the Fourth International.

Founded and Edited by INTERNATIONAL COMMUNISM.

SYLVIA PANKHURST

VOL. VIII. No. 30.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8TH, 1921.

WEEKLY.

PRICE TWOPENCE.

Death of the Old Industrialism. What will replace it?

The old Industrial Unionism had reached its zenith in South Wales; now it lies crushed, in many districts absolutely in ruins. It has had its day.

A blight has fallen upon South Wales. One sees it as soon as one enters the valleys. It makes itself known by the sad broken looks of the women who stand at the doors of those long monotonous rows of little houses. Those drooping, dejected figures with faces hopeless and worn, and dull-eyed, seem more in keeping with poor down-trodden casual working East London than with what was lately fighting, hopeful relatively prosperous South Wales. One sees the growth of poverty in the children. though less in the children, as yet, than in their mothers, who hug in their shawls, with a growing despair in their fervent affection, those baby burdens whose nourishing is rendered more difficult every day. The poorer dress of the people, even on Sundays, tells the same story; the knitting, knitting of women who can no longer afford to buy ready-made socks for their men; and the boot repairing apparatus, prominently displayed in the centre of the window in shops in the main streets; people who can no longer afford to send their shoes to the cobbler must learn to mend them at home, if they can find the money for the tools.

Tens of thousands of men are workless, tens of thousands have had no work since the great Lock-out was declared by the employers on April 1st, and now fresh pits have been closed. Wages are coming down: the wage of the labourers underground and the surface workers is expected to fall to about £1 16s. Od. a week within the next few days. The South Wales mine worker promises to be one of the worst paid men in the country in the near future. The old independent spirit is broken. Men employed in difficult working places, where payment at piece rates will not keep the wolf from the door, are afraid to claim the minimum wage established to safeguard them in such cases, lest they be told there is no work for them next day. In the old independent days before the Lock-out so many men were working on the minimum wage in some of the pits that the miners decided to abandon the check-weighmen elected by them to see that they were properly paid on piece rates. Now they are clamouring to get the checkweighmen back. The check-weighman's wage is paid by the miners, their contribution towards his wage being stopped out of their wages by the colliery office; some colliery offices are refusing to make these stoppages which the law enjoins upon them; but such abuses to-day pass unnoticed; for the great South Wales Miners' Federation 18 all but broken; its members have fallen away from it; they lost their old pride and confidence in its power.

"The men are treated like pigs: they are afraid to open their mouths for fear of being told they are not wanted," complains a miner's wife.

In the years before the war the strength of the Miners' Federation already seemed gigantic. During the war when the demand for South Wales coal for the Navy and for export always exceeded the supply, its power seemed to the miners almost invincible; they prevented the operations of the Munitions Act in their area; they laughed at Ministerial threats and seemed able to secure any concession for which they were willing to strike or even to threaten to strike. At any grievance that touched them they were ready to say: "We'll stop those wheels." Their ambitious enthusiasts proposed to secure by the might of their hundred per cent. organisation, not merely better conditions for themselves, but political reforms affecting the whole population. pensions for soldiers, reduction of prices, nationalisation of the mines. Those were great days of talk for the Miners' Federation; great days of hope and confidence for the rank and file, though the reactionary officials of the union prevented anything really big from happening.

The Fallacies of the Industrial Unionists.

