous sentences are still being imposed under the ill-omened Defence of the Realm Act, which was rushed into law under the pretence that it was merely to safeguard the country from foreign invasion.

When I entered Holloway as a Second Division prisoner last November, I was provided with the dietary which has replaced the one time "skilly" and bread of the Third Division and the old Second Division diet, and which is now supplied to all prisoners not in hospital. This is as follows:—

Breakfast.—Porridge without milk or sugar, and bread with a tiny scrap of margarine.

Dinner.—Two days a week dried beans, boiled, with about an inch of bacon fat, and potatoes (oh, what potatoes!); 2 days fish (of the horrible fish I shall have more to say presently), and potatoes; one day soup; one day stewed meat; one day pressed beef (the meat is in very small quantities and what a quality!); supper (or teal if you prefer to call it so; it is at 4 p.m.), cooks (Comrades, you would not like that cocoa!), dried beans and bread five days a week; one day tea and bread and a small piece of cheese.

I could not digest such food in my then state of health, and the time I had of it before I decided to appeal against my sentence made me quite ill. I contend that it is a highly unsuitable diet for people card states that prisoners who are diskept in confinement, and it is a painfully satisfied with their food may complain imlow one for anyone who has to work so mediately after the meal, but frivolous comhard as those of the prisoners who are plaints will be punished. I have known employed as cleaners and stokers in the prisoners refuse their fish and ask to have prison. Women whose children are born it shown to the doctor again and again in prison are put on this diet and sleep without being supplied with anything in one of the officers as she was crossing th on the plank beds in the ordinary cells its place. In spite of the frequent coma month after the birth of the child. Expectant mothers are also kept thus until the latter part of their pregnancy. There are women suckling their babies at 8 p.m. whose last nourishment for the day is at

I was out on bail whilst awaiting my appeal, and when it was refused and I returned to prison on January 5th, I was at once put into hospital where I saw for the first time nurses in prison. There officer that the fish was all streaked with cursory; at least in most cases. were none in the prison hospital up to the purplish blood and looked most revolting. several occasions, refused clothing which time of my last release in the summer of "Why is it like that?" I asked. She said though it had been washed, was less than 1914. I had always advocated their intro- "I couldn't eat it: would you like me to half clean, and still bore stains left duction into the prison hospitals as an ele- show it to the doctor?" I agreed; in the last wearer. mentary necessity of hospital management. any case I felt too ill to eat it. The A woman just sentenced for selling The officers always treated me with the lady superintendent passed round im- cocaine, whose husband was also newly cotton Trade Wages. utmost kindness, and I have none but grate- mediately afterwards. She came to me and imprisoned for the same offence, was ful remembrances of them. My feelings to- said she was sorry. I said: "The fish is formed that her husband was ill and not wards the nurses and officers are equally hardly ever fit to eat in here." She said: expected to recover. Her petition to be takcordial. As a matter of principle, how- "I have never heard anything about it!" en to his bedside was refused. A mother manely-disposed person would agree that doctor many, many times of it, and that some trifle had served half her sentence there should be none but nurses in the I knew that other prisoners were constant- when she was informed that her little chi hospital. To be ill for months at a time ly complaining—that, in fact, the matter of seven was not expected to live, and that in a narrow prison cell, quite cut off from was a by-word amongst the prisoners. I she was being operated upon. She coul one's home and family, and from the outer was asked if I would like to have some not go to see the child, and piteously wailed world, always seeing those mildew-coloured thing instead of the fish—as I have said, that it would have been kinder not to to faded dirty green walls and that door with I was well treated. its spy-hole, should be punishment enough to satisfy the most vindictive judge or magistrate, without any further intensification of the prison atmosphere-without the "general search," and so on-cocoa, or bread, as the doctor may order it. Some prisoners have fish every day, and are obtained mainly by the prisoners wor- one doesn't ask for more. rying the doctor persistently, in which case she may get the extra food if she is losing in prison. The prisoners throw their food weight. Patient people who do not press energetically for extras do not get them.

The hospital dietary is as follows: Breakfast. - Bread, a tiny bit of margarine, porridge, tea, or milk if the doctor orders it. Dinner.—Stewed meat four days, fish two days, potatoes, milk pudding.

The food is anything but tempting, the "hot" milk in the pint mugs is often only lukewarm, and is often sour in the depths of winter. Why is this? Are the utensils unclean? Is the place where the milk is kept unsuitable? Does the milkman supply inferior milk? These are the questions all the prisoners ask. The meat is nasty; so gorgeously, marred though you were by and warm tokens of affection give me re it comes round in dingy tins and has often a rainbow-coloured shine that would make anyone outside prison refuse to eat it. Why is the meat so bad; we all ask that. The potatoes, too, are badly cooked, and are usually very bad potatoes, often half

But it is the fish—and some prisoners get it every day—of which all complain sonment, I was in a cell with one of those be found. most. We smell it as it comes down the dull, small-paned windows, and it was so corridor. White fish is often a deep brown cold that on one occasion the thermometer colour. It seems to have been only half was only 43 degrees in my cell. There are as you build, Comrades, "we few, cooked, then taken out of the boiler or many nursing mothers in that part of the happy few, we band of brothers," soon to steamer and put in the tins on the top of prison. I was put there because the hos- be few no longer, to join you in building good luck and believe that actions speak louder the stove to keep hot for a long time, so pital was full; it is an old part of the pri- too my little bit of the Red International than words. that when it reaches the prisoner it is son, and should be pulled down.

dried up and sticks to the tin and, as The clothing is fantastically unlike and one tears it off, it breaks in bits. Mack- thing one wears outside, and many wome erel we had very often. I never realised are distressed by that. Worse before that a fish had so large a supply it is difficult to get changes of internal organs: it seemed that it had never went more not been cleaned as it should be. The rule plaints the fish continues bad. Who is to blame? Where does Holloway prison do

Rather more than a month before the said: "Yes, I am afraid of that." end of my sentence I was having long said: "Oh, we take precautions." attacks of pain after every meal, until the what are those precautions? The bath pain became almost continuous. One day not disinfected or scrubbed after one pain became almost continuous. I was feeling very poorly when mackerel soner uses it and before another steps was brought round. I pointed out to the to it. The entrance examination is qui

As of old, one still has the piece of tin instead of a knife; one is without a fork, but one has a spoon—a metal one instead of the old wooden germ-carrier. So slowly moves Reform! Oh, boasted humanitarianism of this twentieth century! Prisoners are supposed to have one enamelled plate in the cell. The pudding, nearly unable to find that sum. cold when it comes as a rule, is put in Supper.—Bread and a bit of margarine, and tea, one of the pint mugs by the officer, who doles it out of the large basin that she brings round. The quantities of food are nursing mothers and other patients have a very irregular; sometimes it is only a tiny Dear Comrades. pint of milk extra if the doctor orders it, bit of fish or meat, sometimes double or or, if the doctor orders it, Benger's or Al- treble the quantity—it is just a matter of lenbury's food and Bovril. These extras chance. Like Oliver Twist's companions,

> No one eats, no one sleeps the first month to the pigeons, and the prison yards and roofs are thronged with birds. Blackbirds and thrushes sang all day by my window. I listened in the earliest dawn to the chirp- cordial welcome that you have given to ing of little songsters who seemed to wan- me on my release. I want to tell y ton in ecstatic joy when the risen sun that, in those moments of despondency at last flooded the sky with radiant light. from which you and I and all. who are My little window, showing that patch of fighting in the uphill struggle of progress sky across which the cloud shapes sailed at times suffer, your generous appreciati those ugly bars, and you blithe little birds, how you helped me through those long, grey months! But except in the hospital. the cells have small-barred panes of dull glass, through which one could not see the cloud-shapes, and from some cells one sees only grey walls and not a glimpse of sky. During the first two weeks of my impri-without a change of all dergarments, but I had to agitate changes, and I know that many in pital were less fortunate. In the prison itself it is a common thing, the women say, to go five weeks without a change of clothing. I heard a cleaner complain yard that she had not had a change of stockings for six weeks. I often saw wo men and babies wearing broken boots.

The lady superintendent told me th venereal disease is rife in the prison.

Shop Assistants, Warehousemen and Clerks.

I met in prison a little girl of sixteen Tribute to the Miners. years, whose crime was kicking a police man who had arrested her sister, a g not much older, for some trifling offend This child had been kept in the remand prison for a month, then she was se tenced to two, in default of sureties £40. Her mother was a working woman

(To be continued.)

AN APPRECIATION.

I am sure our readers will join with i in appreciation of the splendid way which those who have carried on the Dread their work. On my return I received letters from Britain and abroad bearing congratulatory testimony to high Communist standard which the paper has maintained.

want, too, to thank you all for the newed courage.

I have come out of Holloway with mind brimming with ideas; in fact, I see a host of unworked fields of propaganda and research which I am confident will yield splendid treasures of impetus to our "Red Dawn."

Now for the energy and resources to wor them! With faith and goodwill these will

How glad I am to be free. How glad I has 9 am to join you in the great struggle, a week's work averaged about four days, but when the call came there was no complaint, no miser-

E. SYLVIA PANKHURST

INDUSTRIAL JOTTINGS. By WARD NEWTON.

