red International in Trafalgar Square.

Founded and Edited by INTERNATIONAL COMMUNISM.

VOL. VIII. No 17.

SATURDAY, JULY 9TH, 1921.

[WEEKLY.] PRICE TWOPENCE.

By SYLVIA PANKHURST.

SYLVIA PANKHURST

A Story of his faith in Creative Evolution and his Vision of the Goal to which Evolution is conducting us.

Bernard Shaw's "Back to Methuselah "* is plendid work, vivid and new, thought-stirring od picturesque. But, in considering it, I obrved to the critical philosopher: "If I write hat I candidly think, and if Bernard Shaw hould do me the honour to read what I have ritten, he will again say I am shaking my hair-" I would have concluded: " into the on's mouth," for I am still animated by a nsiderable reverence for our gifted preecessors; but the critical philosopher interinted me, and irreverently substituted, "on the tail of the kangaroo," for the philoopher, who has not read this play, desired to isinuate that Bernard Shaw is a "jumping Jack," or, as Shaw himself has it, a "celebrated

The obvious plea and argument of the play, Back to Methuselah " (remember that the lost obvious is not necessarily the most true and vital), is that the span of human life should e extended to three hundred years, because, or their present brief existence, people do not consider it worth while, either to educate themelves properly, or to incur the trouble of breakng through conventions.

"I daresay the Church was a bit thick for you," says Haslam, the young clergyman, in the second part of the book; "but it's good enough for me. It will last my time, any

"Now I come to think of it, old Methuselah must have had to think twice before Le took on anything for life. If I thought I was going to live nine hundred and sixty years, I don't think I should stay in the Church."

Moreover (runs the argument), our present rief existence is too short for the acquisition of. mowledge and experience; the torch of civilisation, which is supposed to be handed on from generation to generation, dies down to a tiny spark as it passes from age to youth.

Each newly-born intelligence has to begin very near to the lowest stage in the ladder of human knowledge: the experience of preceding generations gives it at birth not even speech, not even the power to walk. Thus, it is argued, the rocess of evolution is perpetually flung back and retarded.

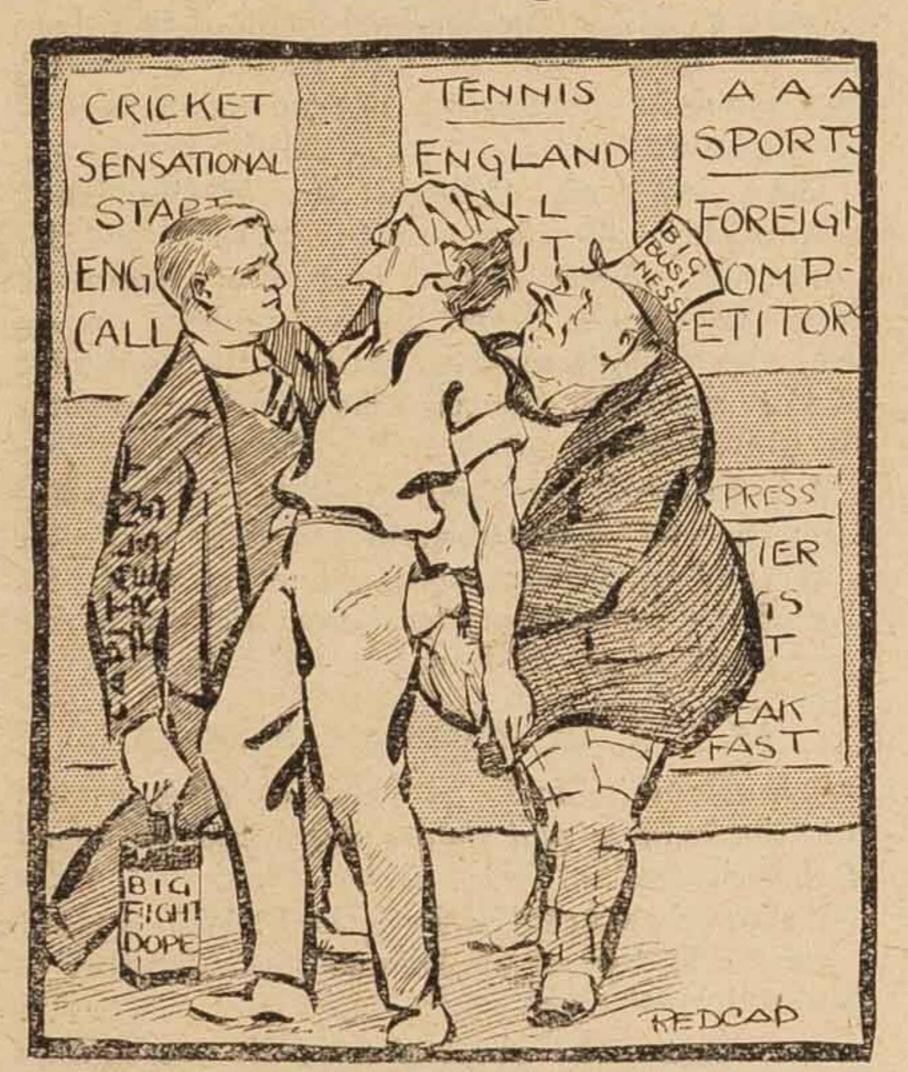

Says Franklyn Barnabas, one of the two brothers who formulated the Gospel of the Life of Three Hundred Years :-

"I was not shoved into the Church, Mr. with God, like Enoch. After twenty years of it, I realised that I was walking with my own ignorance and self-concert, and that I was not within a hundred and fifty years of the experience and wisdom I was pretending to." Says "Zoo," the young woman of fifty years, ho is going to live to three hundred, to the derly gentleman of fifty, whose life will not ast beyond the average span:— "How often must I tell you that we are made wise, not by the recollections of our past, but by the responsibilities of our future. shall be more reckless when I am a tertiary than I am to day. If you cannot understand that, at least you must admit that I have learnt from tertiaries. I have seen their work and things, I rebelled against them, and in their "Back to Methuselah." A Metabiological ntateuch. By Bernard Shaw. Constable & Co., 1921. 10s. net.

lived under their institutions. Like all young

TAKING IT QUIETLY—THE BIG SPORT DOPE

hunger for new lights and new ideas, they listened to me and encouraged me to rebel. But my ways did not work; and their's did; they have no power over me except that power: they refuse all other power, and the consequence is that there are no limits to their power, except the limits they set themselves. You are a child governed by children, who make so many mistakes and are so naughty, that you are in continual rebellion against them; and as they can never convince you that they are right, they can govern you only by beating you, imprisoning you, torturing you, killing you if you disobey them without being strong enough to kill or torture them."

This idea that the world would be reformed if we of to-day, we to whom our own efforts are so interesting, might but prolong our lives, is certainly a flattering one. It is especially grateful to those who have left the days of their youth very far behind. To the young, who are struggling to overcome the dogmas and dominations of the aged, the prospect, for the time being, may be less alluring; but the young will be old, too, some day.

Shaw's Prefaces, be it noted, are not by any may think of them, and reading the Preface to "Back to Methuselah," however strongly one may be attracted to the general idea of longevity, one is overwhelmed by the thought: "What a world of good it would do Bernard Shaw to be born again." ("It would give Creation a chance to decide whether to give birth to him a second time," the critical philosopher maliciously punctuates; but that is not our meaning.)

On the contrary, the desire for Shaw's rebirth comes upon us because we regret to discover his brilliant mind still cumbered by the dead wood of those silly old wrangles between the early tentative Atheists and the Evolutionists, themselves scarcely emancipated from the dogmas they attacked, and the most superstitious ignoramuses of the nineteenth century. The clogging environment of his past still clings so detrimentally to Shaw, that in this year, 1921, we find him devoting nearly two pages of precious paper and type to a silly story of taking out a watch and challenging what the company present called God, to prove his existence, by striking the owner of the watch dead within five minutes. Shaw proceeds to expend more space in refuting such follies as that of the man who cut off the tails of four generations of mice, to discover whether "acquired habits" become hereditary, and to rake up even the phrases he used in other old controversies long out-of-date. Those who can continue to interest themselves in the contests waged around old slain prejudices and superstitions, and can go on flogging the dead horse of their old controversies, are not yet wholly emancipated from their spell, whichever side they take.

Whenever I read the boring theses of those who were once enslaved by the dogmas of religion, from which they have painfully extricated themselves in adult life, I thank, from the inmost depths of my being, the enlightened father who preserved my infant mind from being thus encumbered and befogged.

The idea of steadily prolonging and improving human life until, with its approach to perfection, immortality is reached: the progressive postponement of death and decay, with all their sorrows, until finally they are banished al'ogether, cannot fail to enchant us. But whether longevity in itself would accelerate social changes and hasten the casting-off of old prejudices, is open to doubt. The fact that Bernard Shaw wastes so much of his energy in killing dead errors, is evidence in support of the opposite view.

In the interests of his creative output we implore him to refrain from the useless task of flogging dead horses, and to concentrate on the conception and propagation of new ideas.

In spite of his much-advertised daring and addacity of expression, we have occasion to regret that Bernard Shaw is still often afraid to be himself and say what he really means, because of his consciousness of the prejudices that were and are current around him.

He often fails to notice, we think, that those prejudices have been steadily losing their vitality with the passage of time. In his plays, crouching behind the masks of his puppets, he goes more deeply to the roots of things, and speaks more truly than he ever does in his long Prefaces, his speeches and articles, in which he appears as Bernard Shaw.

Both when, as in his Prefaces, he is supposed to be speaking plainly on his own account, and Haslam, I felt it to be my vocation, to walk means so good as his plays, whatever he himself when, as in his plays, he is expressing his views allegorically, Shaw overlays the larger thought and structure of his philosophy with little good things, which he explodes in an almost continuous train. In his Prefaces especially, these quips are often but superficial little shafts, aimed at such futile bourgeois prejudices, such evident snobberies, that they are not worthy of his attention. Sometimes, although they may please for a moment, these wittiessms are not even true: for instance, this from his chapter on "The Diabolical Efficiency of Technical Education ":-

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION.

A blue mark in this space indicates that your subscription is now due.

Increased Postal rates and the high cost of production of the paper necessitate prompt payment. was (

e saw 1

e forn

Jan occi

1 on a

munist

I for that

el them

reotted the Empire Co., as Germany did before the war. never turn on the palliative reforms beloved of fades away.

and arouses within him a hopeful sense of self- say, when his thought and his power is greatest), esteem. So much is he pleased by it, he occupies himself a hundred times with sexual Whence? We were well enough in the garde that he is even ready to forgive Bernard Shaw for relationships and abstract, speculative thought, And now the fools have killed all the animals his scoffing at Irish Nationalism; even for for once that he turns to economic conditions, such passages as this, from "Back to the struggle of the classes, and the practical Methuselah ":-

'There is no earth, only stone.' . . . They existing war. tine. . . And what a ridiculous thing to and kills, first dispute together the aims of life. they live in air."

What is Creative Revolution.

Shaw calls this book the beginning of his life of struggle is leading. "Bible of Creative Evo'ution."