The school of thought which then held the confidence of the men in the pits; the school that was on the crest of the wave of popularity, was that of the industrialist direct actionists. This school contended that the Trade Unions of to-day would be the governing and administering machinery of the country to-morrow. In the womb of the decaying civilisation the new civilisation is growing, was the favourite statement of these industrialists, and from it they deduced that the Trade Unions which the workers have built up in these days of adversity, to palliate their deplorable conditions under capitalism, will be the organs which will precipitate the revolution, fight their way into power, overturning capitalism. and establishing the dictatorship of the proletariat, which they will straightway proceed to administer, thus becoming the rulers of the country. These industrialists refused to countenance the notion that though the working class might be developing in consciousness and power of cohesion through their trade union experience, they might be evolving towards a yet higher form of organisation than the industrial union. The industrial unionists would not even consider the possibility that the present unions, having served their purpose of tempering the bitter wind of capitalism to the labour lamb, might disappear with the capitalist system which produced them. The industrialists would not discuss whether it might not be possible that, even should the industrial union survive through capitalism on into Communism, a new, more mobile, more homogeneous instrument might not be required for the battle of the proletarian revolution. No; they were convinced that the existing Industrial Unions and Trade Unions were all in all and all essential.

What Contemporary History Teaches.

Yet what lessons was the history of our own time setting before us, to teach us all the error of such doctrine! Our own great British Trade Union organisation was obviously a bubble waiting to be pricked by the first serious impact with capitalism. The reactionary leaders of the unions maintained their leadership without difficulty, because their memberships were largely composed of unconscious masses whose intelligence was still dominated by the ideology of bourgois politics.

Trade Unions do not make Revolution.

Abroad the Russian people overthrew capitalism without the existence of a trade union organisation of any extent, and their dual Revolution was effected by a fighting minority combined in relatively small organisations. As in the 1905 Revolution, the Soviets, not the Trade Unions, became the administrative organ of the Revolution.

In Germany, the country likest to ours, by reason of its extensive industrial development, a revolution was effected and a bourgeois democratic republic set up, not by the Trade Unions, but by the fighting organisations outside. As in Russia, Soviets appeared, but were crushed by the reactionary elements, amongst which were numbered the Trade Union Executives, as well as by the outside pressure of allied capitalist governments. In the several subsequent attempts to create a proletarian revolution in Germany the same feature has been apparent—the mass of the Trade Unions either took sides against the Revolution, or remained neutral. In Austria and Hungary the same thing was repeated.

Still, the leaders of the Industrial Union direct actionist school maintained their old ground; still they adhered to their old, old tactics; the advocacy of futile palliatives, which they were never tired of telling us might somehow lead the all-unconscious masses to revolution.

The Fallacy of Capturing the Official Positions

A conspicuous fallacy with which they delighted to gull themselves, and the body of enthusiasts who followed them, was that if they, the industrial revolutionaries, could but capture the official positions in these mammoth Trade Unions with their slumbering membership, they could as easily lead them to the barricades of a bloody revolution, to the struggle for liberty or death, as the present comfortable officials could maintain the sleepers in their inactive state. Oh, absurd and thrice foolish fallacy! Are you also gulled by its easy glamour, Russian Comrades?

Black Friday and the great collapse of the Miners' Federation in the late historic lock-out ought to have shown the direct actionist industrialists the errors in their reasoning. Indeed, these events have shown their mistakes to those who have not still remained but half-baked revolutionaries. Those who are still only ready, to engage in a merely superficial platonic flirtation with revolutionary ideals continue floundering in the mire of their errors.

A Reply to A. J. Cook. A. J. Cook, the miners' agent, who has just left the Communist Party of Great Britain, not for a good, but for a bad Continued on page 5.

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION.

A blue mark in this space indicates that your subscription is now due.

Increased Postal rates and the high cost of production of the paper necessitate prompt payment.

to weaken his positive accusation by the visability of countermanding the visit of the be (I need not say shall be) judged a rash uncertainty of a very important but, as Regent of Tjanjar. and to have it scientifically examined, as copying official documents, copies which strictly conform to the originals, I think I may use single pronouns instead of the foolish titles; the good taste of my readers will approve this change.

"No. 88. Private.

24th February, 1856. "TO THE RESIDENT OF BANTAM, I have occupied myself in examining how the chiefs discharge their obligations towards the population as regards statute-labour, poondootan,* and so on. I soon discovered that the Regent, on his own responsibility and for his own advantage, summoned the population to work for him, far above the legally authorised number of pantjens or kemits.†

" RANKAS-BETONG.