"A few weeks ago we had a letter from a comrade in Ystrad, Rhondda. Not a long letter, nor was it a literary masterpiece. He simply said the owners on the basis of the settlement 'We were hungry when we came out, we are huned the Government will introduce legislation gry now, but there's grass on the mountains, and mpel a settlement by reference to an arbitra- we'll eat that before we give in.'

> miners. It is unconquerable. It is the spirit that will win the final battle in the class struggle.'

To those workers and Trade Union leaders who are still unconvinced of the necessity for "the strike to end all strikes," the present mining dispute should be a good object lesson. While the nals regarding British commodities is only equalled miners are holding out gallantly in the ninth week with no prospects of a satisfactory solution yet in sight, trade is getting worse, unemployment is in creasing by leaps and bounds, and it looks a if in place of the general strike threatened by the Triple Alliance and so basely betrayed, the masters will soon have turned the tables and declared a general lock-out. There may be some optimists who believe that such a contingency would be an opportunity for the workers to inaugurate a new society in which they would own the means of life and on the principle that only hungry men revolt there might seem to be some grounds for such optimism. But there are other factors to be The ballot of the Operative Cotton Spinners' considered. The gradual process of weakening the lgamation on the wages question shows 95% per workers' position by depleting their Union funds accepting the employers' proposal for a 30 leaves the masters in a much stronger position recent. decrease. The Negotiating Committee, latively; for though the tendency is towards a sisting of eight representatives from each side, general lockout and an absolute stagnation of all ever, I should have thought that every hu- Of course I told her that I had told the imprisoned for stealing are to meet, and failing an agreement, the mills trade it will not be allowed to develop to the will close on Saturday. Half a million operatives dangerous point. The unemployment insurance dole was created for the purpose of preventing absolute destitution and staving off this dangerous point; and when the workers are sufficiently weakened, can tender of £379 000 for switch-gear and transthe markets emptied of their surplus commodities, formers. This represents a saving of £200,000 on there will be a revival and the "shamming dead" a combination of sectional tenders by various Briperformance of many industries in Britain will tish firms. No British firm put in a tender for cease. It is all very well to talk about the miners the material in one lot.—Reuter.' fighting the battle of other workers; they are but what is the use of fighting if they cannot win in the end? I am not depreciating the miners' efforts; all honour to them. I am merely trying to show that the day has gone by for sectional fights. If it is necessary to consider all the effects of a general strike when a crisis develops, it is also stopping sledge-hammer blows all over the mecessary to follow the effects of a sectional fight. For two years prior to the lock-out, their and see where that leads to.

How Contracts are Lost.

It is customary for the suborned press to attribute the loss of any contract by a British firm to the greed and turbulence of the British worker, who, we are told, are gradually driving capital abroad and actually helping to kill Bri ish trade able wail about strike pay-they simply fell into and industry. These diatribes against the "lazy, rapacious" British worker contrast very strangely with the statements of writers in trade papers like "The British Trade Journal," who, when desirous of influencing foreign and Colonial buyers, are in the habit of extolling "British goods by British workers" as the "acme of perfection, and cheapest, by far in the long run." In discussing the rela-"Therein is expressed the spirit of the Welsh tive dimensions of say, American and British trade in Spanish America, we are led to believe that though the U.S.A. has geographic advantages, the superior quality of British goods will ensure a large measure of the trade, and so on. In fact, the cant and humbug to be found in trade jourby the lies and insinuations directed against the worker in this country, when it is a question of influencing him to be meek and thankful for small mercies. The British worker is probably no better or worse than the workers of other countries, everything else being equal; but it seems strange that to his face he should be told that he is a scamperer of work and through trade journals learn that he is remarkably efficient and industrious; strange, that is, to those who do not understand what a dirty game it all is. It is rare indeed that we hear anything in our hired press in the way of criticism of the British capitalist and his inability even to run his own business properly. However, the cat does sometimes come out of the bag. Here is a statement from the "Daily News" showing that there is a growing uneasiness even in the capitalist press as to the soundness of British methods, even from a capitalist point of view :

"HOW CONTRACTS ARE LOST.

"Melbourne, Tuesday, May 17th.—The Victorian Electricity Commission has accepted a single Ameri-

This is a striking commentary on the vaunted ability of the British manufacturer as second to none inh is abi'ity to compete with outsiders, and as wages are as high in Australia as in Britain, the question of the workers' greed is effectually precluded. We are told that Labour cannot govern : it is about time we told the British capitalist that he can't even run his own business properly.

RED YOUTH NOTES.

June 4, 1921.

The Mining Dispute.

ers, the Government have at last decided on her attempt to bring the dispute to a decision.

on tribunal. The amount of district wages, it suggested, and the proportion of profits to wages to be decided by either a National Wages Board a tribunal of three or a single arbitrator. The remarkable and significant feature of the Gov-ment's proposals is the deliberate ignoring of e principal issue of the dispute, namely, the na-is seems to me to be a deliberate challenge miners on the main issue for which they impartial method is really a coup by which overnment hopes to turn the minera from main demands. No doubt, in the event of sal by the miners to agree to the Government's me, placards will again be posted up with vernment propaganda declaring that the miners deliberately refused a fair and impartial treat-nt of the dispute. It remains to be seen whe-

£11,000. Notwithstanding the exceptional strain

the Union's funds caused by the present indus-

'The Record' (United Vehicle Workers) says position, the finances have been steadily im-er the miners will fall into the trap.

scheme of settlement and the pool.

are fighting, and under the guise of being a fair

Young International. The manifesto published by the Berlin Congress E.C. of that body, which we hope will hurry up of the Y.P.C.I. enflamed as with torches the hearts and get something done. many hundreds of thousands of young workers. Our Maxim No. 9 A few months after the Congress the following ornisations had already given their acquiescence to the programme formulated in Berlin, and had acnought during my absence have done cepted the tactics recommended. The Young Comnist organisation in Lithuania, White Russila, and he border countries; the great organisation in Rusprising over 100,000 members; parts in groups in Poland, the organisations in Spain, Switzerland, Belgium, Yugo-Slavia; ngary, Greece, the Young Communist Union in stria the Netherlands, the Free Socialist Youth many, the Young Unions in Sweden, Denmark, and strong groups in France and Czechoy and able revolutionary International of Youth.

> e E.C. of the I.P.S.M. has decided to susand the publication of the "Red Dawn" owing to the enormous financial loss resulting from its pubon. However, our old and trusted comrade, om Anderson, who is the editor of the paper, tepped forward and offered to publish it and seld; at one penny as an eight-paged paper, and furher has undertaken to take all the financial resibilities. "I can make it pay." he writes, it it must be a children's paper." We wish him response to the appeal contained in Comrade natter's letter, and which was published in By T. Islwyn Nicholas.

Ked Youth and Unity.

with the I.P.S.M. The matter now rests with the Thou shalt perform a mission in society by achieving an ideal of a fuller and higher life for all, in the abolition of classes, and by the regulation of industry by the Soviet Republic, which shall end the political State.

Louder and louder do we raise our cry, and ever loftier sound our songs:

Arise, ye prisoners of starvation! Arise, ye wretched of the earth, For justice thunders condemnation,

A better world's in birth. akia. New Young Communist organisations have And our cry and the song resounds in all countries nated at the same time in Ireland, Scotland, all over the world. They reach you, young comland, and Wales. Communist organisations have rades, suffering in the sulphur-mines of Silesia brought into existence in the United States, you hungering comrades in the factories and coaletc., as well as in the Far East, in Turke- mines of France, England and Germany; in the on stan and in Siberia. The Young International en- gigantic undertakings of America; you millions of es the world like a ring. There is no country tortured apprentices; you millions of young workhere groups and organisations of it are not active; ers of both sexes in Europe, America, Asia and no country wherein thousands of young hearts do Africa. Listen all of you! You feel your muscles not beat faster on hearing its name .. The first con- and nerves stiffening to the task; you leap up ition and proposition for a victorious realisation and out of want and misery, from dreary offices, the Proletarian Revolution is a united, trained, work-places, smoky factories, and dark mines and pits. Out of the cinema, the ale-houses and other places of self-delusion! Out of the bourgeois military clubs! Out of the Boy Scout corps! Out of the hypocritical neutral clubs! Out of the Labour Party! Your way leads to us-into our organisation. You belong to us. Enter the Young Communist League! A hundred thousand hands are thrust forth to you. Grasp them firmly, Comrades! Young soldiers of the Proletarian Revolution, of the Red Army, close up your ranks. Rally to ganised by the women. With pride the delegates the red banners of the Young People's Communist International! To hell with all national frontiers! Remove the frontiers! Hail the World Revolution!

At Pontypridd, on Tuesday, Dolling and Cook, these columns, the Young Workers' League has of- of the South Wales Miners, were committed to trial ered to discuss the question with a view to unity at the Assizes on the charge of unlawful assembly.

WOMAN'S CONFERENCE AT BERLIN.

On May 7th in Berlin the delegates of Communist women held a conference. Comrade Hertha Sturm gave a specially interesting report of the agitation which was being carried on amongst the women. Many holders of mandates for town and county councils expressed themselves on communistic work inside these bourgeois parliamentary bodies. Without exception the speakers declared for a stricter centralisation, so that the parliamentary fractions should work in closer touch with the party, and subordinate themselves to party discipline. Proposals for practical reform should only have as their object the exposure of the falseness of the bourgeois and pseudo-socialist govern-

Comrade Berta Braunthal gave a report on the women's organisation. In point of membership she showed the progress of the women's movement in the whole country. "The Kommunistin," the official organ of the women's organisation, shows an increased circulation of from eight to ten thousand per week. A short time ago only 25,000 to 30,000 were sold, now it exceeds 50,000. Also the "Tribune of the Proletarian Woman" which appears every Saturday as a supplement to the Berlin "Rote Fahne," has a large reading public.