He argues that both he and other evolutionists contend that the neck of the giraffe grew longer on the higher branches when that on the lower of Adam. branches had been eaten away. But, he says, the other evolutionists declare that the necks became longer because the shorter-necked mankind. Who are you? giraffes were apt to die of hunger, whilst the longer-necked were apt to survive, and because of their food-reaching abilities, the longer-necked were stronger and more greatly prized as mates. to me.

These contentions of the ordinary evolutionist, Shaw is willing to accept; but he adds also, that the giraffe powerfully aided the growth of his neck by willing that it might grow long; indeed. that it was this will of his that was the real

He declares that without this belief of his in the will to develop, the doctrine of evolution is a soulless and destructive one, and and the first murderer. [He appears between he even goes so far as to accuse it of being the them, and as he does so, there is a prolonged sede them until they have forded this last stream cause of the European war; a contention which hiss]. Who dares hiss at Cain, the lord of we consider wholly unjust and entirely absurd.

the will to develop in a certain direction will aid coiled in the trees.] anyone should argue about it.

will to live, in the evolutionary process, and who Lilith! are ready to concede, further, that evolution is, in Lilith becomes visible between Cain and the long run, tending to a more highly evolved Adam. human being and a more highly evolved social ances are disposed to quarrel and part company is has come of it. What do you make of it, Adam, in deciding what is a more highly evolved human my son? being, and, especially, what is a more highly ADAM: I made the earth bring forth by my evolved social structure, and what steps we are labour, and the woman bring forth by my love. to take to reach it.

Though Shaw is a Socialist, the only little bit make of it, Eve, my wife? he puts into this play, is in the words of the it with my blood. And now they let it fall as mother, Eve, what he makes of the coming you make of it, Cain, my first-born?

mastery, and the winnowing out of the weak the strong. And now the strong have slain one with me and supersede me, and Lilith will by the strong. And now the strong have slain another; and the weak live for ever; and their only a legend and a lay that has lost it meaning one another; and the weak live for ever; and deeds do nothing for the doer more than for Of life only is there no end, and though o their deeds do nothing for the doer more than another. What do you make of it, snake? million starry mansions many are empty

But though he does not preach the class one. It is enough. [She vanishes.] confines. And for what may be beyond, struggle and the overthrow of capital in this CAIN: There is no place for me on earth any eyesight of Lilith is too short. It is enough that "The British Government is more afraid is so glaringly obvious that his vision of future splendid game, while it lasted. But of Ireland now that submarines, bombs, and life is so far removed from Capitalism that it Out, out brief candle! [He vanishes.] poison gas are cheap and easily made, than it would be ludicrous to imagine their existence EVE: The clever ones were always

That is absolutely untrue. Ireland does not Nevertheless, it is interesting to notice that, dug themselves in with the worms. My of menace the commercial position of the British although Shaw is an ardent Fabian, his plays ones have inherited the earth. All's well to But the quip is flattering to the Sinn Feiner the Fabians, and that in his plays (that is to organisation of society.

"They landed here; here in Galway Bay, Shaw, in our judgment, is a great artist, but on this very ground. When they reached the no politician. In politics, he flits about on the shore, the older men and women flung them- surface of things and burks an issue with bourselves down and passionately kissed the soil geois economics. He is a Socialist who avoids of Ireland, calling on the young to embrace discussing plainly the establishment of Socialism the earth that had borne their ancestors. But and the destruction of Capitalism; a pacifist the young looked gloomily on, and said: who avoids all expression of opposition to any left for England next day; and no Irishman The best of "Back to Methuselah ever again confessed to being Irish, even to his is probably its first part: "In the Bechildren; so that when that generation passed ginning," where Adam and Eve begin to away, the Irish race vanished from human learn from the Serpent, knowledge; when knowledge. And the dispersed Jews did the Eve, the curious mother, Adam, the peaceful same, lest they should be sent back to Pales- worker, and Cain, the religious man who tortures call people Irish, because they live in Ireland! But we shall conclude with Shaw's conclu-You might as well call them Airish, because sion; the end of his play, in which he expresses as far and as clearly as he can conceive it, his idea of the evolutionary goal towards which this in order that the animal might reach the foliage near the temple, and shapes itself into the ghost

AS FAR AS THOUGHT CAN REACH.

A WOMAN'S VOICE [in the grove]: Who is that? lived three hundred years; and I waited to ADAM: The ghost of Adam; the first father of what would become of that. And so much cam husband. You are very old. A VOICE [in the hills]: Ha! Ha! Ha!

THE VOICE: The ghost of Eve, the first mother an evil dream. They have redeemed thems of mankind.

ADAM: Who Haughs? Who dares laugh at EVE: Who has the heart to laugh at Eve?

THE VOICE: The ghost of Cain, the first child, they have done seems but the first hour of

As to Shaw's conception of evolution; we A VOICE: The ghost of 'he serpent, that lived ourselves cannot conceive of evolution as anything before Adam and before Eve, and taught them but creative, and it seems to us so obvious that how to bring forth Cain. [She becomes visible, in that development, that we are surprised that A VOICE: There is one that became before the

We know many believers in evolution who will THE SERPENT: That is the voice of Lilith, in that appetite well for me. I say, let them dream agree with Shaw as to the motive force of the whom the father and mother were one. Hail, LILITH: I suffered unspeakably; I tore myself have spared them many times. But mightie asunder; I lost my life, to make of my one flesh creatures than they have killed hope and faith The point at which our evolutionist acquaint- these twain, man and woman. And this is what

And this is what has come of it. What do you of concrete, unmistakable Socialist propaganda EVE: I nourished the egg in my body and fed ghost of Cain, the first murderer, telling his the birds did, and suffer not at all. What do

CAIN: I invented killing and conquest and patience with them still, though I know v "I invented killing and conquest and mastery and the winnowing out of the weak by that when they attain it, they will become on

THE SERPENT: I am justified; for I chose wis- many still unbuilt; and though its vast domain The italics are ours; for clearly this is Com- dom and the knowledge of good and evil; and is as yet unbearably desert, my seed shall now there is no evil; and wisdom and good are day fill it and master its matter to its uttermos favorites. The diggers and the fighters 1

ADAM: I can make nothing of it; neither l nor tail. What is it all for? Why? Whither and they are dissatisfied because they cannot be bothered with their bodies! Foolishness, I . [He disappears.]

eternal life. They have taken the agony for birth; and their life does not fail them even without milk: their bowels are gone: the ver ages; they tried me very sorely. They did ter rible things; they embraced death, and said that eternal life was a fable. I stood amazed at the malice and destructiveness of the things I had made; Mars blushed, as he looked down on the shame of his sister planet; cruelty and hypocris became so hideous, that the face of the eart was pitted with graves of little children, amon It is now quite dark. A vague radiance appears which living skeletons crawled in search of horrible food. The pangs of another birth wer already upon me when one man repented and of it, that the horrors of that time seem now but from their vileness, and turned away from their ADAM: Come forth, wife; and show yourself sins. Best of all, they are still not satisfied the impulse I gave them in that day whe EVE [appearing near the grove]: Here I am, sundered myself in twain, and launched Man an Woman on the earth still urges them: passing a million goals, they press on the goal of redemption from the flesh, t vortex freed from matter, to the whirlpool i pure intelligence that, when the world began was a whirlpool in pure force. And though a infinite work of creation, yet I will not sur that lies between flesh and spirit, and tangled their life from the matter that has alw mocked it. I can wait: waiting and patience mean nothing to the eternal. I gave the wome the greatest of gifts, curiosity. By that, seed has been saved from my wrath; for I am curious; and I have waited always to what they will do to-morrow. Let them fee of all things, stagnation; for, from the moment doomed. In that hope and faith, I have them live for a moment; and in that moment and perished from the earth; and I may not spare them for ever. I am Lilith: I brought life into the whirlpool of force, and compelled my enemy Matter, to obey a living soul. But in enslaving ing Life's enemy, I made him Life's master, for that is the end of all slavery; and now I shall see the slave set free and the enemy reconciled, whirlpool become all life and no matter. An cause these infants that call themselves ancie are reaching out towards that, I will play, we must not blame Shaw for that; for it longer. You cannot deny that mine was a there is a beyond. [She vanishes.]

MINTAINING THE FLAG OF EMPIRE.

By C. F. GLASS. The Commune of Builhoek-Another Capitalist Outrage-Natives set up Communist Village-Government Destroy Village-200 Workers Massacred.

act of unprecedented and diabolical was committed by the capitalist Governf South Africa, at Bullhoek, Queenstown, Province, on May 24th, and, as a result, blood of 200 native workers who were ered, cries out for the destruction of the erous system which is responsible for their nselves as a Christian congregation—this common property of the village. LILITH: They have accepted the burden bear several years ago. Their distinguish- Farm Labourers flock to Bullhoek.

The following are the facts:

phouring allotments. The "prophet." with his few followers, settled Farmers Demand their Eviction. s report has not been satisfactorily con-

Bolshevism in Practice.

Let us see for a moment how the village was sting laws, but set up a code of laws of their force. Their actions were entirely peaceable, as Government Destroy the Village.

"Bolshevism in practice," do you say? Well, these are the very words with which the Secretary for Native Affairs designated the whole affair. And, leaving aside the religious fanaticism which has inspired their actions, is he not right? The he "Prophet" Enoch, an educated native, land they have is held and worked in common, around him a number of people who re- and the few head of cattle they possess are the elief revives what was an expectation of the But what sort of reception did this wholly tive church that has reappeared many times successful experiment in Communism receive at the hour of their destruction. Their breasts a history—the expectation of the impending the hands of the land-owning community of to this earth in physical form, of the South Africa? The farmers in and around shapes of them are only ornaments for the lander of Christianity. A certain hill at Bull- Queenstown were positively alarmed. A large children to admire and caress, without under look was marked out by the " prophet" as the number of native farm labourers had already left standing. Is this enough, or shall I labor whence the faithful will be caught up into the farmers who employed them, and migrated again? Shall I bring forth something that will state of glory when the looked-for return to the Bullhoek Commune, and the latter could sweep them away and make an end of them there would be they have swept away the beasts of the garden barcel of ground which belongs to the no farm labourers to exploit. Certain it is, that and made an end of the crawling things and the prophet," as an allotment holder in the loca- the natives prefer a thousand times rather to have flying things, and of all of them that refuse to the near Queenstown, and that among his their own native village, where they can work live for ever? I had patience with them for man collowers and fellow-worshippers are holders of on their own land peaceably, to being exploited as a farm "hand" by a baas (master).

their allotments and started the church "One Ultimately, the Queenstown farmers sent a and the Saints of Christ." They obtained deputation to the Government, and demanded al permission from the Authorities for their that these "Israelites," as they were called, who, de adherents to visit Bullhoek at a certain they said, were a lot of dangerous fanatics, should e of the year, for the purpose of joining in a be evicted from Bullhoek without delay. The ous festival. The number of their adherents Government, which, of course, represents the w by leaps and bounds, and each year a very interests of the farmer and the land-owning proportion of of those who joined in the classes of South Africa, had no alternative but ival, instead of returning to their homes when to obey orders. They informed the "Israelites" was over, remained at Bullhoek. Rapidly, as that they had committed a breach of the law in a sequence, a village of fair dimensions soon annexing the commonage (this charge has not ome into being, which was recently estimated vet been verified), and in refusing to pay taxes, of them had no other homes to go to.