"I hesitated between the choice of immediately sending an official report, or trying to induce this native functionary to change his policy by gentle means, or even cularly considering the bad examples which. and in connection with the fact that he had "disturbed him in pressing business!" to pass before reporting to you officially expected a visit from two of his relatives (the Regents of Bombang and Tjandor, who yearly report on TRANQUIL TRANQUILITY. are coming with a large train), which will Notwithstanding his pressing business, place him more than usually in temptation however, Mr. Slymering would come next to provide by unlawful means for that day to Rankas-Betong, to deliberate on what

"All this made me incline to moderation with regard to what had already happened, Bantam-wrote the following letter, which but not at all to indulgence for the future. he sent to meet the Resident, to be read "I insisted on the immediate cessation by him before his arrival at Lebak:-

of every unlawful act. "I have acquainted you with my previous efforts to induce the Regent to do his duty; but it is evident that he casts all to the winds with rude insolence, and I feel bound, by virtue of my official oath, to communicate to you: "That I accuse the Regent of Lebak, I suspect him of extortion and exacting treated this affair privately at first . . production in natura without payment, or for prices arbitrarily fixed:

Koodjang (the Regent's son-in-law) of complicity in the above-mentioned abuses.

you to order me:the utmost speed to Serang, and to take care discretion. When I began to despair of that he shall not have occasion, either before the success of my endeavours—when the

in any other way. Koodjang into custody.

"(3) To apply the same measure to such persons of inferior rank belonging to the self. to mar the impartiality of the examination unfounded, I should be unworthy to serve latter had not endeavoured to restrain Have the He knew what was in store for him. It was family of the Regent, who may be expected to be instituted.

* Poondootan, obtaining provisions under pretext that as often as required.

† Followers and serving-people summoned to increase the pomp and attend upon the chief or other

A Tale of the Dutch East Indies.

Havelaar wrote and dispatched this letter, place immediately, and to report circum- to his nephew to distribute money with a observing circumspection, while not uttering stantially on the issue. I take the liberty profuse hand to everyone whom he previ of submitting to your consideration the ad- ously swindled. In consequence I sho ment of this affair has no difficulty at all, true, but perhaps it would appear untrue and that I should be rather apprehensive the affair were so treated as to reveal n disgusted by all the vexation he has suffered pected arrival and the express sent by n and that he has long sought relief.

fulfil my difficult duty in writing this letter to awake and endeavour to exculpate his from the hope that I may be allowed in self. My missive of yesterday proposed due time to bring forward one or two ex- removal of the Regent. I can no furth cuses for the old Regent, for whose position, be responsible for what I advanced, the though caused by his own fault, I never- so far as you may be pleased to agree to theless feel great compassion.

The Assistant Resident at Lebak.

a private letter.

the knowledge of how Government is carried cipitately or rashly. Precipitately! on in Dutch India. Mr. Slymering com- After years and years of abuses! Rashly afterwards by threats in order to put an plained that Havelaar had not first verbally communicated to him the affair mentioned this old servant of the Government, parti- in letter No. 88. Had he done so there welfare he is called upon to watch, suffer would have been more chance of "arranging" matters; moreover, he added, Havelaar The man was surely busy writing the I apologise for that neglect.

visit owing to his critical pecuniary em- ought to be done. Havelaar, who knew what such deliberation meant, his predecessor had so often deliberated with the Resident of

'RANKAS-BETONG.