Speakers from all parts of Germany took part in the discussion. The delegates of Central Germany and Hamburg described the part taken by women in the revolutionary action of the party. Their fighting spirit was unbroken, in spite of the dreadful suffering that was going on all round them. We are organising and working now in readiness for the next "action, which must be managed in a more united and effectual manner." Not discouragement, but firm defiance and rage against the hordes of the counter-revolution are the results of the great fights. Help for the people who were being pursued and imprisoned had been orspoke of women who had fought side by side with men in Central Germany, or who had nursed the wounded as red sisters, and who were thrown into gaol as punishment. Many a one amongst the delegates had the beadles on her track, but fear for personal safety no longer actuated these people. This conference in Berlin is yet another proof of the strength of the movement in Germany. We wish our German comrades every success, and send them our greeting.

SOUTH AFRICAN VIEWS OF

EMIGRATION AND BIG FINANCE.

To Emigrate or not to Emigrate?

We cull the following from "The South African

"Mr. Lloyd George, representing the traditions

Tory attitude towards the unemployed, recommen emigration to British Dominions oversea. T is one British Dominion oversea, however, emign tion to which is being discouraged excepting i of course is South Africa. Mr. W. H. Tatlow

head of the Union Publicity Department, is lea campaign. He says that as the result of his ton

Africa, that is, settlers with from £1,500 to £15, out his campaign was to deter people who w not of the right type from going to South Africa

The Memorial Settlers' Association also will a

"There was issued from the office of the Ba of England recently the announcement that bank rate had been reduced to 61 per cent., a

"Stockbrokers are now speculating on the pr pects of a revival of the markets with the lif of one of the most restricting influences on bu

"The name 'Bank of England' misleads many i to supposing that it is a national institution, but is purely a private concern, as private as the Stand ard Bank or the National Bank. It is seen, th that a flew private persons, directors of the B.

of England, make decisions which affect 'busin and trade generally.' By restricting credit, bank rate they can ma kemillions busy. And despite such a truth as this being blazoned lace still allow themselves to remain under doping impression that their welfare resides their elected representatives in Parliaments assem-

"It is not, however, the directors of the Ba of England alone who decide matters of life a death to millions of people by a stroke of the p

This is only the office from which, the annou

ments are issued. The decision is made by a Su

Cabinet of British, American, French and German

Financiers. This super-cabinet sat in conference at Paris simultaneously with the Peace Conferen and dominated the latter. Subsequently it met

Brussels and decided upon the war on wages, to

The simple meaning of this war on wages was enterprise must be restricted, and unemployn made rife, until existing finance had been adjust

That is to say they were to be paid first, when the money came in they would kindly it out again. This policy set up by the Sup

Cabinet (International Conference of Financiers Brussels) was immediately adopted by all Gover

ments simultaneously and by the Smuts Governn the more slavishly of all. Even one of their supporters (Mr. Macintosh, member for Port E.

beth) has said so, and it is precisely true."

waged by means of a general restriction of cred raising the bank rate, they can throw milli out of work; by relaxing credit, by reducing the in the Press (and many others also, revealing the consider settlers with less than £1,500.

Big Finance the World's Ruler.

Reuter cabling the news, said :-

ness and trade generally.

The Super Cabinet Uber Alles.

and that one thing kept in the forefront through ing England this week after his busy advertising

many settlers of the right sort will come to South rrespondent in the Mid-

By HERMAN wists everypertinent remarks

OPEN LETTER TO COMRADE LENIN.

An Answer to Lenin's Brochure: "'LEFT WING' COMMUNISM: AN INFANTILE DISORDER."

(Comtimued.)

From the necessity of this development in Western Europe (which has sprung up through the power of the banking-capital), it is also clearly evident that those who already now in the beginning and the course of the revolution wish to place the Arbeiter-Union, the Industrial Union, the in-Justrial organisation, above the Party, or who even wish to abolish the latter, are wrong.

trial Union come very near to one another. all equivalent, and are blended into one whole. Finally, of course, the power and the unity of

It is the task of the German and English, the can proletariat can conquer.

Whoever fails to understand from the productive and class-relations of Western Europe what the relations between the leaders, the party the class and the mass are, does not understand a thing of the revolution in Western Europe, nor of its necessary stipulations. Whoever wishes to conduct the West-European revolution according to the tactics and by the road of the Russian revolution,

From these West-European, and to some extent also from the American and Anglo-Colonial relations, it is therefore perfectly evident that there is only one kind of tactics that in West Europe (and North America) can lead to the victory, and those are the tactics of the Left Wing, in the name of which I am speaking. For these shall have relatively little power, and the class a relatively far greater power. These say that for the time being the class and the rest of the masses cannot be one. These claim that the entire and class shall become one. These, in order to obtain that end, wish to destroy the bourgeois Trade Unions, and replace them by communistic industrial tions, the substitutes for the Trade Unions, the greatest of class organisations (in Germany they equal to the class. These are against parliamentarism, thus rendering every worker, and conse-legation that in England a quite small Communist things by the Russian example. And it is on such mistaken notions that the tactics of the Execu-pagate these views, do not understand a thing about the class relations in Western Europe and North America. †

To these observations I need only add that of the entire proletariat in Western Europe and promise with the bourgeois parties in the revolu-America becoming communistic, I mean as big as tion.

we must tend, as the aim of our tactics. To all makes them believe that here a compromise with probability it will be impossible and unnecessary the social-patriots and the wavering (!) elements in to completely achieve it. But the unity of party parliament can lead to any good, whereas it brings and class, and the portion of the proletariat that hardly anything but calamity. has to become communistic, are so immeasurably greater here than in Russia, that this ideal in the tactics must be brought to the front. ‡

Lenin's Third Arguments.

sian examples. You mention them repeatedly (on like Scheidemann, Clynes, Renaudel, Kautsky, Macpp. 1-9 they occur several times). I have read donald, Longuet Vandervelde, Branting and Troelthem with the greatest attention, and, as I ad- stra have landed us. (It must inevitably fill all mired them before, I do now. I have been on your these with great joy, and the bourgeois parties liker side ever since 1903. Also when I did not know wise, if these understand it.) This book is to the your motives as yet the connections being cut off communistic revolutionary proletariat what Bern--as at the time of the Brest-Litovsk peace, I de- stein's book has been for the pre-revolutionary profended you with your own motives. Your tactics letariat. It is your first book that is not good. were certainly brilliant for Russia, and it is owing For Western Europe it is the worst book imaginable. to these tactics that the Russians have triumphed But what does this prove for Western Europe? Nothing, according to my idea, or very little. The ward, and must criticise as keenly as possible all Soviets, the dictatorship of the proletariat, the me-For only thus, through this blending of cen- thods for the revolution and for the reconstruction, the right way. †† tralisation in the leadership, and under the con- all this we accept. Also your international, foreign trol of the members, the West-European and Ameri- tactics have been-so far at least-exemplary. But for your tactics for the countries of Western Eur-

How could the tactics in the East and West of class, and the communistic spirit of the entire Europe possibly be the same? Russia, a country this point are disastrous for the proletariat. And proletariat in Western Europe and America are chiefly of agriculture, but with an industrial capi- with these mistaken or insignificant motives you absolutely necessary. For here the counter-revolu- talism that was only partially highly developed, hide the fact that you are bringing hundreds of tion is so powerful, that in case these two con- and very small as compared to the land. And fed, ditions were not fulfilled-in case, for instance, moreover, to a great extent by foreign capital i a new class of rulers sprang up, out of the in- In Western Europe, and especially in England and tellectuals and the bureaucracy, so that corruption Germany, it is just the opposite. With you: all reigned—the revolution would soon perish. Now the old-fashioned forms of capital yet, from the OPPORTUNISM IN THIRD INTERNATIONAL. power wielded by private persons over the fortunes already the tactics must be on the watch to pre- usury capital upwards. With us: almost exclusively a highly developed banking-capital. With is of such immense weight that I must deal with you: immense remains of the feudal and pre- it more at length. feudal times, and even out of the times of the tribe of barbarism. With us, and especially in Eng- International, opportunism has not died in our ranks merce, transport industry, in the ban of the highest developed capitalism. With you: immense remains of serfdom, the poor peasants, and in the killed the Second International, did not live on the poor peasants in relation with modern production, transport, technique and exchange. And in the city as well as in the country the middleclass, also the lowest layers, in direct contact with the great-capitalists. political parties. And with us, nothing of all nism of your tactics.

you so captivatingly describe it, this making use sian standpoint, is the following: After the Gerof the rifts even between the Liberals and the man revolution had been beaten down, after the land-owners, was good with you. With us it is Bavarian and the Hungarian revolutions had been impossible. Consequently, the difference in tac- crushed, Moscow said to the German and the Huntics-in the East and the West. Our tactics fit garian proletariat: "Be comforted, and bear up. our conditions. They are just as good as yours for in March and July, 1917, we also were dewere under Russian conditions.