As was only natural in the circumstances, the kill it with the utmost ferocity. ducted. In the first place, they barred the "Israelites" refused to destroy the work of Ith officer and sanitary inspector, and set up years, and stated in reply that they would not long after the burial of the last corpse, the nitary arrangements of their own, which, by shift from Bullhoek without express orders from memory of the Bullhoek Commune will shine in eports, proved to be efficient and satisfactory. "Jehovah." Needless to relate, "Jehovah" the hearts of the native proletariat of South They blocked the road passing through the did not reveal himself, and so, after further Africa; oppressed and downtrodden as they are age and built a dam on it. Their pursuits threats by the Police Authorities, which were in every corner of this vast continent. This re purely agricultural, such as mealie growing, paid, no attention to, preparations were made memory will serve as a beacon, lighting the path etc. They refused to pay taxes or to obey any to evict the "Israelites" from Bullhoek by which they must tread to their emancipation, the South African Native Congress shows:- Queenstown, and on the morning of May 24th, lishment of Communism, looking for inspiration During the months that the congregation armed with rifles and bayonets, and accompanied and guidance, not to Jehovah, but to the justice been assembled at Bullhoek, no violence by a machine-gun detachment and some artillery, of the Workers' Cause.

or theft or any breach of the common law has they set out for Bullhoek. On their arrival, been committed by its members, and the their force was formed into fighting order, and a neighbouring Europeans have been in no way demand for surrender was sent into the village. The "Israelites" were preparing for a defence and refused to surrender. Colonel Truter, who was in command of the police force, then gave the order to advance. The "Israelites" blocked the entrance to the village, and attempted to stem the advance with assegais, knives and sticks, etc., but these crude weapons were no match for the weapons which the opposing force possessed. Nevertheless, the "Israelites" put up a brave fight in defence of their commune; but they were outnumbered almost three to one, and in ten minutes, 200 of them had been slaughtered and another 125 wounded as a result of a withering machine-gun fire. Seeing that it was futile to resist further, the village was surrendered and the work of demolition was commenced. Thus was suppressed in blood the Commune of

Machine Guns against Sticks.

Oh! what an act of heroism, my countrymen machine-guns against sticks and assegais! Throw up your hats, ye freedom-loving Britishers, and sing "Britons Never Shall Be Slaves." But listen! The Johannesburg Star thinks that "less expense would have been incurred if one or two bombing aeroplanes had been employed." Ye gods, and this in the year of our Lord, 1921!

However, this brutal act of savagery is but indicative of the brutal methods of suppresion to which the capitalist class will resort in order to preserve their system intact. If ever proof were required of the cheapness of human life, where the interests of private property are concerned, surely the cold-blooded butchery of these 200 natives at Bullhoek affords such proof.

Communism and the Native.

The first practical demonstration of the success ntain about 350 small houses. It had been and in refusing to submit their village to in- of Communism in South Africa has been ted that a part of the commonage was annexed spection by official sanitary and health inspectors; destroyed, but the IDEA of Communism still ese people, in order to extend their village. on these grounds they ordered the unfortunate remains, and CANNOT BE DESTROYED. The "Israelites to destroy their village and return to seed of Communism has been sown at Bullhoek, their homes, notwithstanding that the majority and has aroused the fierce hatred of the masterclass of South Africa, who have attempted to

But long after the firing of the last shot and and it will in some measure help to spur them on to unite with their white fellow-slaves for the the following extract from a report laid before A force of a thousand police was assembled at destruction of the capitalist system and the estab-labourer. His hands were coarse; his skin work.

I. Lilith, lose hope and faith in them, they and SOME MODERN PILGRIMS.

look: "Why, if Mr. Benevolent Employer will happy, work little and have much . . . . uploy me, what can I do? . . . What can "Why don't you go there?" asked Smith.

fter a little walk he entered an office, through a passage, and saw before him a counter, and d it a short, fat man, with a golden chain hing across his stomach, his dramond ring , and his thick cigar burning itself out puffing. As John Smith entered, Mr. Freecomplacently, bid him come in and welcomed that you have seen your folly; and now returned a repentant and free man?" Yessir," replied Smith, "I wants to know his could do somethin'-on your terms."

d for all, and understand that free-trade is your hillings a week. Will that satisfy you?"

slum sat John Smith, a stout, unshaven, grumble about his pay, his lowly living and his hard

"I'm fairly sick of it: all the more so since I know hy!" he ejuculated to himself, with a frown- the way to the City of Communism, where all are

Ah! I will-" And without "Because I cannot go there alone," replied Mr. ing his sentence jumped off his stool and went Communist, "I have my passport all ready-I'm only waiting for company.' they began talking about the arrangements of the journey and other necessary matters.

Employer, heard that Mr. Communist was taking Mr. Smith and a lot of others who did work for Mr. Benevolent Employer to the City of Communism. They said unto themselves, "We cannot Mr Labour Leader, and forcing Mr. Communist stop them directly. Let us get Mr. Labour Leader "Do I understand, Mr. Smith," asked Mr. Free- to stop them from going on this journey; for otherwise our fat bellies will become empty, nay, we may Slough of Semi-starvation, and the men began to even have to fill them ourselves."

intended journey one fine morning in April. They unto all men . . . . Friday morning they, suddenly, came to a spot where a year . . . . ."

the road divided into two. One was called "Strike By M.I.C.P. Road," the other "Betrayal Road." Here Mr. Labour Leader was standing with his responsible air and

"Good morning, Pilgrims," said he unto them.

Mr. Communist whispered aside to his group: "Watch Mr. Labour Leader, for methinks I did see him speak sweetly with Mr. Freetrade." Then he his eyes large; his countenance manly, strong "I'm no better than you," said Mr. Communist, said unto Mr. Labour Leader, who was also called Mr .Faint-heart: "Are you also going to the City of Communism?" Mr. Labour Leader smiled, but did not answer. He thus spoke unto those who did come with Mr. Communist.

"Brethren, I too am a pilgrim to a blessed City; for this am I on this road. Before you came, I went through this road called "Strike." There did "I'll come with you," said Mr. Smith. With this I see Government tanks and Black and Tannery; there did I see the Slough of Semi-starvation; and there did I see lots of blood-shed and much else. Mr. Freetrade and his friend, Mr. Benevolent Do not ye go into this road, but rather let us take this one misnamed of Betrayal."

Mr. Communist shouted that that was a lie, and raged his wrath. But his companions did believe (with an instrument called "Freetrade-prison") to go with them. They soon came to the edge of the grumble. But Mr. Labour Leader, on seeing this, Mr. Communist and his group started on their sat down and wrote a report explaining all things

Certainly, but you must leave your follies once walked merrily and happily on for nearly ten days. Mr. Benevolent Employer and Mr. Freetrade hear-There was a fbreeze in the air, and roses did adorn ing of it, smiled and rubbed their hands, saying, ly salvation. You'll work ten hours a day at thirty the sides of the road wherein they walked. On a "Verily, Mr. Labour Leader is worth two thousand

Editor: SYLVIA PANKHURST.

All Matter for Publication to be Addressed to the Editor Business Communications to the Manager: Workers' Dreadnought, 152, Fleet Street, London, E.C.4. TELEPHONE: CENTRAL 7240,

SUBSCRIPTI	ON:
THREE MONTHS (13 weeks)		Post	Free	3/3
Six Months (26 weeks)				6/6
ONE YEAR (52 weeks)		11	40	13/-

Vol. VIII. No. 17. Saturday, July 9, 1921. O barbarian.

THE RED INTERNATIONAL'S FIRST APPEARANCE.

The Red Trade Union International is an organisation already comprising over 15,000,000 workers, though in this country its organisation is in an embryonic stage.

was o

e Nevs

e form

tions in

oung G

ian occu

, "Soci

l on a munist I

cotted the

I for that

el them f

in the

Narva :

The growth of the British section of the Red International is retarded by the fact that, although its existence has been advertised more than once barbarous hordes. in the Daily Herald, the address to which comrades desiring to attach themselves to it or communicate with its officials should apply has not yet been important event save a single Daily Herald adver- ancient Greece. tisement, which appeared only the day before the meeting, and a single advertisement in the "Communist," appearing the same week, which announced well-known that he is in Russia. The "Workers' Dreadnought" was not notified of the meeting. the original invitation, and until we saw the Herald the conclusion that the meeting had been postponed.

But it is regrettable that, of all bodies, the Red twentieth century culture? Trade Union International, which knows the apathy Sir Sydney Low further tells us, by way of defendof the old trade unionism, the hostility to the Reds ing the prize-fight, that Carpentier is a musician and of many trade union officials, and, above all, the a man of culture, although a professional fighter in poor attendances at branch meetings, should have the ring. The waiter, the potman and the cab-driver relied on such a circular as the principal means supply the answer to this argument. When, contrastof getting up the meeting. If a circular to branch ing the photographs of Carpentier's slighter, more secretaries could have produced the great demonstra- graceful figure and intelligent countenance, with the tion which the occasion demanded the old trade union rude, brute force of Dempsey, they say, "it was movement would have now been in a vigorous, intelli- like putting a baby up against a full-grown man." gent condition, far from its real moribund state, and would have been prepared to throw in its lot with the Red International. As it was, the meeting provided no demonstration of the number of men and women in Lordon and districts who to-day are enthusiastic supporters of the Red International.

In the Herald advertisement fifteen speakers were advertised, but not half a dozen of them were present on the plinth. Was this because they were not reminded of the meeting, or what was their reason for remaining away?

Neil Maclean, M.P., was one of the advertised speakers. Has he signified his adherence to the Red International? It is not long since he said in the House of Commons: "I am no Bolshevik." Has he changed his mind?

The greatness of its object called for a seriously organised demonstration. We hope that on the next occas on the Bureau which has undertaken to represent the Red International in this country will do its work efficiently.

J. H. THOMAS VERSUS THE RED INTERNATIONAL.

The politics of the old Trade Unionism of which J. H. Thomas is the typical representative, mean "stay as you are"; the politics of Communism, the Communist International, and the Red Trade Union International mean "fight on to Communism."

We must choose clearly between these two issues. They cannot be conciliated. Thomas at Newcastle, on July 3rd, uttered what can only be regarded as a challenge to the members of the N.U.R., who are meeting in conference this week. He said that "the real lesson for railwaymen, as for everybody else is at present, not to be prepared for another fight, but to be prepared to settle down." He added that in August, railway decontrol would take place, and whilst it was hinted that this would be accompanied by another industrial crisis, he saw "no warrant for such an eventuality. £17,000,000 had already been taken off the wages of railwaymen, under the sliding scale, without any protest, or strike, or attempt to dishonour the agreement."

friend and supporter of the bosses?

THE GREEKS AND THE PRIZE FIGHT

A beautiful barbarian head, fleshy, thick-set and low-browed, with hair that rose up straight from its front, as grass grows from the sod.