25th Feb., 1856, 11 p.m. "Yesterday, at 12 o'clock, I had the honour to send you my missive (Immediate,

"I have just received your kind and Radeen Adhipatti, Karta, Natta, Negara of esteemed private letter communicating that abuse of power, by disposing unlawfully you will come here to-morrow, and at the of the labour of his subordinates, and that same time a hint that I ought to have

"All my investigations about the Regent were quite secret; only he and his Adjutant "That I suspect the Demang of Perang- knew of them, for I myself had frankly warned him. Even the Controller knows only a part of my investigations. When I "In order conclusively to prove these still hoped to bring back the Regent to the charges-I take the liberty of proposing to right way, it was my object, if I succeeded, not to compromise him. The Patteh thanked "(1) To send the Regent of Lebak with me in the name of the Regent for this his departure, or during the journey, to measure of my indignation overflowed on influence the witnesses by corruption, or hearing of a recent occurrence; when a longer silence would have become partici-"(2) To take the Demang of Perang- pation as an accomplice—then that secrecy was to my advantage; for I, too, have to fulfil duties towards my household and my-

"If what I wrote to you yesterday were he began by asking the Controller why sible to me to prove I have done what a was quite unaware of the accusation, and all necessaries are supplied by the population, and vears' hard service, and the interests of manner. As Verbrugge maintained wife and child, unless deep secrecy hide ignorance, the Resident began to read him my investigations and prevent the criminal Havelaar's letters. from shielding himself? At the least sus-

"(4) To order that examination to take picion the Regent would send an express unserviceable functionary, not to say worse "Finally, I have the honour to give you, "To prevent that, I write this letter to exhume the corpse of his predecessor, as one who knows the district of Lebak Your hint that it would have been better better than it is as yet possible for me to have treated the affair privately at first to know it, the assurance that, from a poli- makes me apprehensive of such a course moved and his party made harmless. In tical point of view, the strictly just treat. What I stated in my missive yesterday is if it is not cleared up, for I am informed accusation and suspicion before the rethat the poor man is, as a witness told me, moval of the Regent. Even your unexvesterday to Serang may cause the accused "I have partly derived the strength to who would not listen to my exhortation my proposal that the investigation be in partial, open and, above all, free. This "MAX HAVELAAR." cannot be before the removal of the Regent. The next day the Resident of Bantam The Regent can be told that it is I, not he, who is in danger, in the event of No, but "Mr. Slymering" did so in innocence being established: for myself, am of opinion that I ought to be dismi That reply is a precious contribution to if it should appear that I have acted pa > as if an honest man could sha and live and enjoy, whilst they, over who

I have taken the liberty to request you "Well, are you armed?" inquired the Mayor. to give me the opportunity to justify i letter of vesterday, and to guarantee n against the miscarriage of my endeavou to free Lebak from the worms which ha gnawed since the memory of man at

'Therefore I again take the liberty asking you to approve my action in inve gating, reporting and proposing the remov of the Regent of Lebak without direct indirect notice beforehand, and to order investigation of what I communicated my letter of yesterday.

"No. 88: the Assistant Resident of Leba "MAX HAVELAAR."

This request not to take the crimin under his protection, the Resident received to the Regent, and asked him whether he against him. I can solemnly swear to that." warrant for you." him a couple of bank-notes.

When the Resident Slymering ent Havelaar's house he was paler than usual; the intervals between his words were lo than ever. It was indeed no small th for a person who so excelled in arranging and making out yearly reports of "th quility," to receive so unexpectedly let in which there was no trace either optimism, artificial colouring, or fear of the Government's displeasure.

The Resident of Bantam was in a fright

To be continueds

By MULTATULE THUGS, OR THE BATTLE OF MATEWAN. A STORY OF THE CLASS WAR IN AMERICA

aller dog" papers and a good number of thugs. track.

October 8, 1921.

got to go to law to get them out," answered came running down, quite out of breath.

However, Albert ealled together his men, and whole bank as security." It was common knowledge that the thugs would Albert. return later. It was as if the Mayor knew for "To Bluefield!" said the Mayor. "Why silv. if he had not some scheme on hand. County Seat of this county?" the Mayor became active and called Preacher "No. Mr. Mayor, I'm taking him to Blueombs, and told him to go and find twelve men field." th high-powered rifles, for him to deputise to "Then let me see your warrant," dmanded warrant for the arrest of Albert Felts.

and went up to him:

"No, I ain't " was the reply.