12 13 26 27 37 40 51 and 52. But no matter what this time again Moscow is saying the same to the these examples may mean for the Russian Trade Czecho-Slovakian workers. But the Russians have mean nothing at all, as here the proletariat needs peasants did no longer support Kerensky! Where, far stronger weapons. As far as parliamentarism Oh Executive Committee, are the millions of poor is concerned, your examples have been taken from peasants in Germany, Bavaria, Hungary, and in a period when the revolution had not broken out Czecho-Slovakia? There are none. Your words (pp. 16, 26, 41 and 51, for instance), and these, are just utter nonsense. The perniciousness of these therefore, either do not apply to the point in question, or in so far as you could use the parties that they console the workers by means of a false of the poor peasants and small bourgeoisie, they image, but more especially in the fact that they fail 40, 41 and 51), as to mean nothing for us. **

It seems to me, Comrade, that your utterly wrong judgment, the utterly mistaken conception of your book, and no less the tactics of the Executive nally." Instead of this lesson, however, we only quently the entire proletariat, independently revo- in Moscow, are to be attributed exclusively to the hear; "It will go with you as it did with us!" Is fact that you do not know enough about relations They, the Left party, act in perfect accordance over here, or rather that you fail to draw the right Moscow, all over Western Europe there should arise proletariat, the world-proletariat, the world-revo- that here we are always speaking of a disarmed Only quite recently you said to a British de- lution depend on this—that neither you, nor the proletariat. If, through some reason or other: Executive of Moscow, as long as you adhere to through a new war, or later on, in the course Party would be able to accomplish the revolution. these tactics, are able to direct the West-Euro- of the revolution, the proletariat should once more Here, again, you speak as a Russian, and judge pean, and consequently the World Revolution. You ask: Is it possible that you, who wish count. to reform the world, cannot even form a fraction in parliament?

Labour Movement in False Grooves.

We answer: This book of yours is a proof in itself that whoever tries to do the latter is bound to lead the Labour movement into false grooves,

Gradually, as the Party grows stronger, as the Union grows, as the class becomes more and more communistic, as the revolution approaches its goal, class, party, and Arbeiter-Union or Industhe end the Party, the Union and the class are all bourgeois classes, and the necessary unity of the entire proletariat, render a strong centralisation and a strict discipline, in the Party as well as in the Union, absolutely necessary.

West-European and American proletariat to combine centralisation and discipline with the strictest control of, with the power over the leader-

It need hardly be explained here, that also af- ope it is different. And this is only natural. ter the revolution the dictatorship of the entire

How different from Russia, all this! How different from Russia, where, through the economic conditions, through the class relationsand rightly, therefore-a handful of people rule the Party, where an infinitesimally small party rules the class, and a minutely small class the entire nation; where no Arbeiter-Union is needed, where the class, and the great majority of the remaining working masses, the small peasants, were one in the revolution!

is not qualified to conduct it.

The Left Wing Tactics.

claim that the leaders, as compared to the classes, class shall become truly communistic, through a truly Communist propaganda, that therefore party organisations, thus rendering also those organisanumber over ten millions of proletarians already), tive and of the International are based! *

Those, however, who think, and say, and pro-possible a unity, and a great part of the proletariat. It makes them believe in something that does not I represent the total Unity and the entire prole- exist: the possibility of the bourgeois parties being tariat as the Ideal, as the goal towards which divided in Western Europe, in the revolution. It

> Your book leads the West-European proletariat back into the morass, from which at the cost of the greatest efforts it has not yet escaped, but is beginning to escape. Next I come to your third argument: the Rus- It leads us back into the morass, in which men

> We, comrades of the Left Wing, must stand close together, must start everything from below upthose that in the Third International do not go

> Thus the conclusion to be drawn from all these arguments about parliamentarism, is as follows: Your three arguments for parliamentarism mean either very little, or they are wrong. And, as in thousands of opportunists into the Third Inten-

Comrade! With the establishment of the Third either. We see it in all Communist parties, in all countries. Also it would be truly miraculous, and against all the laws of development, if that which in the Third. On the contrary, just as the fight between anarchism and social,-democracy was fought in the Second International, that between opportunism and * I here point out the contradiction between this You still have classes with which the rising pro- opinion and the effort of winning millions of waverletariat can unite. The very existence of these ing elements for the Third International. Third classes helps. The same applies, of course to the contradiction is another proof for the opportu-

† A very strong proof of how the Board of the Of course the compromising in all direction, as Third International judges all things from the Rusfeated; but in November we won. As it went I find your Russian examples especially on pages with us, it will go with you." And to be sure, Union question (page 27), for Western Europe they won in November exclusively because then the poor Moscow tactics, however, does not lie solely in are so different from conditions here (pp. 12, 37, to draw the right conclusion from the defeat in Germany, Bavaria Hungary and Czecho-Slovakia. The lesson they teach is this: "Destroy your Trade Unions, and form industrial unions, thus rentherefore to the class relations as they actually conclusions from what you know, that you judge one firmly organised, iron opposition? It is a are in Western Europe, and are entirely in the things too much from the Russian point of view. question of life and death for the world-revoluright over against the Executive Committee, the This means, however—and it should be emphasised tion itself. And also for the Russian revolution.

obtain the arms, the above-named conditions do not

** To deal with all these Russian examples would be too monotonous. I request the reader to read them all over. He will see that what I have said above is right, †† Personally I believe that in countries where the revolution is far off yet, and the workers are not yet strong enough to make it, parliamentarism where I speak of the unity of party and class, The book deludes the workers of Western Europe parliamentary delegates is necessary in that case. can yet be used. The sharpest criticism of the that is attained at last, and of the possibility by means of illusions, of the impossible: com- Other comrades, I believe, are of a different opinion.

Editor: SYLVIA PANKHURST.

All Matter for Publication to be Addressed to the Editor Business Communications to the Manager: Workers' Dreadnought, 152, Fleet Street, London, E.C.4. TELEPHONE: CENTRAL 7240, SUBSCRIPTION: THREE MONTHS (13 weeks) ... Post Free 2/9 SIX MONTHS (26 weeks)

ONE YEAR (52 weeks) ... Vol. VIII. No. 12. Saturday, June 4, 1921

A QUERY AND AN ANSWER. Comrades, why did the Capitalist Press give publicity to the trial, imprisonment, and release of the Editor of this paper? Because the subject was "good copy." In other words, the Press knew that the public wanted to know about it and would buy the Capitalist newspapers if they gave reports and pictures of the event. Like the Capitalist Press, we know that the people, the masses in whose interests we are fighting, want to read the Dread-

But they do not know the Dreadmought, and they do not know where to buy it. We have not the means to tell them in the way the Capitalist tells them. We cannot employ armies of publicity agents. We cannot placard the walls and the booksellers' stalls. We cannot afford to make a splash with advertisements.

But you can do the work, you can advertise more efficiently than the millions of Capitalism because you are not paid hacks, but enthusiasts with principles to adver-

The moral is: increase your order for the Dreadnought, and see that you dispose of every copy.

A BIG SACRIFICE.

Dear Comrade Pankhurst,-I do hope that your health will permit you to take up your duties as Editor at an early date. You have once more made a big sacrifice for what you believed to be right. We are in the final struggle. Our enemy, driven into a corner fights with more ferocity. I must congratulate the Comrades who, in your absence, kept the "Dreadnought" up to the high standard which you set. With best wishes from the Communist Party of South Africa, I remain, yours for Communism, A. B. Dunbar (of the Communist Party of South Africa).

WHAT GERMAN WOMEN THINK.

THE PERSON NAMED IN COLUMN TWO IS NOT THE OWNER.

The "Sanctious" and the Working Women. (From the Silesian "Arbeiter Zeitung.) Everyone to-day is talking about "sanctions." What are these sanctions? Why are they exciting the people so much? What is expected of them? ders from Downing Street, notwithstanding any ukase rad Noel for his bravery in proclaiming to the the victorious Entente in order to recover the debts name of the Commonwealth, may see fit to con- Nazarine is Communism. We think he is r which the German bourgeoisie took over by signing tract.

the Peace Treaty of Versailles. How did these debits come about? The Entente set out to make a peace "without annexations or indemnities "-that is to say, without robbing territory or costs of the war. Now, the Entente does not call the occupation of German territory annexation, but the emancipation of Alsace Lorraine, also the emancipation of the Saar province; while the debts which the German Government is to pay are not costs of the war but "reparations" of what has been destroyed during the war. These names, therefore, are chosen, and now we are coming to the gist of the matter. The Entente needs these costs. The German bourgeoisie cannot pay them, and will not pay them. The Entente will and must force the German bourgeoisie to pay, therefore they occupy fresh provinces, namely the most important industrial provinces (the Ruhr district and perhaps also Upper Silesia). They take for themselves pledges, for exand industrial undertakings. What can the German bourgeoisie do against that?

First of all they can try to keep for themselves paid and made." the war material, but they would not be so foolish as that, for they know that nothing is to be got der of society, the upholders of capitalism are out of that. They are making counter-proposals; they are falling in with the demands of the Entente; they will pay.

But where will they get the money? They protest that they have not got it, and yet they have of that! They will squeeze that sum out of the Review," the oldest weekly journal published working-class. What does that mean?

It is very simple. Wages are reduced, the hours of labour are increased, the prices are raised for the necessaries of life (bread and clothing). Taxes are raised. Everything is taxed now as far up as the air. Factories which do not "pay" are shut down. In short, they are trying to raise their profits, so that they can push their debts off on to their dupes without being disturbed in their own habits and style of living.