For two little horns our eyes instinctively searched, were effected by this method, and 33,000 by but our peering found them not, though the photograph was clear.

Many times we have seen you, oh barbarian, for it was you the Greeks chose for their model when they represented their fabulous fawns and satyrs and other semi-gods. Their gods were human; for man imagine nothing that has no roots in his experience; their semi-gods were a compound of man and animal. The Greeks portrayed in their gods the noblest human forms that their experience enabled them to conceive; but they did not use such splendid forms for their pared for another fight. He had no hesitatic semi-gods, whose lower parts were those of beasts. saying that the real lesson for railmen, as They used for this purpose your head and your limbs, everybody else, was that they must be pre-

Mankind cannot imagine that which has no roots in its experience, but you were familiar to the Greeks, O barbarian. It was to ward off your onslaughts from the area they had civilised, that they practised so assiduously the art of war. They kept themselves apt in the old savage art of warfare, in order to protect from destruction by savagery, the new arts of civilised peace, of which they were both transmitters and creators. They occupied the position which Soviet Russia occupies to-day, as the historians of future ages will agree in recording: holding the ring fence of the new civilisation against the

Your head, as we see it in the Sunday paper photograph, O low-browed barbarian, has no little horns in its stiff up-standing hair, for you are a barbarian of the twentieth century, a throw-back to ancestors On Sunday, July 3rd, the Red Trade Union Inter- living in a primitive barbarism; you are alive to-day, national held its first public meeting, but unfor- a perfect representation of brute force, specialised for tunately there was no public announcement of this brutal fighting, and not a sculptured figure from

Sir Sydney Low, in the Sunday Pictorial, takes up the cudgels of argument in support of the prize-Tom Mann as the principal speaker, although it is fight, and claims it to be a civilised sport, on the ground that it was practised in ancient Greece. The Greeks, however, called upon their Olympians to The speakers received no notice of the meeting after excel not in mere fighting alone, but in music, in literature, in general culture of body and mind. advertisement on Saturday we had almost come to But even were this not so, what more blasting commentary upon our bourgeois civilisation, and upon We are informed that the promoters of the meet- the education of our rich men's sons in the Public ing sent circulars advertising it to the Trade Union Schools, could there possibly be than this, that our secretaries to be read to their branches. This was most expensively educated men are still looking backa step that should by no means have been omitted. ward to the Greeks to discover a touchstone for their

Says the Daily Herald special correspondent:-"The idol of France was badly battered and eventually knocked out; but he went down game as a bull terrier to what I consider a glorious defeat . . . Carpentier's nose was also broken . Carpentier was always a trier, and, despite the fact that he broke his right thumb in two places in the second round, he never made a complaint. . . ."

the ring to fight Dempsey, a heavier one, more likely to slaughter him than be beaten by him? For money; purely for money.

And thoughtless fools, who perhaps think themselves too highly civilised to attend a bull fight, crowded there to gloat over a much more brutal show.

OUR FALSE GODS.

By Arcturus. You have not to look very far to-day in order to see that the present gang of T.U. leaders, being entirely out of touch with the class they sprang from, have been fooled by the masters, and have in turn led us blindly into a morass of wage reductions and unemployment. As if this were not sufficiently plain already, A. Thomas, the French renegade Socialist, comes along to inform us that the British Government has requested the International Labour Office, where A. II. is employed at a fat salary, to examine the methods used in various countries concerning reductions of wages in order to see whether any of them could be used in Great Britain'!

But why go abroad to seek new methods, when these employed at home are so damnably efficient? In the month of May the workers of this country suffered weekly reductions in wages amounting to £1,342,100. During the five months ending May 30th five million individual wage adjustments were made under sliding scales. H. Thomas pats himself on the back for the fact that £17,000,000 had been taken off the railmen's wages without any protest or D.O.R.A.! strike, or "any attempt to dishonour the agreement." When these sliding scale agreements were entered into did the officials envisage the future with its three million unemployed? Moreover, how can the leaders justify acceptance of reductions in accordance with the Ministry of Labour's index number now Thomas regards this as highly satisfactory; but that they have issued an index number of their own, what do the Reds in the N.U.R. say to Thomas, the which shows the Ministry figure to be calculated unjustly? Surely these agreements were only made W. Reid 10s., Mr. W. J. Paul 1s. 9d., Mad When are the Reds going to make a determined on the understanding of continued employment. The Garistof 5s., E.S. 5s., Miss Haughton £3, 10s. effort to eject Thomas and his like from the N.U.R.? workers are neither morally nor legally bound to £10 11s. 9d.

keep an agreement when the circumstances have ompletely altered as to render the performance the agreement impossible. So much for reduct

July 9, 1921.

Next in order is arbitration, 199,000 reduc ciliation. The remaining 1,575,000 were arrange directly between employers and employed, or re ing from Orders made under the Trade Boards For the next three months the miners will have suffer cuts of 2s., 2s. 6d. and 3s. per shift. after then further and greater cuts. At the same time unemployment among miners will treme ously increase. L. H. Thomas, M.P., told the men at Newcastle on Sunday that, "There rumours" (only rumours) "that they must be settle down." So speaks an alleged represent of the working class. "Settle down." If the nu process is allowed to continue the workers of country will be settled for ever.

It is very easy for the Thomases and other le to talk in this vein. They no longer feel the of unemployment or poverty, or know aught hunt for a job. They have definitely become m class. And it is our own fault that this is so. have given them large silaries and raised them pedestals and worshipped the ingenuity with w they mislead us. Thus they have come to consider themselves a class apart. They, who were one workmen like ourselves, now feel quite at home drawing rooms, and hotels, or in meeting C Ministers. They even make visits to Chear discuss how they shall sell their former works into slavery. To-day we find these pampere sites becoming "jealous of each other." Like formers in a different sphere they quarrel over distribution of the limelight. They have quest of precedence to consider. And now their wives to be taken in hand and made "ladies" of by Webb at the Half Circle Club. In such an at sphere our leaders, naturally enough, are softe The iron that entered their soul when strugg their way out of the working class is transmut social influences into wax. They become ps philosophers and clever talkers, but they ca longer lead. The bosses know them, know their weaknesses and play one off against the other that the industrial forces of the workers are p arrayed on the field together, but in sections v are led to defeat or are sold out according to degree of depravity of their officials.

It is not a difficult thing to find new leads Ordinary intelligence, common honesty and cour are required and self-seeking must be absent. leaders must not be allowed to become a separ caste; they must be kept in close touch with the r and file, who have to bear the burden of economic struggle.

IRISH CONFERENCE.

Nothing will come of it unless the Irish are prepar to compromise their demand for complete independ what idle, occupation.

"Lord Middleton's attitude cannot be foreseen," says "Labour's Own Daily." Lord Middleton is t old fellow who represents not himself alone, British Capitalist Imperialism in this fight; he is figurehead behind which the clan is massed. Mr. Arthur Henderson, Secretary of the Labor Party, and a number of clerical and titled persons Why did Carpentier, a lighter weight boxer enter (Mr. Henderson keeps illustrious company nowaday have addressed a memorial to Lloyd George, in which "It is our earnest hope that the Conference n be held in the peaceful atmosphere of a truce, and may be supported by the prayers of both peoples." To be practical, the prayers of Mr. Henderson and his friends of these later days should be addressed to the implacable Lord Middleton and the capitalist gang behind him:

5,700 men are to be discharged from Woolwich Arsenal, at the rate of 300 a week; but Mr. J. H Thomas says this is the time for settling down!

In Russia, the Government has the Cheka: in England, the Chequers.

Not the ablest; but the honest; Ablett.

Was the Daily Herald leader on "the keen, ki competition of the ring," "arranged" for by the rin

E. F. Hunter, I.L.P., under the Chairmanshi Ramsay Macdonald, debating on "Socialism: Remedy for Industrial Unrest," with John Murray,

"As it had been worth organising the country for war in the Socialistic way, the same methods should be adopted to organise the country

Is that the I.L.P. ideal of Socialism?

Sir Harry Newton (at the inquest on his father) "There is no truth in the suggestion that my father was in fear of anybody; he had no property

DREADNOUGHT DEVELOPMENT FUND

Mr. P. Durant £1, Mrs. Cole's Collection £5, M

INDUSTRY AND COMMUNISM.

he past is weighing heavily on the present. sent day economics are extricating themselves but from the meshes of capitalist industrial

Let us take, for instance, the industries of Petroad, which came into being, together with the fortress port, during the capitalistic commercial epoch. ile supplying the needs of the commercial and fleets, and having facilities to obtain coal and materials from abroad and to manufacture cerproducts, Petrograd gradually became an in-

As soon as Petrograd became dependent on Russian d. the reason of its industrial development ceased exist. Nevertheless, although a long way from coal- and iron-producing areas, it continued to w industrially, for the simple reason that capitalist strialism had selected it for its centre.

If we take the central industrial quarter of Petroad in its present state, and forget all about its past

The harsh exploitation under the serf system, ught to Petrograd a numerous population, which vas at the disposal of the budding industrial capitalsm in its primitive form. In the first stages of its lopment, industrial capitalism was made to exthe village industries, which had received an betus through trade capitalism and were growing lly owing to the very same exploitation of labour. It was not industrial capitalism, guided technical considerations, which chose this region its activities: it received it from trade capitalism.

Capitalism is the Slave of the Past. In all their reconstruction efforts, the capitalist ntries still cling slavishly to the methods which Should a few walls have remained standing, the Region. capitalist will consider them as a means of lessening his building expenses, of hastening the erection of the building and of pocketing profits; this is an essential point with capital, for creditors do not wait. Fesides, should a few boilers have escaped destruction, the capitalist will reinstate the whole steam present actions, the capitalist is the slave of the past, which, through the inertia of capital, imposes its will Socialistic society can treat its past history with far more freedom when it begins to re-create and further develop its industries. In building and rebuilding, its first consideration is-what is economic ally rational at the present time.

Socialism is Emancipated from Past History.

Socialist society, removing all that is accidental ory, we are puzzled at the existence here of and inimical, can with perfect clearness, weigh branches of industry, far away from all the beforehand all the geographical variations, and can ources of raw material and fuel, except peat. But come to a decision as to the suitable sites for agriwe take into consideration the history of the town, cultural production, for various factories and works, we shall come to the conclusion that the conditions for new centres of industrial life, for large cities, and relations of the capitalistic period have resulted etc. At the same time, Socialist society, not being the establishment of an important trading and hampered by property considerations, can boldly create and re-create everything on a new technical

The Revolution is Partitioning Industry.

Comrade Lenin said long ago, at the time of the land. We can say now that the proletarian revolution is as energetically partitioning the industries, and is freeing them from the chains into which the capitalist on for some time. I have on my desk a pamphlet: "The Basis of a Plan of Electrification of the Northern Region." This pamphlet deals with some of the ailed before the war. If, in the vicinity of ex- scope given to industrial enterprise, free from the be a help to our undertakings.