"Well, get armed, quick!" "Yes, I am," and the Mayor deputised him at nce. Preacher Coombs returned, but he could ot find more than six men, and only two of them had high-power guns. The Mayor deputised the six and sent Coombs to look for more. It was getting on for half-past five in the afternoon, en Chief Hatfield, standing near his office, was orised to see a boy running towards him, cry-ng: " The thugs is come to town!" Sid Hatfield walked hurriedly to the back , and there was Albert and Lee Felts, and nd C. B. Cunningham, the gunman that was known for being quick on the draw. Standing at the back of them were ten Baldwin-Felts men. hen there was that dummy who had been hangon the way to Lebak. An hour after his ing around town all day without a gun, and arrival at Kankas-Betong, he paid a visit keeping the fact that he was a Balwin-Felts' man himself. The Chief walked up to Albert and could "say anything to his prejudice of handed him a slip of paper. "I've got a heavy fire on Sid with a Colt's .45 automatic. the Assistant Resident, and whether he, the warrant for you," he remarked, with a smile

The second question he answered in the Slowly but surely, all the thugs, shuffling the town policeman, who was standing quiet.

"We'll take you up to Bluefield on the train that's due in seven minutes," cried Albert Felts. Sid said nothing, and only smiled.

ace where the Pullman stops?"

"Yes," replied Sid.

Foresight is a handy thing, and Sid possessed the Government. Would it, will it, be pos- laar from his accusation. Poor Verbrugge no part of their plan to give him a Pullman ride. lambers' hardware store.

Albert and Lee Felts, of the " Baldwins and ... Albert Felts and Cunningham, the gunman, the back of the Post Office, intending to fight Detectives, Inc.," arrived at Stone kept close to him, while Lee Felts and the other from there; but a young coal digger had entered fountain mine, early in the morning, with ten gunmen stood a few paces from the railroad just before him, and being unarmed, was rather monny, to throw coal diggers who had joined minutes are up," remarked Albert, looking at man was coming for him, but he picked up a the Union out of their houses, which belonged to his watch with one eye, whilst he kept the other gallon bottle of medicine and hit the detective on Sid Hatfield. Sid was now standing in the plumb over the head with it. The detective fell After the thugs had evicted about six families doorway of the hardware store, leaning against back with his eyes poping out, and somebody put m their houses, somebody ran up the Lug the door facing and looking out towards the rail- two or three more bullets in his body, to make Chief was soon on the scene, and sible, and placed one foot in the door and the across the side street. H fired, but missed. oached Albert Felts regarding his actions. other on the sidewalk. Isaac Brewer had come Sid took a steady aim and had him in the head. Albert," said Sid, " if what you are doing up from inside the store, and stood behind Sid, Another detective was running around the bank according to law, you can do it and I won't nobody noticing him. There was nobody else corner and ran into Bob Mullins; he shot Bob terfere; but if what you are doing is not the around, only a few coal-diggers who had been dead, and then turned and made a stand. He you've got to stop putting people out of fired for joining the Union were standing near was shooting from behind the bank corner, and the track waiting for the train that was due in was hard to get at, because of Sid's bullets "I've got the right to throw them out any seven minutes. A commotion could be heard up clipping the corner bricks; but soon he was shot time the Company wants, and besides, I haven't the street, and all of a sudden Mayor Testament through the shoulder. On the side-walk lay a