But what does this mean for the proletariat What does this mean especially for the working-class IT MEANS THE GRADUAL DEATH OF THI

GERMAN PROLETARIAT. All the misery that is already there must increase enormously. The lack housing and infantile mortality will both in-

AGAINST THAT? The bourgeoisie say "Work and weep, because William of the mailed fist is no longer here to protect his people"; the S.D.P. and the U.S.P. say: "Yield. Bear all the burdens and rely on the time when 'justice' will once more come into the world, and when the proletarians of other countries shall revollt"; the Communists say: "Chase the bourgeoisie to the devil, and take the fate of the country into your own hands." But the women will say to that: "Oh, this is civil war! The Entente will demand me same thing from us!" True! But the way of the bourgeoisie is the way to certain ruin, and so we ask the proletarian woman: "What is the better thing for the proletariat. To plerish slowly, from pestilence, starvation, and nakedness, or to go to war, where of course many husbands and sons of the proletarian women will fall, but where the whole class will be saved, for then the profetarian Germany will · link up with proletarian Russia, and will at least be able to keep its head above water, while if it gives into its bourgeoisie it is condemned

Then indeed Soviet Germany will take on itself the burden of the debts, but only until such time as the preletarians of the Entente countries wake up; just as the Russian profetariat were obliged to bear the consequences of the Treaty of Brest until the German workers revolted in 1918.

The Entente proletariat will not look unmoved on a proletarian Germany. Revolutions are catching and do not stop at political boundaries. The proletarian woman must now in such a case decide for the civil war, for the overthrow of the bourgeoisie, because a lingering death is more terrible than a short fight for freedom, which ## can be the only safe way. AUSTRALIAN LABOUR AND FUTURE

"Labour [in Australia] has now determine -and determined officially-that so far as Australia is concerned, it will never again become the catspaw of the capitalistic system in waging wars outside the Commonwealth."-" The Australian Worker." This journal further remarks:-"Labour in Australia will henceforth mind its own business, and have no truck with those treaties, combinations and understandings which hitherto have committed the workers to draw the sword in securing new markets, or in settling other people's quarrels. "Furthermore, Labour determines to take no or-The sanctions are oppressive measures used by or obligation which William Morris Hughes, in the world that his definition of the teaching of "More than that, Australian Labour, instead of is promulgated in the Gospels, then he was a Co being 'a bad advertisement,' now sets the pace and munist, without doubt. Therefore, Christians, if workers the world over fall into line there your aim is to follow the Christ, nail his colon will be an end to international strife. Confined to your mast, as has the Rev. Conrad Noel. to their own borders the bottom falls out of the mischievous machinations of trade marauders and

"The present chaos of the nations, and the absolute impotence of the old gang to straighten the tangle, forces the conviction that Labour in its solidarity can alone place this dottering, tottering, war-tossed world upon an even keel, and the Sydney determination points the way."

PRINCE OF WALES.

Mediæval Court Revival.

According to the "Morning Post," a mediæval custom was revived at Launceston, the old-time capital of Cornwall, by the Prince of Wales, as ample: the taxes, certain duties, tasks, railways, Duke of Cornwall, holding a court of fee, and receiving from his tenants, in person, "those rents, customs, and services anciently accustomed to be

So as we, comrades, go on toward the new orendeavouring to go backward to mediævalism and feudal domination. Onward, forward press, comrades, for the new must ever outrun the old.

THE RED VICAR. Our thanks and congratulations to the Rev. If the Nazarine existed as a man, and his teachi

DREADNOUGHT DEVELOPMENT FUND

(Additional to week ending 17th May.) Hatfield friend (to make up deficit last week's £30), £12 10s. Week ending, 24th May.—Six Comm pists, 6s 6d; Brett, 5s; Anon., 5s; "Inky 4s; Miss Ella Wright, £1; Mrs. Beckett £1; Mr Foxall, 2s 6d; Wm. Reid, 10s; Bernstein, 2s 3d; F. Robinson, 2s; Lei Rothwell, £1; Geo. Sear, 4s; Anon., Total, £16 11s 3d.

Week ending May 31st.—Mrs. A. bert, 5s; A. Symes, 2s; Anon., £2; S. A. Chandler, 7s; Anon., 2s 6d; Cl 6d; three members of Sir Basil Thom son's staff, £1; F. Thomas, 2s 6d; Bruslem, 5s; A. Revolutionist, 3s; lection at reception, £5 12s 9d. £10 Os 3d.

for Communism, Communism will be used to found our tactics. parties. But parliamentary compromises with social patriots and bourgeois elements will once more come in use, as after all the revolution in Western Europe is going to be a slow process. The freedom of speech will be suppressed, and all good Communists expelled. In a word, all the practices of the Second International will come to life again. To this the Left Wing must oppose itself; i has to be there, to wage this fight, as it was there in the Second International. Herein the Left Wing must be supported by all Marxists and revolution, aries, also i'f these are of opinion that in detail the Left Wing is mistaken-for opportunism is our greatest enemy. Not only, as you say (p. 13) outside, but also within our ranks.

from the twenty-five years of struggle.

brought about all evils, reformism, the war, the be of no avail. defeat, the death of the revolution in Hungary and Germany. Opportunism is the cause of disaster. And it exists in the Third International.

What do I need many words for? Look arour you, Comrade. Look into yourself, and into the Executive Committee! Look into all countries of Europe.

Feeble Criticism.

of Parliament, and compare this to the paper of matter whether those masses are communistic or no. the Left Wing. A comparison between these two will show you that opportunism is approaching the Third International, in immense masses. more (through support of the counter-revolutionary workers) to obtain power in Parliament. A power after the pattern of the Second International. Remember, also, that soon the U.S.P. will enter the Third International, and numerous other Centre parties besides! Do you not believe that if you compel these parties to expel Kautsky that a swarm of tens of thousands of other opportunists will come? The entire measure of this expulsion is childish. An innumerable stream of opportunists is approaching ## especially since your brochure.

Look at the Dutch Communist Party, once called the Bolshevists of Europe. And rightly so, taking into account the conditions. Read the brochure about the Dutch Party, how utterly already it has been corrupted by the opportunism of the Second International. During the war, and after it, and even to this day, it has pledged itself to the Entente. The once brilliant party has become and Left Wing has to be there. Even if there should example of equivocality and deceipt.

the revolution has started. There opportunism lives opportunism and thrives. We were utterly amazed on hearing that you defended the attitude of the K.P.D. tactics of the Left Wing in the Third International; to, but because otherwise we cannot become strong during the March days. But fortunately we learnt those tactics, that are nothing but the "pure" from your brochure that you did not know the tactics of the Bolshevists in Russia, adapted to before the revolution, there is no country where actual course of development. You did sanction the West-European (and North-American) condi- the proletariat is as much corrupted by reformism the attitude of the K.P.D.-Zentrale, that offered tions! loyal opposition to Ebert. Scheidemann, Hillferd- If only, as stipulations and statutes for the Third become a mass-movement there (with parliamentar ing and Crispien, but you evidently did not know, at the time of writing the brochure, that this happened in the same moment, in which Ebert collected the troops against the German proletariat, in which the universal strike was still spread all over Germany, and in which the great majority of the Communist mass strove to bring the revolution if not to the victory (perhaps this was hardly possible as yet), but at any rate to a higher strength. Whilst the mass, by means of strikes and armed revolt, conducted the revolution into a further stage (there has never been them, through their own example, in their own anything more hopeful or gigantic than the re- country, and not through pressure from outside. volt in the Ruhr region, and the general strike). Then you would have had economic organisations the leaders offered parliamentary compromises. In that would have annihilated the counter-revolutionso doing they supported Ebert against the revo- ary Trade Unions (the syndicalistic as well as the lution in the Ruhr region. *† If ever an example free). proved how damnable the use of parliamentarism And then with ONE stroke you would have cut is in the revolution, it is this one. You see, off the way for all opportunists. For these can Comrade, that is the parliamentary opportunism, thrive only where there is plotting with the counthat is the compromise with the social-patriots and ter-revolution. the Independents, which we refuse to accept, and which you try to further.

of the industrial councils in Germany? You and gree, as far as it is possible in the present stage. cial-patriots. the Executive of the Third International had ad- If you, Lenin, and you, Zinoviev, Bucharin and vised the Communists to unite with all the other Radek, had done this. had chosen these tactics, Germany, had predicted this. If the leaders trends, in order to obtain the lead of the Trade with your authority and experience, your strength the Spartacus League would be placed before the Unions. And what has happened? The opposite. and genius, and if you had helped us to eradicate choice between Parliament and Revolution, they The industrial Zentrale has well-night developed the faults that cling to us as yet, and to our would choose Parliament. into an instrument of the Trade Unions. The Trade tactics, then we would have got a Third Interna- + The English Communists for instance, with re-Unions are an octopus, strangling everything living tional that was perfectly firm internally, and un- gard to the most important matter of affiliation that comes within its reach.

Comrade, if you read, and investigate everything gradually have gathered the entire proletariat Communists will go into parlia, that is being done in Germany, in Western Europe, around it, through the force of its example, and recome leaders. Trade Unions and Lar I have full confidence that you will come over which would have erected Communism. ar parties will be supported for the sake of votes to our side. Just as I believe that your experiences in the elections. Instead of parties being founded in the Third International will convert you to

However, if opportunism proceeds thus in Germany, now will it be in France and England! You see, Comrade, those are the leaders we do not want. That is the unity of mass and leader that we do not want. And that is the iron discipline, the military obedience, submission and servility that we do not want.