BY I. STEPANOV

Since the question of the concessions which tensive works, coal and iron ore mines become exprussia has granted to Western capitalists has hausted, economic common sense would demand their past has left Petrograd with 200 electrical stations, out ted a considerable stir in the Press, we reproduce transmission to another region; but the capitalist of which 44 are more or less powerful. Minute calcu-"Pravda" this article of Comrade Stepanov, will cling to the old spot, even if there be nothing lations have brought to light that seven stations, proig with the subject in a thorough exhaustive left of the works, for the only reason that the land vided with certain necessary improvements, are suffihere is his property and he would have to buy land tient to supply Petrograd with all the electricity if he went elsewhere, and that would entail enormous required. The plants of the remaining stations are expenditure, unproductive from many points of view. thus available for the electrification of the Northern

Thus, the development of the forests of the North will give us, in addition to the products required at home, the means for the electrification of the entire Northern Region, based on the exploitation of river power. The construction of new railway lines, the electrification of the existing lines, the establishment apparatus, even if the proximity of a powerful water- of a whole series of industries, some of them new fall dictate electrification on a large scale. In his to Russia, such as the mining of lead, zinc, copper, aluminium, the production of phosphoric azolic and manures, sulphuric acid, etc.—all this will be able to transform, in a short time, the wild and desert North into a first class industrial area.

> From the start, taking account of the shortage of labour, the engineers are carrying out electrification on a large scale in all the branches of industrial operations. In capitalist countries, the existence of private property hinders a rapid and complete breaking off from the old technical methods. A Socialist State, on the contrary, can exploit on an almost limitless scale all the achievements of present day science, especially those in connection with labour-

How Concessions would be dangerous.

Concessions would constitute a great danger to us the proceeds from them were to be put to so-called unproductive uses: as the purchase abroad of clothes, footwear, food-stuffs, etc. In that case, the concessions would only accelerate the spoliation of our natural wealth and would condemn us to a hopeless 1905 revolution, that the revolution must partition the industrial backwardness. In fact, our concessions would lead to conditions similar to those prevailing in China, Persia, Turkey, and even in Spain.

It is quite another matter when concessions are made use of for the carrying through of some parts Preliminary work in this direction has been going of our own programme for the re-creation of industries on a new basis. In this instance, it is not only the concessions, that is to say, not only the machinery created on the strength of the agreement, re development of forests, mines, etc., but to a great extent I will give but one example to illustrate the wide also the revenue from these concessions which will

IN TRAFALGAR SQUARE. By MARCEL PH. ANTOINE.

e, the best and the worst of observers? Stepping out of the crowded world of one's thoughts and feelings, to look upon the stage of other people's let us hope the good work goes on, carried forward doings, is certainly a pleasant, a recreative, if some-

In my mind I had represented the work of the Red Trade Union International by the words: "and I came with a sword, to divide and to deliver.'

This, I had said to myself, is what must be accomshed: "The wealth-producers, all the world over, or their protection against the greed of Capitalism d of the masters, have evolved a form of organisan, as yet primitive and imperfect, by which they re able to prevent their wages their only means of repair bsistence-from dropping lower than the bare intenance level. No further than that. In some aces they had accomplished this with a certain nount of efficiency, in others but tentatively. With reat difficulty, through imprisonment, forced unloyment, deep and obscure sufferings on the part the pioneers. Then a lull: enthusiasm brought to low level: almost disappearing: the growth of officialism, of a caste of fairly-well-paid, self-conented leaders: the rank and file passive, inert. ained to puny and trivial advantages of benefit, of uperannuation, by comparison with the great issue in which they were forced by the political domination empty clay pipe. stem-but mainly and chiefly at preparing the mind to form organisations whereby the control of proluction can effectively, and with efficiency, be

Suddenly the trumpet call of the Red International: faintings. hat progress is evolved.

Thus in my mind I kept reasoning, growing concious of the magnitude and of the importance of the

It was in that mood that I went last Saturday to meeting organised by the British Section of the d Trade Union International, in Trafalgar Square. There, perhaps, is no earthly reason why the process cleansing and vivifying our organisations should e made clear and demonstrated in Trafalgar - quare, midst the guardianship of Landseer's lions and that of ell-groomed and somewhat bored police inspectors.

nion officials and sub-officials, a circular that will ary to the painful act of thinking.

Was it Swift who said the passer-by is, at the same only be read at the next monthly branch meeting, and not even there if the officials disapprove it. Good causes need no advertisement and, at any rate, > by its own momentum. Looked on from the aristocratic elevation of the parapet, where "hobos," ex-Service men (our "Chocolate Soldiers," as a post-Shavian girl calls 'them), where parasolled-ladies strolled by, while Londoners queue up for the Hampton Court 'buses, the eager crowd of Red Internationalists on the > busy thoroughfare when a tyre bursts, or when swarthy "Dagos" start trench-making, previous to a road In order that no gaiety of colour, no beauty of line should deface the drabness of the scene, and therfore distract attention from the earnestness of the proceedings, all the circularised Unions refrained, by Square is just as large as that which collects in a a well-kept accord, from sending any banners. The helmets of seven constables, aligned at the base of the plinth, tower above the crowd, for it is right that the majesty of the Law should be made tangible and embodied in well-fed and physically-good

As befits a well-ordered city, kind-hearted St. John's Ambulance men and women are there, for July's o not make inert Unity a false god. Divide the At the far end of the Square, on the step that is haff from the grain. It is only by internecine strife a seat, and, at times, a temporary bed, a baker's dozen of genuine "hobos" comfortably doze, in the "To become a fighting force, to wrestle the mastery hub of the Empire, empyreally basking in the sun, of the world from the ruling-class, those social organ- enjoying the profound delight of being left undisisms we call Trade Unions must move out of the rut turbed, they who do not disturb anyone and chew an

of the possessing class: must aim, not simply at the _ On the shady side of Gordon's statue, which oilisation of wages—for that is a conservative func- looks sardonically on the plinth, two little girls with , which ultimately tend to keep up the capitalistic soft-hued primrose ribbons in their hair, play at Strolling about, one hears snatches of conversation. An American lady, heavy and fat, lifts matronly her lorgnette: "She looks-, she is- I wonder if it is she-" and walks away. Her interested husband goes off towards the crowd.

A man with an artistic temperament passes by the Early-Victorian statue of Washington, and comments: "Was it here before?"

Two U.S. sailors, on the parapet, turning their backs away from the speakers, beam with national pride and blend in their hearts Dempsey with America and America with Dempsey. They are lofty and

A Pall Mall gent, who has forgotten that Ascot Suffice for the day that amongst the organisers there week is past, grey topper, white spats and all, walks an advertising agent, to send to all Trade amongst the listeners and curls his lips as a prelimin-

A "young person," to-day is evidently her day off, keeps at a certain spot in the Square, is scanning all passing faces, heedless, she too, of the speakers: "He is late! Will he turn up?

The door of the church of St. Martin-in-the-Field is open, and the stained glass behind the altar is inviting and refreshing. From the pulpit, a man with a headmaster's tone of voice, thinking with difficulty and pausing between the adjective and the noun, explains to a juvenile audience that if one tell an untruth about someone, one may do great harm, even if the mischief be not at once apparent. The ills of untruth will spread far, just as the ripples spread over the water of a pond in which a stone is dropped. The girls listen attentively, in protty frocks and hats to match. On the boys' benches, a jolly demon with golden curly hair pulls his neighbour's ear. The un-Christian neighbour retaliates. The contagion spreads, and presently there is a chain of hands and ears all along the bench.

Once more into the Square, pervaded by an air of Sunday restfulness.

The audience has grown, yet one has to confess that the response to the call of the Red International

One hears from old comrades, words of criticism, of rather bitter criticism at times. They need not to be repeated here. The old conventionality must be maintained, certain things can only be whispered in secret to everybody, whilst they must not be even hinted at in our Press.

So home from the Square with a sad, yet still hopeful frame of mind.

HODGES SUMMED UP!

Rising Sun miners, Wallsend, sent the following to Frank Hodges :-

"We cannot stand your latest move; it is pure betraval. Act on ballot vote and keep away from Lloyd George and coal-owners. We can never forgive you and your Executive if you attempt this, the greatest sell in the history of Trade Unionism. Your speech at the Labour Conference staggered us. Your letter to the Prime Minister is contemptible to any miner who is suffering for justice."

The British have raided the Russian Trade Delegation at Constantinople.

We are not surprised, because we have never imagined that the British Capitalist Government had become anything but an enemy to Soviet Russia.

BADGES.

SOVIET ARMS, in gilt on red enamel, 1s. 3d. and 9d. each, 12s. and 6s. per dozen.-Apply, Manager, "Workers' Dreadnought," 152, Fleet Street, E.C. 4.

who d

was or

Narva s

d, smok

to buy

e saw Me

crowded

e Nevsl

e forme

in the t

tions in

vou kno

v owing

oung G

1 on a

munist I

cotted the

1 for that

el them fi

. "Socia

THE ETHICS OF INVESTMENTS.

The Rev. J. T. Sadler writes:-

DEAR EDITOR-Let me say how much I admire your own sincerity and pluck. What I cannot understand, is your acceptance of Lenin's METHODS as well as his AIMS. If a man wanted to educate his son, and, to do so, killed and robbed your friends, you would praise the AIM, but denounce the METHOD of realising it.

In my own case, the Lenin group has robbed me of some hundreds of pounds lent to Russia to build railways, before the war. I do not desire interest, but I think the present Government should repay the capital in instalments, as able; but they repudiate it all: yet keep the railways! . . .

duction, and inventions at home and abroad, and brought orders, e.g., for cotton goods and machinery to be made here. The "workers" had not the "nous" to do all this organising, etc., but can

Dr. Sadler has raised here a very important point, and a very sore point with many people. Capitalism still persists in Britain; Socialism, or rather a partial form of it, has taken the place of Capitalism in Russia. Dr. Sadler lives in Capitalist Britain and finds it capitalist or group of capitalists. hard to be bereft of a portion of his sustenance here, where he has to contend with capitalist conditions of life, in which all the means of existence have to be paid for in £ s. d., whether one is well or ill, old or young. It is very agreeable to have interest on invested money coming in to pay one's daily expenses without one's being obliged to work for it. It is very disagreeable to have that interest on one's capital itself swept away at a blow.

We quite understand our correspondent's annoylowing their employment, or if they are thrown out capitalist and his power continue to exist. of work by a trade slump (as so many are at present)they at once find themselves "on the rocks." The benefits derived from State Insurance, from Trade Unions and friendly Societies; the doles of the Boards of Guardians may save the wage-earners deprived of earning, from actual starvation; but their lot is a pitiable one. Dr. Sadler, and every one of us, self; but almost all the wage-earning people of every they create, the desires and standards they set up. country know that that lot of misery and privation is always awaiting them if their wage-earning capacity is destroyed, as it may be at any moment by some unfortunate circumstance. Dr. Sadler, of course, realises this greatly unfortunate fact. We are sure he regards with deep regret the precarious position of the majority of the people. He undoubtedly desires a social order in which the lot of every one of us may be secure.

But he wants this social order to be established without any personal sacrifice on his own part. resents the fact that Soviet Russia, in building a new order in which her population of 180,000,000 shall be freed for ever from the menace of poverty and want, should have struck at his own little fortune, should have menaced his own personal security.

Dr. Sadler's feelings are all too natural.