And so they argued, until finally they went to of Police," remarked the Mayor to Albert, The rest of them ran past Chambers' store totelephone and called up the lawyers. Some "I need him for his duties here, to protect the the lawyers said that Albert had the right town, and I'll give bond for him. "I'll give through the shoulder, began wading across the throw them out, and others said he had not, any amount of bond you name; I'll give the re away in their automobiles, about noontime. "No; I'm taking him to Bluefield," answered

ertain that Albert Felts would not retire so don't you take him to Williamstown; that is the defend the town, and Chief Hatfield issued a the irritated Mayor. Albert slowly produced a miner fired a shot-gun and he fell dead. the paper from his pocket and handed it to the Everybody had now stopped shooting. In the "I regret the days that I have allowed As the Mayor was walking down the street, Mayor was reading the street lay seven dead detectives, and four he noticed a miner standing on the side-walk warrant, Albert turned his head in the direction wounded coal diggers. The Mayor was as good where Lee and the ten detectives were standing. as dead, and Bob Mullins dead; with Tot Tinsley The Mayor finished reading the paper and > looked Albert straight in the face. "This," said he, "is a bogus warrant."

Hardly before the Mayor had finished speak ing, Albert's hand went to his hip pocket like a flash of lightning. Within a few seconds, the Mayor was practically a dead man, shot through the stomach. He turned and fired at Sid, but missed, and the bullet went through the right lung of Isaac Brewer, paralysing his gun hand. He was a man who couldn't shoot with his left hand, and was therefore helpless. Sid kept cool thugs, and drew two high-powered guns, one in each hand. He aimed steadily at Albert Felts' forehead, the bullet coming out at the back of his head, then one through Cunningham's head; he had a nasty habit of shooting at the head, being under the impession that detectives wear a coat

The ten detectives, along with Lee, opened up

The smoke caused by this close-range shooting Regent, wanted money." To the first quest beaming all over his face. Albert grinned and had formed a cloud around Sid, thus preventing tion the Regent replied: "I have nothing said: "I'll return the compliment; I've got a them having a good aim. One of their bullets knocked Sid's Smith-Wesson .38 out of his left hand, but he walked towards them, regardaffirmative, whereupon the Resident gave on one foot and then the other, formed a com- less of the danger, using his .44. By now, all te circle around Sid Hatfield. He was sur- the guns were in action, the prettiest lot of unded, and Sid knew it. None of his friends artillery one could ever wish to see. Lee Felts were near, with the exception of Isaac Brewer, stood firing with his Colt's automatic. 45 at Sid. Then Lee placed the emptied gun back in the holster and drew another, which he aimed with both hands at Sid. Somebody, probably a fired miner, saw Lee, and aiming from behind, shot "We'll ride on the Pullman, Sid," remarked him through the heart. He uttered a curse and bert as he led Sid to the place where the end fell on his back, with his mouth wide open and he train would stop. "I suppose this is the arms spread out, with the Colt's .45 still in his hand. A coal digger saw it and jumped over his body, kicking the gun out of his hand, which he picked up and put into action. None of the

With Albert and Lee Felts, along with the thought that they wanted him to be near the Cunningham dead, the detectives began to run good Assistant Resident ought, that I am said so, but was not believed. Mr. Slymer and of the train in order to jump on when they around the Post Office corner. One of them got not unworthy my office, and that I do not ing could not believe that any person with a lad finished with him flashed across his mind, into the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not believe that any person with the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not believe that any person with the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not believe that any person with the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not believe that any person with the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not believe that any person with the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not believe that any person with the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not believe that any person with the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not believe that any person with the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the little lemonade stand that I do not ing could not be lived to the lived personages invited by the Regent or district chiefs, risk thoughtlessly and rashly my seventeen out assistance could do his duty in such as sistance could do his duty in such as sistan low or other, Sid managed to edge back towards the thin boards would stop the bullets. Another doing to permit engines of war to be sent out the town-side of the street, near the back door of tall and skinny detective made a dash for Dr. from British ports to fight their Russian Smith's office in the one-storey brick building at brothers?

frightened at seeing a detective entering with a had come there at the instruction of the "That Pullman will be in before seven gun in each hand. Naturally, he thought the River to the town and informed Chief Sid road track, with a calm smile on his face. sure, while he was falling. When Sid got round Albert made himself as comfortable as pos- the corner, there was a Baldwin-Felts' man > fellow with his legs broken by bullets, and who "I understand you are arresting my Chief kept shooting at Sid. Eventually, Sid got him. wards the river. One detective, who was shot river, but failed; so he returned and went to a house which was near, where a widow lived.