Permit us to add here one word to the Executive Committee, and especially to Radek: The Executive Committee has had the insolence to demand of the K.A.P.D. that they should expel Wolfheim and Lauffenberg, instead of leaving them to settle this for themselves. It has received the K.A.P.D. with threats, and has pandered to the central parties, as the U.S.P. But it did not de-It would be a thousand times worse, that op- mand of the Italian Party that it should expel portunism, with its devastating effect on the soul the Zentrale which, through its offer, was partly and the strength of the proletariat, should again responsible for the murdering of Communists in slip in, than that the Left Wing should be too the Ruhr region. It did not demand of the Dutch radical. The Left Wing, even though at times it Party that it should expel Wynkoop and van Revershould go too far, ever remains revolutionary. The stevn, who during the war, offered Dutch ships Left Wing will alter its tactics as soon as it sees to the Entente. This does not mean to say that I follow once more your opportunist methods that that they are not right. The opportunistic Right myself wish those comrades to be expelled. On I have already refuted: the profiting of "rifts," will grow ever more opportunistic, will sink ever the contrary, I hold them to be good comrades, of small bourgeois enements, etc. more into the morass, will corrupt the workers to who have gone wrong only because the development, an ever greater extent. Not in vain have we learn't the beginning of the West-European revolution, is so You judge as a Russian, not as an international Opportunism is the plague of the Labour move- make many big mistakes as yet. Moreover, the talism. ment, the death of the revolution. Opportunism has expulsion at present, in this International, would Every word almost of this chapter, wonderful

I only point this out to demonstrate by another example how fiercely opportunism is raging already in our own ranks. For the Moscow Central Committee has committed this injustice against the K.A.P.D. only, because for her opportunistic worldtactics it did not want the really revolutionary elements, but the opportunistic Independents, etc. On purpose it has used the tactics of Wolfheim and "The avant-garde of the West-European proletarias Lauffenberg against the K.A.P.D., although it knew has been won" (p. 70). This is wrong, Comrade. Read the papers of the British Socialist Party, that the K.A.P.D. did NOT agree with these tac- "The period of propaganda is past" (p. 69). This now the Communist Party. Read ten, twenty num- tics-for the most miserably opportunistic of rea- is not true. "The proletarian avant-garde has been bers of this paper; read the feeble criticism against sons. Because it wants to have masses round it, the Trade Unions, the Labour Party the Members like the Trade Unions and the political parties, no

> Two moreo ther sections of the Third International prove clearly whither it is drifting. The first is the discharge of the Amsterdam Bureau, the ONLY group of revolutionary Marxists and theoreticians in Western Europe, that has never wavered. The second action, which is almost more serious, is the treatment of the K.A.P.D., the ONLY party in Western Europe which, as an organisation, as a whole, from its very origin upward, has conducted the revolution as it should be conducted. Whilst the Centre parties, the Independents, the French and English Centre, that ever betrayed the revolution, were allured by all possible means, the K.A.P.D., the real revolutionaries, were treated as enemies. Those are bad

In a word: the Second International is still alive, or again alive, in our midst. And opportunism leads to ruin. And because this is so, and because opportunism is very strong amongst us, far stronger that I could ever have imagined, the be no other good reasons for its existence, it would But look at Germany, Comrade, the land where have to be there as opposition, to counter-balance

Alas, Comrade, if only you had followed the Germany, must remain small, not because we like International, you had proposed and carried through the economic organisation in industrial organisations and workers' unions (into which, if need be, industrial unions on a craft basis might have been in- where. troduced), and the political organisation into parties with the rejection of parliamentarism'!

Then you would in the first place have had, in all countries, absolutely firm kernels, parties that could really carry out the revolution, parties that would gradually have gathered the masses around portant point-you would have educated the work- quarters of the French Socialist Party joined, which And, Comrade, what has become, already now, ers into independent fighters to a very high de- until quite recently were for the greater part soshakable externally, an International which would to the Labour Party.

June 4, 1921.

It is true there are no tactics without defeat. But these would have suffered least defeat, and would most easily have recovered from it; they would have gone the quickest way, and would have won the quickest and surest victory. Yours lead to repeated defeat for the proletariat.

However, you have rejected this, because, instead of conscious, steadfast fighters, you wanted partly or wholly unconscious masses.

CONCLUSION. Finally I have to make a few observation regarding your last chapter: "Conclusions," the most important, perhaps, of your entire book. Again I was delighted with it, as long as I thought of the Russian revolution. But over and over again the thought came into my head: the tactics that are brilliant for Russia are bad here. They lead to defeat here.

You assert here, Comrade (pp. 68-74), that in a certain stage of development the masses, must be attracted, millions and millions of them. The propaganda for "pure" Communism, that collected the avant-garde, and educated it, suffices no longer in that stage. Now is the time . . . and next Comrade, this chapter also is altogether wrong. terribly difficult. We, all of us over here, will Communist who knows the real West-European capi> though it may be for the knowledge of your revolution, is wrong for the great industrial capitalism, for the capitalism of the trusts and monopo-

> I will demonstrate this here: first in small mat-

Still need for Propaganda. You write about Communism in Western Europe:

stands on a line (and it proceeds from the same mentality) as what I read from Bucharin, not long ago: "English capitalism is bankrupt." Also from Radek I read similar phantasics, that were more like astrology than like astronomy. Nothing of all this is true. Except for Germany, there is no avant-garde anywhere yet. Neither in England, nor France, nor Belgium, nor Holland, nor, I am well informed, in most the Scandinavian countries. There are only a few "Eclaireurs," who, as yet, do not agree about the course that is to be followed. * A terrible lie is: "The period of No, Comrade, this period is just beginning for Western Europe. There is no firm kernel any-

What we need here is this very kernel, firm as steel, clear as crystal. And this is where we should begin herewith to build up a big organisation. In this respect we are here in the stage in which you were in 1903, or even before, in the period of the Iskra. Comrade, the conditions the relations here are far more ripe than we are, but that is no reason why we should let ourselves be carried away, to begin without a kernel For the time being we of Western Europe, the Communist parties in England, France, Belgium, Holland, Scandinavia, Italy, even the K.A.P.D. in An example: Belgium. Except for Hungary, as Belgium. If at this moment Communism should ism, etc.), the vultures, the profiteers, etc., of opportunism would at once swoop down upon it, and drag it into destruction. And it is the same every-

For that reason, because the Labour movement here is very weak as yet, and almost altogether entrapped in opportunism, because so far Communism is hardly anything yet, we must build up a small kernel, and must fight (in the questions o parliamentarism and the Trades Unions, and all others), until we attain the utmost lucidity and clearness, until everything has been made as clear as possible theoretically.

A sect, therefore, says the Executive Committee. Certainly, a sect. if thus you wish to call the kernel of a movement that conquers the world! (To be combinued.)

‡‡ In Halle, one day alone, 500,000 new members came under leaders which only a short while before they themselves had recognised to be worse Then, likewise-and this is by far the most im- than the Scheidemann lot. And in Tours three-

*† Comrade Pannekoek, who thoroughly knows

INTERNATIONAL NOTES.

Czecho-Slovakia in the World Revolution.

movement, which had its rise in the Southern which has been broken since the retreat of the tricts, has now reached the centre of the coun- Red Army from Warsaw. A federation with a inal importance. The natural position is here. thy's thugs would make the agrarian hinterland e Czech proletariat is marching at the head of for this industrial key to Central Europe. proletariat of C4echo-Slovakia. What is now the part which the Republic has to y in the World Revolution? think—the Communist Party in Czecho-Slovakia.

Capitalism. And capitalist anarchy has produced not have. a terrible crisis in production.

The Republic is surrounded by a number of revolutionary - disposed provinces: The Dombrovaer calfields, Upper Silesia, Saxony, Central Germany in the north and West, Austria in the south, the Ukraine Galicia in the north-east and the revolutionary peasants of Horthy-Hungary in the southeast: this is the position of Czecho-Slovakia. Kere if anywhere a "reliable" and consolidated gendareric is needed as an emergency door for capital-Not in vain were the Czech social-patriots favourites even of France in the blackest days in the world revolution. In the Central European sector of the world revolution Czecho-Slovakia is Trade with China. active in the lead. The objective preliminary con- "Krassnaja Gazeta" reports from Chita: A Chio stumble up against defeatism.

Slovak Soviet Republic would attract to herself purchased in China for Soviet Russia.

On May 15th and 16th the Communist Party of letariat of Upper Silesia, Central Germany, Saxony, cho-Slovakia will be founded. A long process, of the Dombrovaer coalfields, of the petroleum disin dramatic events, reaches its turning-point. trict of Eastern Galicia would form the support and so the southern part will lose its ori- Hungarian peasant republic delivered from Hor-

Newspaper Forgeries.