But it is essential that he and everyone else should regard the matter broadly; should consider the interests of Russia's 180,000,000 toiling millions, and also the interests of the wage-earners in all the countries of the world.

Dr. Sadler is not the only capitalist, not the only person who puts his money into an industrial enterprise. This investment of capital, this drawing of

To talk of Nationalising, or, as some people actualry do, of "socialising" industry, whilst continuing to pay interest on the capital invested, is a palpable of Communism itself. The total of foreign capital absurdity; for whilst the interest is paid, the capitalist invested in Russia under the old regime was a very Capitalism is a great evil, though it has doned burden on the industry remains. Management of large one; the burden of interest upon it is great. some good, e.g., gone abroad and necouraged pro- industry by the State might palliate the present Soviet Russia needs all her resources for the conditions of the workers in industry; but only it creation of the new social order; she ought not to State than at present. On the other hand, it might are based on debts incurred by the capitalism that be more costly than the present management.

Of course, the State with its greater powers and resources, has the capacity to do more to render the industry productive than can be done by any single and by handing over profits to the development of the an immediate burden too great to be met by a industry, and thus gradually diminish the proportion country, and would cause a veritable exp'osinn in the of the capital held by private persons to whom divi- international financial system. dends had to paid.

Therefore, the burden of paying all the shareholders their present dividends might be minimised

efforts, all its propaganda, for which it will pay out over a generation or so. The effect of that would be We must remind him that the great masses of the of those dividends, all its influence, which will be population, in this country and in all countries, have powerful, because of that capital and of those divino invested capital, no interest coming in to pay the dends, will be used to prevent the State from emanciweekly bills. Most people are dependent on their pating itself and the people from the capitalist burden. own exertions, and if they fan ill or grow old-if they To-day the Government borrows money from private become deaf or blind or otherwise disabled from fol- persons, and will continue to do so as long as the > Soviet Russia struggling to free her masses from the poverty and want in which they were submerged, must not maintain the capitalist burden by continuing to pay out this eternal interest.

The hordes of non-working dividend-drawers menace Communism, not only by their active opposition to it, shrinks with horror from facing such a lot for him- but by their very existence, the social atmosphere

> Soviet Russia arising from the chaos in which her capitalism sank to its overthrow, Soviet Russia struggling to free her two hundred million people from the abysmal poverty in which they were submerged, cannot, must not maintain the capitalist ally she should repay nothing to Capitalism. She has and are created by our environment. Capitalism and by any recognition of the burdens and obligations destroyed.

A DISCUSSION BY THE REV. J. T. SADLER AND SYLVIA PANKHURST.

appertaining to the system that has been vanquished

Dr. Sadler will perhaps say that that would be for enough if he were living in Russia and could an to the Communist community for sustenance, either a worker, or as one who is disabled from work; that it is unfair and altogether too hard, to depri him of the sustenance he has acquired under Capita ism, before the country in which he lives has become

It is true that Dr. Sadler is unfortunate in having fallen between two stools; but Soviet Russia obliged to put first the interests of the majority an

the workers had a much stronger control over t'e expend them in paying interest to those whose claims merely intensify the burden borne by the workers in has been overthrown. Much of the foreign money the industry, by adding to the interest they pay to borrowed by Russia was in any case spent corruptly the capitalist, the salaries of bureaucrats, which might on fraudulent contractors and officials, and in maintaining the machinery of coercion to hold down the

> But Dr. Sadler may say that he does not desire either for himself or others in his position, the payment of interest by Soviet Russia upon his capital. He only asks for the return of his capital.

Dr. Sadler's capital cannot be returned unless the capital of everyone else is returned also. return all the vast sums of foreign money invested i The State might raise capital by means of taxation Russia during the Czardom at one time would entain

But whilst the shareholding legion exists, all its payment of the capital during a period extending the same as though the old system of paying interest were still maintained, unless the repayments were heavier than the rate of interest, in which case burden laid upon the people of Russia would h heavier, for the time being, than if the effort to dispense with the cap talist had not been made.

> repaying the capitalist should be content to work t free the coming generation. But the coming generation will not be free whilst the capitalist remains possession of capital with purchasing power. If the purchasing power of the capital repayed to capitalist were to be abolished, as soon as the capital were repaid, then the capitalist of the coming generation would fight as Wrangel fights, and complain Dr. Sadler complains to-day, and the struggle emancipate the human race from Capitalism would merely be postponed.

For industrial articles: One pood of barley equa of sewing needles, 2 rolls of varn, 5 rolls of wa paper, 1,000 cigarette papers, 800 cigarettes, 1 pour

The figures, which do not include the school for illiterates and defectives, and schools set up the trade unions and Communist party schools, a 1914-15. as follows:-

•	Secondary Schools	1,400	400 000
	Elementary Schools	The second secon	5,000,000
	Professional Schools	The second secon	170,000
	Total	86,056	5,646,000
A		1	1920.
		nstitutions.	Students.
	Universities		120 000
	Secondary Schools	4,000	620,000
	Elementary Schools		6,500,000
	Professional Schools	The second secon	200,000
	Total	106,400	7,440,000

Perhaps Dr. Sadler would propose the gradual re

Dr. Sadler may argue that the generation of workers

Moreover, looking deeper, one perceives that the present generation can only help its descendants by emancipating itself from evil conditions. Only thus can it make itself fit to produce the coming Dr. Sadler complains that Soviet Russia keeps the generation. Only thus, can it create an environment railways and refuses to recognise the debts incurred favourable to the advanced development of the for building them. There has been negotiation with coming generation. It is not in a day that the Allied Capitalism about that; it is possible that Soviet Communist Republic will be built. It is not in a day Russia may repay at least something. But theoretic- that the Communist people will be reared. We create overthrown the capitalist system within her borders, its competitive grind has set its seal upon us all, so and she handicaps the development of her Communism deeply upon some, indeed, that they are almost

ECONOMIC EXTREMITY OF CAPITALISM.

Wedgwood, in the House of Commons, made an interesting remark. Looktowards the Government benches and inting in the direction of Sir Robert Horne, . Chancellor of the Exchequer, he said:-

July 9, 1921.

"In 1925 the hon. Member's seat will be upied by Mr. Graham (Lab., Central Edin-

I repeat this is an interesting remark, bese it demonstrates clearly and plainly the opism or pessimism, whichever you prefer to it, of the Labour Party in political affairs.

Thinking over this statement, one is oppressed a feeling of sickening hopelessness, and the im reality of the economic situation is driven hard home to the mind.

A movement lacking in high hope and giant h, is a movement-worthy only of defeat, and it will mature. I doubt. observation of Labour Parliamentary spokes- Lenin on the World Situation. recalls the whine of a whipped dog, with rale and will broken.

Looking back on the shameful history of bour cowardice and ineffectiveness of two rs, it seems to my mind, that what Wedwood should have said was:-

"Gentlemen, your policy of reaction against the workers will, in 1925, have suc-You will have reduced export prices by wage effectively reconstruct foreign trade.

the masses to pay your way. You will have diluted food, increased rent, settled the perplexities of Empire by methods of iron.

"Having steered the modern commercial system off the rocks of 1921-22, and made its of Wales remains to be found."

The newspaper philosophy of such a period would make interesting reading: news headlines would refer to the Government as:-

"AN IMPERIALIST-DEMOCRATIC BUL-WARK AGAINST COMMUNISM, CAPTAINED BY 'SANE' MEN."

The haunting dread of revolution will then Surely it is quite obvious to the thinker that have passed from the minds of the "plute" must witness either the swift stabilisation Governmentarians of to-day, and they will cheer-Capitalism, or the passing of revolutionary fully hand over to their fellow-Freemasons of the Labour Party, the cares of office.

Such is the Capitalist plan as I see it. That Lenin, speaking before the Second Congress of the Third International, said:

"The basis of hope and examination of the fortunes of World Communism, lie in the relations of World Imperialism."

The Parliamentary wisdom spoken en route for Hansard, therefore does not matter much. The problem of Capitalist consolidation is, I ceeded. You will then have re-established believe of tremendous magnitude. That the or Kropotkin? Will the European group the confidence of the numerous business "fry" attack on wages in each country will succeed. I n the Government, by making them a present am confident; that Labour will collapse in an of public money, through the appreciation of open fight with Capitalism, I am gravely perhe value of National Debt stock, when the suaded to believe. Yet I fail to grasp how a banner of the sickle and the hammer or will purchasing value of the £ slightly increases. wage-cut, leading to cheapened production, can young Communists recommence a life-propa-eductions, leading to reduced cost of I am grimly conscious of the fact that the war- Such is the nature of the cross-reads facing production. Further, by stationary taxation. strickened areas of Europe are hungering for humanity. And as Capitalism reels, the steadyyou will actually suck more increment from commodities, yet lack the ability to offer sub- ing hands of the Labour leaders save it.

By FRED TYLER.

stantial credit. How our rulers will succeed in persuading the hard-faced business classes to supply in such circumtances, without direct subsidy. I do not know.

The task of reconstructing Europe on comcontinuance sure, you will then remove all mercial lines, is of tremendous magnitude Yet revolutionary atmosphere in Britain by pro- we have the bigotted illiterates of the Labour viding an exhaust pipe-a Labour Govern- Party looking forward to office in 1925, in a ment. Beyond this, only a wife for the Prince world dying of consumption, its very foundations shaken, its international arteries of trade choked and torn.

> Atlas feels the world grows heavier, and sees, with relentless logic, the approach of a greater > "Stay," says Col. Wedgwood, "until 1925, and Will Graham will straighten your finances." Atlas pauses, and I wonder. Then remember how, in 1916, Count Osako, Japanese Foreign Secretary, said, looking at the European War: "This is the death-knell of European civilisation."

And then the thought comes of Peter Kropotkin, spoken in Paris, 1890:-

"Society is composed of institutions. Each springs into existence to meet human needs. With social development comes new needs. The old institutions becoming effete, die. New methods, new social organisations are brought into existence to meet new needs."

Then, looking at horrible and ghastly Europe and its tortured masses, I ask the question, forgetting political parties: "Who is right, Osako of nationalities die and decay; or will distress

Will harmony and prosperity reign under the

I PARLIAMENT AS WE SEE IT.

Foreign Coal. Ir. Bridgeman (Secretary for Mines), replying o Major Kelly, says orders for foreign coal "de- recognising the inevitable are prepared to accept essume, but "it will be disposed of in this country elsewhere to the best advantage."

Foreign Refugee.

a series of questions asked by Viscount Curzon. Young, Lt.-Col. Kenwrothy and Sir J. D. Rees ition, Nottingham), and the replies of Mr. Harmswe learn that the British Government, at the of £90,000 a month, assists 37,500 refugees greater part of them being the remnant of the unteer Army of Denikin, evacuated from South ssia in 1920. Mr. J. Jones would like to know if similar principle—that of maintenance—can be olied to British unemployed. "That does not se out of the question," curtly says Mr. Harms-

Cost of Living. Dr. A. L. Bawley and the London School of nomics, the Trade Union Congress, the Labour y and the Co-operative Union, one and all diseve the official figures of the cost of living as g too low, says Mr. Hurd (Coalition, Frome). M. Barlow (Parliamentary Secretary of Ministry Labour) puts up a weak defence for these figures, kind-hearted, "he will go into the matter." Unemployment Benefit Cost. The House discussed whether to exempt police- by 146 votes to 68. en from unemployment insurance by schedule or Two at £10,000. at the Minister's discretion on the ground that these men are not likely to be unemployed except disobedience or neglect of duty." on account of the women and the temporary police so largely composed of big bugs. whom the Minister does not wish to be respon- Messenger Boys.

employment, may have his case reviewed after getting tips. weeks if he renew his application.