It seems that new forgeries of Russian papers to demand the recall of Mr. Morgan Sluster" are being circulated. British radios mentioned al- (well known to the students of Persia's history Upon the answer to this question hangs—so we leged information published in Russian papers about since and before the British concessions) "from the the presumed defeat of Soviet troops in Siberia United States to resume control of Persian finances." The Czecho-Slovak Republic is a conquering State. by insurgents. No Russian papers have given any Under the sub-head "Soviet Policy," "The Times" It has a population of almost fourteen millions, such news and no such defeats have taken place. says "the attitude of the Moscow Government towhose chief occupation is industrial and agricul- It is a new invention and these quotations are wards the employment of foreign capital in Persia ural. The Republic has inherited the greatest obviously forgeries. There is also new talk of al- has been defined as follows: No Russian subject treasures of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. Abun- leged travels of Trotsky. This is also pure invention. will be permitted to be a concessionaire in Perdance of sugar, coal, iron, and a first-rate textile Trotsky is not travelling at present. These lies sia." It is further pointed out that the Persian industry are amongst those annexed; also salt and are fabricated in order to attribute to the Rus- Government must resume possession of the former imber. The Republic suffers from one thing only: sian Government offensive designs which it does Russian Government's enterprises, and all private

No Wire to Ireland.

Litvinov sent no telegram to Ireland. Information about this pretended telegram is absolutely false. British capitalist journals have recently publish pretended information about certain communications between Moscow and Ireland. All this is pure invention. It is a new campaign of lies intended to harm the trade agreement. Liars' G.H.Q.

"Helsinkin Sanomato" writes: We have often by the old methods or by Imperial bluff. Although referred to the lying telegrams which are sent the cancellation of the Lynch concessions cannot of the clerical monarchists. Prague and Czecho- to foreign countries from Helsingfors. We do not be allowed to pass unchallenged, the present Per-Sleakia hold the key of the future of Centralt know the source of these telegrams, but they re- sian Government, which has attempted to do this. duce the reputation of our land in foreign coun- has already imprisoned some 200 Persian aristo-From this is unrolled the part of the republic tries. An American paper calls Helsingfors the chief centre of the professional liars.

ditions are given. The subjective preliminaries are nese paper reports that the Chinese Government furthered in a great measure through just those has decided to send Simpson, their specialist, to acts, that it is a victorious State and victorious Russia in order to negotiate a treaty similar to nation, whose proletariat is now being forced to the Anglo-Russian treaty. "Krassnaja Gazeta" retread the path of revolution. The self-conscious- ports from Chita: According to reports from Chiness of the conqueror must work out its effects nese sources the Chinese Government has informed in the scare of the revolution, just as the revolution the direction of the East China Railway that in in Austria and Germany had amongst other things any case the commercial relations with Russia will be resumed sooner or later, and that a definite Regarded from an outside point of view, a Czecho- time must be set for the departure of the goods

"The Times" of Saturday, May 21st, under the PERSIAN ATTACK ON BRITISH TRADE.

above headlines, published some remarkable statements from their special correspondent in the Middle East. There are some very pertinent remarks and observations that we think Communists everywhere should note, and we give them with our own when owned by British).

"The Times" says: "The Persian Government has cancelled the concession to the Persian Transport Company, a well-known British concern (the italics are ours, as a comment on the name Persian.

"The action has caused considerable excitement here. . . . The cancellation of the concession is a direct challenge to Brilish commercial interests." According to the article it would seem that the Government (Persian) shows marked appreciation of British advice in the reorganisation of the Ministries of Finance and War, but the newspapers criticise the employment of British officials in these important departments as provacative to Russia and dangerous to Persian independence" (well said in view of the fate of India) "and continue enterprises of Russian shareholders. Now the last part of the article to which we would draw special attention and which, with its sub-heading, we give as published in "The Times."

"ALTERED CIRCUMSTANCES. "In view of the importance of the British interests involved, I wish to utter a serious warning. British capital should read the signs of the times here, and not suppose that British interests can any longer be maintained in Persia either crats, cancelled the Anglo-Persian Agreement, made Teheran go "dry," and provided almshouses for its innumerable street beggars, is a portent which the wise man will ponder.

"British interests can be maintained here, but not by the old methods nor by entire reliance on conveniently-worded documents purchased from financiarly embarrassed monarchs or politicians in the is as follows :-

As we quote from "The Times," we feel safe from attention by Scotland Yard, but let each reader carefully note the "Imperial bluff"-and the fact that words "imprisoning of 200 Persian aristocrats," and "making Teheran go 'dry," and "providing almshouses for street beggars," are portents which the wise man will ponder.

WHY THE NEW RUSSIA MUST WIN.

that comes into one's mind as I read his may break out at any moment."

These are the words I refer to: "That people forced to work?

will take the United States of America. hence wealth was more abundant.

side by side in America, neither can the ple, but that she would soon discover her Having thrown off the enormous waste of he Workers' Republic of Russia.

In your article with the significant title saw it in 1920," in the last instalment of "The Future World War.—Act. I.", I no- May 21st:—"Soviet Russia continually a peace could be no more than an armed "What evil have I done that this bad truce, and that whilst Communist and Capi-

However, some of his words are literally Russia. Ah! says some, it is one huge the workers and all members of society. true; but not in the sense he means them. chain of slavery. Are not all able-bodied "That is literally correct for present-day the more dominant are they in world af- be, has not always the power to give them are in demand."

Just as the two systems could not live account of the spiritual outlook of her peo- sia's turn to dominate. informing narrative, "Soviet Russia as I the community as a whole, instead of that see the immediate fruits.

of individuals, she was bound to lead the

I would like to draw the reader's attention to Eugene Varga's article in April ticed with some surprise that Lloyd George hopes and strives for peace with the capi- 16th issue—an article well worth reading has been saying some nice things concern- talist aggressors; but it knows that such and re-reading, so important it is and very

Eugene Varga says :-

man speaks well of me," is a quotation talists governments exist side by side, war "In general it is quite right that the raising of production must have as a re-Remember there is no unemployment in sult the improvement of the position of Russia; but applied to anarchistic capitalcountry (Russia) is not going to remain These people forget that in order to live ist economics, this principle means overas it is; that country is going to be a somebody MUST work, and they have not production, economic crises, unemployment. dominant country." Assuredly so! the slightest idea that in Capitalist Eng- In capitalist society an increase of pro-The teaching of history on its economic land the mass of people are only free to duction means nothing more than that each basis goes to show that the greater the starve, and if they wish to work they must producer or producing group increases the freedom of humanity the greater is its pro- work on their masters' terms; even then output of their own products without in ductive power, and the greater its weal the master, however kind-hearted he may the least inquiring whether these products

Yes, it all points to what Lloyd George As an illustration of what I mean, we Probably to most of the readers of the says: that Russia will become the "do-"Dreadnought" it is plain that Soviet minant factor"; but to do this she must In the south, the wealth was mostly pro- Russia is more free, hence produces greater continue as a workers' republic, and seeduced by "chattel slavery," whereas in the wealth, so that sooner or later Russia must ing that the whole weight of the Capitalist Northern States where men were freer the become a dominant factor in Europe. World have been intriguing for her downwealth was produced by wage slavery; Tolstoi says somewhere that Russia would fall for the last three years without sucnot proceed far along the capitalist road on cess, it seems certain that it is now Rus-apitalist System live side by side with mistake and she would turn, and, as a re- labour involved in the capitalist system sult of her turning, one of the first things which is entirely eliminated under the Com-In this connection it is interesting to note she would do would be to free the land, munist system—it is easy to see that Soviet what Sylvia Pankhurst says in her very and, by making the land the property of Russia must win even though we do not

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY IN SOVIET RUSSIA.

By A. M. Lyubovich.

In spite of the fact that Russia has been completely isolated for two years, and Russian syndicalists have been cut off by the blockade from contact with the technical science of the West, Soviet Russia made great progress in wireless telegraphy.

Previous to the October Revolution, wireless apparatus was under the supervision of the Ministry of War, and was employed exclusively for war purposes. Following the October Revolution, a special decree of the Council of People's Commissars provided for the transfer of all radio stations, excluding portable outfits, into the hands of the People's Commissariat for Posts and Telegraph.

Beginning with that period, the application of wireless telegraphy was put on a basis utterly unknown in former times. Having in view the supreme importance of the political education of the wide masses of peasants and workmen, the People's Commissariat of Posts and Telegraph undertook to install a widely spread system of radio stations embracing vast areas of the country. Wireless operators were sent to all the provincial towns and the work of installation was carried on at full speed under the direct supervision and guidance of the central authorities and with the sympathetic cooperation of the Wireless Operators' Union. The larger towns were provided with radio stations first, then came the smaller towns, and towards the middle of the second year of this work of construction radio stations were installed even in the villages.

Number of Wireless Stations.

Throughout Soviet Russia there are to-day 250 radio receiving stations, in addition to 47 stations belonging to the War Department, which are at the disposal of the Commissariat of Post and Telegraph. This makes a wireless system of about 300 units, which is the most powerful information agency on the Continent. The number of radio transmitting stations, excluding those on ships, is 47, which puts Soviet Russia first on the list of European countries in this respect.

Thus radio telegraphic tentacles are now reacting out from the centre to the most distant and remote corners of the Republic. Untrammeled wireless telegraphy afforded the possibility of maintaining close communication between the cities and provinces surrounded by the enemy, where the concouraging messages coming from the centre and carried through the air-waves all over the vast area of Russia, were spread through the local press and the posters of the Russian Telegraph Agency, imbuing confidence, enthusiasm and strength in the hearts of the fighters.

During the civil war wireless telegraphy did excellent service. It enabled the Soviet Government to keep in constant touch not only with Tashkent, Uralsk, Baku and the Ukraine, but also with Soviet Hungary and with Germany, and afforded the opportunity of intercepting wireless messages from the hostile camps of Paris, England, Italy and Constantinople.

Civil and Military Uses.

Thus reconstructed on a new basis and brought home to the wide masses of peasants and workmen wireless telegraphy became a powerful agency of propaganda and agitation in the hands of the Soviet Government. The installation of wireless stations and the development of wireless communication would proceed at a much greater speed if it were not for the necessity of diverting the most skilled workers and most of the equipment for the needs of the war, and were it not that the production of wireless equipment does not keep pace with the work of installation.

The present abnormal conditions, when the work-man, holding the hammer in one hand, must grasp the rifle with the other, are unfavourable for constructive work. Nevertheless the Council of Labour and Defence has issued a decree providing for the extension of the wireless stations. The transatlantic station built in the vicinity of Moscow will be able to send waves all over the globe. It possesses an alternator of a new type of very high frequency-twenty thousand original motions a second. Apart from its wide possibilities as an agency of information, it will also produce extensive reforms in the matter of measuring longitude for purposes of navigation and surveying. There is no doubt that the colossal power of this station will compel the radio stations of other countries to adapt themselves to it. It will also provide extensive material and possibilities for the study not only of wireless telegraphy but also of atmospheric and magnetic phenomena, thus becoming an object of interest not only for Russia but also for foreign scientists.

All the work of calculation and construction connected with the alternator for this station has been accomplished by the Wireless Laboratory of Nizhnegorod. The inventor of the apparatus, emgineer Volodkin, in a member of the Laboratory Council. This wireless laboratory was opened at the end of 1918 and in this brief period it has succeeded in making considerable contributions of great scientific value. It is engaged in the preparation of a new type of intensification which has hitherto been imported from France. By preserved the Council of Defence the laboratory started upon the preparation of a number of radio-telephonic stations through the application of positive relay. A model of this has been worked out by engineer M. A. Bonch-Bruyevich, one of the specialists working in the laboratory.

The Wireless Telephone.

Moscow already has a radio-telephonic station of this type, which can carry the human voice over a distance of over 3000 miles. The Chita station has reported that it has heard voice messages from Moscow. Similar reports have been received from Irkutsk Tashkent and Semipalatinsk. The author of these lines, assisted by the Ministry of Posts and Telegraph, carried on experiments in Berlin to establish the possibility of carrying the human voice from that city and Moscow. The main wireless station of Gelthoff was placed at our disposal for that purpose. The investigation was carried on in the presence of Count Orko, one of the most prominent scientists and inventors in the sphere of wireless telegraphy; Dr. Ruhkopf, the chief of the experimental station of the "Telefunken Co."; Dr. Gruznichka, a physicist who had come from London by invitation of Comrade Krassin, and the engineers and technicians of the Gelthoff station. At the appointed hour we heard Moscow saying "hello," and the conversation that foillowed was so distinct that I could recognise the voices of the persons speaking from Moscow. The impression produced was overwhelming. One of those present said to me: "How was it possible to achieve such wonderful progress in a country, where, as our newspapers inform us, everything is in a state of destruction and anarchy? Whom lare we to believe after this?" I advised him to believe the facts.

The German Ministry of Posts and Telegraph being greatly interested in the experiment, ordered its laboratory expert. Engineer Vrazka, to verify it. As a result it was established that the audibjility is sufficient for carrying on regular telephonic communication between Berlin and Moscow. Even reducing the power to one half it is possible to carry the human voice over the distance between Berlin and Moscow. This leads to the conclusion that the conversation from Moscow was heard by all the most important radio stations in Europe, a fact which was actually confirmed by messages received a few days after that from some European stations.

Thus the experiment in wireless telephony has proved a complete success, and this is the result of the scientific labours of the Soviet experts during the two years of their complete isloation from their colleagues in the West.

The radio telephonic station in Moscow is entirely the work of the Soviet Government. It has been installed and equipped by Soviet workers from the simplest screw to the most complicated apparatus.

COMPLIMENTARY BREAKFAST.

It was a larger company than that of those who actually sat down at the table which greeted Comrade Pankhurst at the breakfast given to her on the drizzly morning of her release. The absentees—some in prison, others kept away by the slender purse of unemployment or by the factory whistle—were nevertheless there in spirit, and to these, too, go our thanks.

The breaking of bread and the partaking of salt with the returning friend and comrade is an ancient custom: it signifies comradeship, community of interests, and unity of purpose.

A De Vincian figure at the long table of the quaint Eustace Miles' Restaurant, pale, frail, yet flushed with happiness at being out of prison and amongst friends, Comrade Pankhurst spoke briefly of her prison life, without hatred, in a voice mellowed by sorrow.

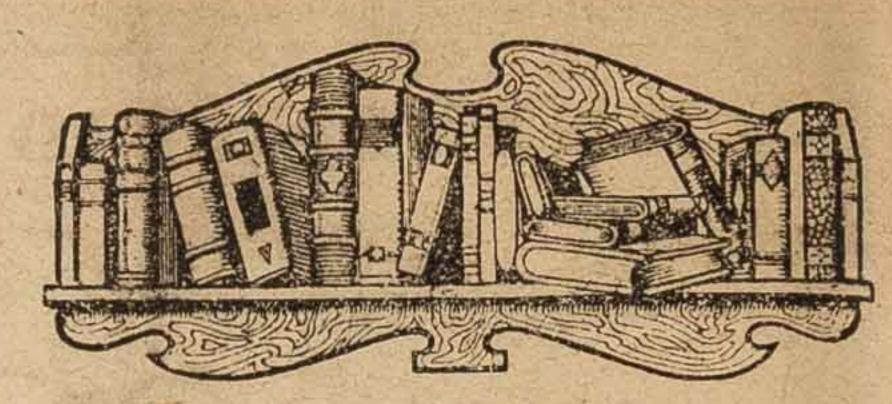

In years to come these little personal, almost insignificant incidents—now lost in the great class-struggle going on around us—will come back to us, bright under the light of memory.

The small, almost devotional party which last Monday sat at that breakfast, ere years are numbered many, will see its faith, its hopes accepted and shared by thousands who are now distant or hostile.

Wagedom and Capitalism will go.
A society based on justice and work will be established: Communism.

We shall reach it—by a road along which many will falter and fall.

Yet we shall reach it.

OUR BOOKSHELF.

"PARLIAMENT AND DEMOCRACY."

(By J. Ramsay Macdonald. The National Labour Press, Manchester and London. 75 pp. 2s. 6d. net.))

Ramsay Macdonald is a past-master in gentle Lapalissian art of writing, with the smooth outlook of a superficial mind, on things that no longer matters.

He assumes the pose of a debater and argues on subjects which are now passed and accepted by common agreement and by the general trend of public opinion.

He poses as an advanced Socialist, and, totally unaware of doing so, he displays a bourgeois mentality, vaguely colloured by moderate Liberalism. He sees Parliament as a permanent institution, and, what is worse, talks about it theoretically.

He sees Parliament as a permanent institution, and, what is worse, talks about it theoretically, in a detached, schoolmaster way, even forgetting its own personal experience of the intrigues, carried on at the House.

There is no sign of class-consciousness in this book of 75 pages, written by the Secretary of the Second-and-a-Half International, and intellectual leader of our programmeless Labour Party.

He so misreads the purposes of the Communist Party that he writes:

"The 'Dictatorship of the Proletariat' as used in Russia, though not used by Marx, is far more akin to the spirit of old-fashioned Toryism with the House of Lords as its citadel than it is to popular government."

It is obviously unjust to judge a book by a sentence, but the above in the closing chapter, "Towards Democracy," is characteristic of the spirit that animates both the book under review and its author.

"YOUNG WORKERS" MOVEMENT.

LONDON.

Camberwell.—Branch recently formed. Members badly needed. Secretary: A. E. Cotton, 65, Pellatt Road, S.E. 22.

Southwark.—Meets at 4. Browning Street (late York Street), Walworth Road. Active members badly needed. Full particulars from the Secretary, J. F. Daly, at the same address.

Wembley.—Meets at 24, Copland Road, Wembley, Middlesex. Tennis and Cycling. Secretary: F. A. W. Gillies.

Leeds.—A further amalgamation brings us another branch. Lectures, classes, etc. Full particulars from the Secretary. G. Bloom, 32, Elmwood Street, Leeds.

Prospective members residing in any of the above districts, please communicate with local secretary.

Branches to be started at Croydon, Fulham, Kentish Town and Poplar. Comrades desiring to join please communicate with the National Organiser, Young Workers' League, "The Young Worker" Office, 152, Fleet Street, E.C. 4.

Comrades willing to assist in formation of branches in other districts, or having information regarding possibilities of forming same, please communicate as above also.

BADGES.

SOVIET ARMS, in gilt on red enamel, 1s. 3d. and 9d. each, 12s. and 6s. per dozen.—Apply, Manager, "Workers' Dreadnought," 152, Fleet Street, E.C. 4.

SMALL ADVERTISEMENTS-1d. a Word.

FURNISHED FRONT ROOM for two or three TRUE Communists. Library in different languages at disposal.—58, Fortess Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

Published by E. Sylvia Pankhurst at 152, Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4, and printed by S. Corio at 10, Wine Office Court, Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4.