The Government granted this humble request. s, should not be deprived of insurance benefit. to inform them of it." or. Machamara said "the difficulty is to find a Costly Beneficence. of equity which shall not create greater evils Devlin (Irish Nat.) asked the cost of the opening those it is sought to remove."

never fructify. Personally I would regret it. But where do the labourers stand? . . . Labourers tely placed" cannot be cancelled. It will be the reductions in wages, but stronger and better in even after the miners have resumed work, organised bodies of workers will reject them. After a long debate the humble request of Mr.

> Clynes and the Labour Party was rejected by 144 votes to 104. John Robertson (Lab., Rothwell) moved to give a man 18s. instead of 15s. a week unemployment

> The Labour Party has not even the guts to ask for the old £1 a week that is being struck off! 18s .a week was all they dared claim for their un-left without protest. Commander Kenworthy (Lib.) suggested that the Government must be made to propose the 15s. reduction, and suggested that the Minister in charge of the Bill should make himself popular by resigning as a protest against it. The Labour Party argued with humble and tem- The Coal Strike. perate pleading, and their amendment was defeated by the capitalist machine by 141 votes to 77.

employment benefit from three days to a week. J. R. Clynes (Lab.) complained that the Govern- Asquith offered his congratulations to all parties ment seldom accepts what the Labour Party proposes. concerned, and eulogised profit-sharing. The Labour Members argued with humble and temperate pleading. There amendment was defeated Minister of Transport is paid £5,000 a year the Asquith, and to complain that there had been a Treasury appoints another official at £5,000 to watch Decided to leave it to the Minister's discretion him. He asked why the Transport Department was

Messenger office boys are having their wages cut

Messrs. Mills and Hayday (both Lab.) humbly down like everyone else. Post Office boys are to get uested that a man thrown out of unemployment 18s. a week, district messenger boys 12s. and 12s. 6d. lefit because the officialdom says he refused suit- a week, because the Government counts on their War with U.S.A.

Mr. J. R. Clynes (Lab.) humbly urged that men not support Japan in a Japo-U.S.A. war. Austin frown out of work through no fault of their own Chamberlain (C.U., Lord Privy Seal) said: "The ot through such naughty faults as striking or U.S. Government are so fully acquainted with the powers to which, by the constitution of the M.F.G.B., ting locked-out), but through other people's dis- real position that it has not been thought necessary they have no right in settling the dispute. It of the Northern Parliament for Ireland. Hamar the whole trade union and Labour movement the lack Jones (Lab.) said: "There is a great dispute Greenwood (C.L., Chief Secretary for Ireland) said lesson of the follies of the methods they have eatened in the engineering trade. I hope it will it was too much trouble to find out, but "whatever pursued.

the precise figure may be it is negligible compared with the beneficial result of the Royal visit.' There was no Bolshevik outcry: Where was Neil

Bill to Cut Down Unemployment.

On the third reading Clynes, official spokesman of the Labour Party, moved the postponement for three months in what Machamara, the Government spokesman, called a "moving and kindly speech," so they fraternise in the best club in London! After some hours of speech-making the Labour, motion was, of course, defeated, and the infamous Bill approved by 240 votes to 81.

Labour Trying to be Liberal. On the Lafeguarding of Industries Bill Labour Members tramped through the Division Lobbies in employed comrades. The women's 12s. a week they support of Liberal Amendments, and took a hand in defending free trade, though, as W. Graham (Lab.) said, they "always approach these encounters with great hesitation," regarding every Minister as a "great authority on these questions," and each one thinking with Graham: "It would be rash on my part to pit my slight authority against his."

Lloyd George declared that the wages of the miners were now "permanently fixed," and that W. Carter (Lab.) moved to omit the clause in the peace was "ensured for a very long period." In Bill which extends the period of waiting for un- any case, the settlement could not be upset, he added, till December, 1922.

There was an effort to prevent discussion on the part of the Government; but Clynes, because Lord Robert Cecil and others opposed the gag, managed to get in a speech. How did he use the opportunity? Sir W. Davidson elicited the fact that whilst the To eulogise profit-sharing and copartnership like clamour in the House for a ballot vote of the miners in order that the workers might settle the dispute for themselves. Clynes objected to the rank and file being consulted. He said that "anyone can see" the Trade Union machine is "defective and out of date." He added:-

"The worst body of men very often, or the men least capable of forming a true judgment of their own interests, are the masses of the workmen themselves, and I would plead for them not merely to have greater faith in their appointed leaders, Asked that the U.S.A. be told that Britain will but to place in their hands the exercise of greater

He was glad the Miners' Executive had taken would be "a good thing for British industry" if the leaders were "vested with greater authority," he said, and added that this settlement would teach

NEWS FROM SOVRUSSIA. The Denial of the Lie.

The Commissariat for Foreign Affairs states: "Recently the foreign press, and especially the American papers, have been circulating all sorts of comments upon the fact that American citizens are not allowed into Russia, and have attributed this to the reason that the Russian Soviet government, which is alleged to be in a crisis, wishes to shut itself off from the foreign world. On the contrary, at the present moment there are 2,000 delegates from all lands the world who have come to the congress, and besides these twenty-three foreign missions in Moscow. The latter have the privilege of sending cipher telegrams daily and have their own courier service. Moreover, there are daily arrivals and departures of foreign commercial delegations from the different lands who are slowly concluding commercial conventions with Soviet Russia. Those persons who have thought out the various 'explanations' for the refusal to admit

there is no place for them.

Situation of Sovrussia. Berlin as the representative of Soviet Russia. He and the local forces will be sufficient for its liquida-

the Americans should naturally know that for people who come to Russia merely to sniff around and to satisfy their curiosity and have nothing serious to do

"Russia's present condition is that of an com- Standard of Value for Barter. valescent invalid after a severe illness. Already after a few months one is able to remark a great improve- scale of value for the purpose of barter:of skilled technical personal is chiefly felt, and this 5 pounds of large died mushrooms.

lack will have to be made good by the training of new workers or the introduction of foreign assistance. "An important task of the economic life, to which great attention was devoted at the last sitting of the all-Russian Central Executive, is the increasing of the industrial life of Petrograd, for, as result of the circumstance that all the other harbours of the Baltic have passed into the hands of the Baltic states, Petrograd is called upon to develop the trade between Russia and the West. The stories of the destruction of the city and of the factories by the bombardment of the Cronstadt mutineers are inventions. The most important question that plays a role in the re-establishment of the Petrograd industry is that of coal. Before the war the Petrograd industry worked with English coal. "Concerning the general feeling in the country, the alteration of the economic policy resulted in a great pacification and settled the differences between the middle peasants and the government. In the Ukraine the struggle against the Machno bands is progressing successfully, and the bandit movement has passed its zenith. "Concerning the events in the Far East they are considered in Moscow as a new attempt of some A representative of "Novij Mir" had a conversa- Entente states to resume the policy of intervention. tion with Victor Kopp, who has just returned to In military respects this adventure is not dangerous,

The Petrograd Commission has fixed the following ment of the economic strength. I had the opportunity One pood* of barley equals 11 pood of wheat, to visit many factories, chiefly metallurgical, and can or 2 pood of oats, 3 pood of potatoes, 5 pood state with pleasure that the equipment of the factories of hay, 10 pood of straw, 6 buckets of milk, 5 is not destroyed. Those factories which are in full pounds of butter, 1 pood of cream, 150 eggs, 15 operation are regaining their old workers. The lack pounds of meat, 10 pounds of small dried mushrooms, of a scythe, 1 sickle, 1 pair of flails, one sixteen of a plough, 20 whetstones, 5 wooden rakes, 2 in rakes, 1 iron shovel, 4 horseshoes, one-third of pound of axle grease, 10 pound of salt, 20 pound of tar, 10 pounds of petroleum, 30 boxes of matches, 3 arshin of cotton cloth, 10 lamp glasses, 4 packages

* One pood is equal to 36 English pounds.

School Attendance in Russia Grows Rapidly Statistics just received here from Moscow indicate an interesting growth in educational institutions children and older students following a normal cours of education in Russia. In 1914-15 there was a total of 86,056 such institutions with a stude enrolment of 5,646,000. By the end of 1920 and opening of the present war, these institutions grown to 106,400, with a total student body

Institutions. Student

Moscow lon. We in the n fami with . with coupl Swiss who w Losco Tier fro es), who and set a day gany, be i.ets and sts de t oppped se tation, of etana " ( 1 by fried who did was our Narva sho d, smoked

Rej Prist, IDA abd nis is ple 20un cou de Louv

red far

11 a n I

, an bea

had to buy sc

e saw mear

enitch/ was

, the ren

wing th

bi fronti

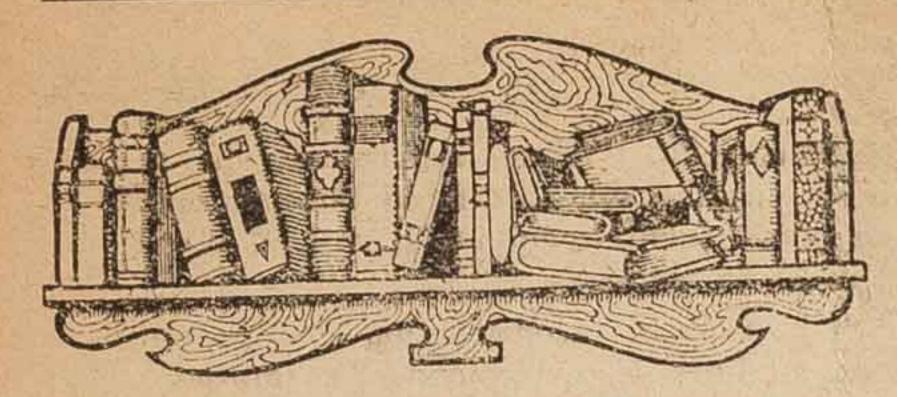

ace di

- ... ded crowded ! e Nevsky e former in the tra tions in E vou know, Fore the c ay n selv H. Jeilung 3evi the V Solour ill rism, ar from u e recours militaris For th ere You of d the ong the v econd Int anks, one ts opposit s independ struggle ocial-patr ed, and s the milita

The T v owing to roughly a aggles of mradely Youth oung Gui r. Belgian at n old tra ian occupa 1 on a Co . "Sociali munist Int rcotted the la for that re pel them from

OUR BOOKSHELF.

THE LABOUR PRESS.

(The Labour Party owes its popularity and its rather loosely knit membership to the vagueness of Its aims and to its reformistic tendencies. We do not for a moment believe it will be the instrument that will free the workers from the slavery of wagedom. It nevertheless absorbs the energy of many true and honest fighters, and for this reason we shall study its press. Whilst among us Communists, both here and abroad, there is a tendency to centralise the press of the Party, in the Labour and in the Socialist movement we notice the opposite tendency: that of creating local organs, giving scope to the activity of many enthusiasts who would otherwise find it difficult to take an active part. When one considers that the population of London is superior to that of several Nations, one cannot but be struck at the comparative weakness of the British Communist Press).

THE HAMMERSMITH PIONEER.

A monthly sheet of four pages that call itself "The Labour Journal for West London." We notice in the June issue a contribution by Anne Cobden-Sanderson to the Memory of William Morris. She states that the members of the old Hammersmith Society, founded by the Poet, "knew that it might be necessary to incur the penalties attaching to passive resistance, which is the true weapon of the weak and unarmed, and embarrasses a tyranny far more than acts of violence can do, turning the apparent victories of the strong and unjust into real defeats." We are pleased to note that that pelief no longer holds good. The Author well renders the spirit of Morris' propaganda when she says:-

"An individualist society based on private capital us inevitably a hierarchy of tyrannies, and if left to run its course will either degrade the workman and, crushing out all resistance, make him and keep him a hopeless slave, or, by adopting some of the ideas of Socialism and grafting them on to its system of tyrannies, ultimately deprive the world of a great nope and ideal, and, in a still deeper sense, enslave the workman, shutting him up in contented servitude, whilst the tyrannies fight one another, as in the late world-war, for a world-tyranny.

"And this, in the opinion of William Morris, was the great danger to which Socialism was exposed, and the one to be most guarded against: the danger that the spirit of revolt against injustice, that divinest spirit of man, would be extinguished in contentment with a makeshift betterment of present conditionsa betterment to be brought about by such piecemeal adoption of Socialism as is compatible with the essential tyranny of private capital."

A contribution by A. C. Adams on the necessity of linking up the T.U.'s and the Co-op.'s contains this super-reformist statement: "Money is the Trade Unions' ammunition during strikes . . . " The examples brought forward to prove this point: the assistance given by the Bank of the Co-operative Wholesale Society to the Northumberland Miners in 1912, and to the Railmen in 1919, are not cogent, for against these cases hundreds could be pointed out where unions with large banking accounts were beaten by lack of workers' solidarity.

The paragraph "Priming the Press" is worth reprinting as an useful reminder:-

"Every effort is being used by the publicity agents of the Government and the mineowners to prejudice the public against the miners.

"The Board of Trade has a publicity department, presided over by an able and enterprising journalist, formerly in the employ of Lord Northcliffe, and this department has been very active. Nor is the work of priming the newspapers confined to London, for the Government is well aware of the formative influence of the provincial newspapers on public opinion.

"The coalowners' bureaux are also busy. In normal times they keep up a steady stream of free and tendencious 'copy' for the newspapers, and at periods of crisis the stream becomes a torrent."

A West End Free Speech Defence Committee has peen formed. Secretary, Henry Bernard, 17, Richmond Gardens, W. 12.

THE TRADE UNION PRESS.

THE PRINTERS' WATCHWORD.

(Official organ of the Printers' Propaganda Society, 30, Gladstone Street, London, S.E. 1.)

Many of the well-established Trade Unions have their monthly journals, which are dutifully distributed, paid for and at times read. The majority of them, in fact, being stodgy and so uninteresting are but a mockery of what an organ inspired by class consciousness should be.

There are exceptions.

A striking one is the organ of the Printers' Watchword Propaganda Society, which held out promises of being in future still more interesting than it is now. In times of trade depression, there is a tendency for members to be critical, owing to the unpleasantness, to say the least, of une poloyment. When trade is brisk, vigilance is less alert and things slide back once more in the old groove. The need for what may be termed democratic control of our Unions is very pressing. Leaders need to be watched, not only for what they do not do on the economic field, but also for what they do in the political movement.

In the issue under review we note a paragraph, "The Compositor as Censor," where Mr. Sanders, of the Fabian Society, is reported as having said that the revolution had not brought a free press in Russia because compositors refused to set passages, "however fine," which were not pleasing to the left wing of the party.

It is indeed a burning question, how far a person doing only a part of the job is, morally justified in making himself the judge of the whole. Censorship of opinions cannot be defended under any circumstance.

The opinions of my Lord the Duke of Northumberland, or those of the Tory-minded Hyndman, may be, either of them, the final expression of social truth! Mine be all cooked and erroneous. Each has the inherent right of being freely expressed; but there must also be equal material possibility of expressing them. If my Lord has at his disposal the wide pages of the Morning Post, its powerful distributing organisations and the means of paying for them, and I am out of the possibility of even printing a broad sheet, this freedom and this equality are non-existing. That is the case of the workers. They are voiceless with regard to the Press.

We feel confident we have the Editor of the "Printers' Watchword" with us when we say that we would most heartily approve if the compositors or any of our great dailies were to put forward the demand that a page should be given over-free of charge—for the free expression of Labour views: that, in case their demands be denied, type would not be set up to convey false news and information about Labour. How far this is practicable at the present moment, the Editor of the "P. W." may indicate in the next issue of his monthly. During a revolutionary period, the capitalist press being that of the enemy in the field, will have to be treated according to the rules of warfare.

The "P. W." produced at the Caledonian Press keeps up to the high standard of that establishment.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Dear Editor,-I was pleased to see in your columns the letters of Comrades Staple and Goldberg anent religion and Communism. The views expressed should be seriously considered by those pseudo-Socialists who have not cast off their theological swaddling clothes, and who think that the millenium will be ushered in by a Christianised form of Socialism.

We do well to remember the dictum of Marx that it is part of the function of Socialism "to free consciousness from the religious spectre." It was not till that was done in my own case that I saw. that Socialism is the only way to reconcile the inherent antagonisms of the present system. Marx and Engels in the "Communist Manifesto" recognise that religion is one of the three things that block the path to Social Reform (pp. 19-26). And again Marx tells us that "Religion is a fantastic degradation of human life."

We need to declare the full orbed evangel officially enunciated by Wilhelm Liebknecht in the Reichstag that "the aim of our party is on the political plane, the republican form of State; on the economic, Socialism; and on the plane we term the religious, Atheism.'

"Christianity and Socialism," said Bebel, "are opposed as fire and water." With Liebknect I firmly believe that, "It is our duty to root out the faith of God with all our zeal, nor is one worthy of the name who does not consecrate himself to the spread of Atheism." If, as Karl Pearson says, "Socialism arises from the recognition that the sole aim of mankind is happiness in this life," what need have Socialists of the dope of Christianity and its Grundyite mob of parasitical priests and mercenary bibliolaters? Undoubtedly Karl Marx uttered pure truth when he said: "The idea of God is the keystone of a perverted civilisation. It must be destroyed." How undentable is the truth of the words of Bakunin: "The idea of God implies the abdication of human reason and justice; it is the most decisive negation of human liberty; and necessarily ends in the enslavement of mankind, both in theory and practice." And, again, "Religion is a collective insanity." I know of no more comprehensive statement of what a Socialist's attitude towards religion and Socialism should be than the short poem of Alexander Hadison, entitled, "Mr. Creed." "Reason my final arbiter shall be,

Blind faith is barred from my philosophy;

Nor God, nor Chirst know I;

My Deity is Man: my Creed bows to no fetish; Neither do I crave salvation in a life beyond the grave;

Far better strive mankind on earth to save through word and deed."

Not to any Deity or religion must the World's proletariat look for aid, but to their own initiative and powers of organisation for salvation.

In conclusion I should like to put this question to those psuedo-Socialists who regard religion as an ally. How do you propose to use your religion to compel or persuade the bourgeoisie to cease to monopolise natural resources, and hand them over to the community for the benefit of all?

JOSEPH NICHOLAS

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Michel Florent (of "L'Avenir Social," a socialist syndicalist organ of Tunis) asks us, "with a cordial shake hand," to exchange the "Dreadnought" for his paper. Certainly, with pleasure. We return the greeting.

W. J. Paul (Wallasey) writes: "I thoroughly agree with the idea of an unofficial Communist paper." Thanks for donation.

F. Berret ("Le Réveil Ouvrier," Nancy, France) writes: "I have got through a friend two copies of the "Workers' Dreadnought." They interest me very much. I should be glad if you would exchange our paper for yours." With pleasure. Glad to see your paper.

J.P. (Mile End). - Malatesta's address: in prison. is Carceri da San Vittore, Milan, Italy.

ADVERTISEMENT RATES.

One Single inch (up to three inches) ...... 5s. Every additional inch after three inches ...... 4s. Contracts for not less than 13 weeks 25% discount. Contracts for a column, half column, page and half page with liberal discount. Terms on application to-MANAGER,

"Workers' Dreadnought," 152, Fleet Street, E.C. 4.

THE BEST WORKING CLASS MONTHLY.

PLEBS THE

"Popolano."

SIXPENCE. Articles by F. Phippen, W. H. Mainwaring, R. Palme Dutt, "Nordicus," J. Griffin, W. MacLaine, 11A, PENYWERN ROAD, EARL'S COURT, S.W.5.

We have for Sale a few copies of

"MOSCOW."

Organ of the III. Congress of the "Comintern" (Communist International).

3d. each.

4d. Post Free. An interesting and valuable record.

SOMETHING TO READ.

The workers in your area are locked out or unemployed. They have time to read, but nothing to buy. Write to us for back numbers of the "Workers' Dreadnought" for free distribution, or buy the current issue and give it away.

TYPEWRITERS AND DUPLICATORS.

Barlock Visible, £3. Rem. 3, £2. Monarch, £9. " 7. £6.

" 10 £10. Noiseless, £12. .

Gestetner Rotary, £6. Diaphragm, £1. DEACON, 14 Crooked Lane, E.C. 4. Central 2754.

SMALL ADVERTISEMENTS-1d. a Word.

TO LET, Furnished, Large Country House near Derking. Apply Box 100.

IF YOUR Branch could do with a Reliable Typewriter or Duplicator, see my Advertisement above. Note Prices. Deacon, 14, Crooked Lane, E.C. 4.

WILL ANY COMRADE pay for the "Workers" Dreadnought" to be sent to one who, through defective sight and hearing, has lost the capacity to earn wages, and is dependent on relatives?

APARTMENTS WANTED in Manchester by Communist Family of three. Lancaster, 39, Upper Brook Street, Manchester.

ROOMS TO LET, twenty minutes 'bus ride from Liverpool Street. Apply E. S., Box 100, Workers' Dreadnought Office.

FOR SALE STUDIO EASLE and MODELLING Stands. Apply P. LL., Box 101, Workers' Dreadnought Office.

FOR SALE Grindstone. Apply Box 110, Workers Dreadnought Office.

WANTED Agents for selling Dreadnoughts which we supply to those who take quantities at 3s. a quire.

FURNISHED FRONT ROOM for two or three TRUE Communists. Library in different languages at disposal. - 58, Fortess Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

Published by E. Sylvia Pankhurst at 152, Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4, and printed by S. Corio at 10, Wine Office Court, Fleet, Street, London, E.C. 4.