He went to the door and said: " Lady, I'm shot through. Lady, let me come in; if you will shelter me, I will give you a thousand dollars."

But the widow was scared to death.

"Oh, God, you can't come in here; if you come in, I'll have to go out," cried the woman. So the detective went on down the road, and in the vacant lot. And the train for Bluefield had not yet arrived.

NOTE.—The "Yallow Dog" is a document by which the coal digger agrees "that he will not, while in the employ of the Company, belong to, or affiliate in any way with, and agrees to sever any connection he may have heretofore had with, any such Union or organisation."

Sid Hatfield is known as the "miners' friend," and has, quite recently, been shot by one of the

-T. ISLWYN NICHOLAS.

"LABOUR" ON THE FENCE.

The Labour News, the Press bulletin issued by the Labour Party, says:-

"The spirit of the British and Irish peoples is sound, and it is for the statesmen of the two countries to translate the popular desire for peace into practical form."

These are mere words, by which it is sought to conceal the fact that the issue is being evaded. The Labour Party should make clear its own position on the Irish question. At the present it is sitting on the fence and waiting for the capitalist parties to give it a lead. That is not a dignified position for Labour. Come off the fence, Mr. Henderson, and show the people what manner of man you are!

BRITAIN SUPPLYING TORPEDO BOATS TO POLAND.

Now then, Councils of Action?

A Danzig message of September 10th states :--"Three torpedo boats have arrived in Danzig Harbour for Poland. They were supplied by England.

"Why does Poland want torpedo boats? When were they ordered?"

These torpedo boats are certainly intended for use against Soviet Russia. From which British FOUNDED 1914. Editor: SYLVIA PANKHURST.

All Matter for Publication to be Addressed to the Editor Business Communications to the Manager: Workers' Dreadwought, 152, Fleet Street, London, B.C.4. TELEPHONE: CENTRAL 7240, SUBSCRIPTION:

THREE MONTHS (13 weeks)		Post	Free	3/3
Six Months (26 weeks)	•••	"	99	6/6
ONE YEAR (52 weeks)		93	10	13/-

Vol. VIII. No. 30. Saturday, October 8, 1921. are therefore left without their dole.

THE NEW COMMUNIST WORKERS' INTERNATIONAL.

though one may not be able to refrain altogether nothing will come of the Conference. from regret that the Third International has, through force of circumstances, developed along lines which have caused it to become the defender of Soviet Russia, rather than the champion of the World Revolution,

We believe, for our part, that all attempts by Soviet Russia to conciliate and negotiate with lease of 30 Poplar Guardians, who are being the forces of Capitalism will turn out to have been unusually well treated in prison, when all is said gravely mistaken. We greatly regret them: we and done, much as we sympathise with their lot. have always been opposed to the policy of entering into Trade Agreements with capitalist Powers, and to the grant of capitalist concessions in Russia.

Our admiration and sympathy for those who have dared and achieved much in the attempt to little thing like Equalisation of the London set up the first Proletarian Republic, must not deter us from expressing, quite frankly and sincerely, our actual views.

Communism remains, and must remain, our first consideration. It is our duty, a duty we shall continue to fulfil, to point out unswervingly the true path to Communism, without regard to any conflicting Party or personal considerations. MACDONALD AND THE UNEMPLOYED. explains, most clearly and concisely, that the His Majesty's Labour Ministry some day, and, state of Russia's economic development and the since it is the King who decides which of the material conditions with which she is faced, have leaders of the majority party shall be Prime Government to maintain a fighting lead in the Forward should certainly assist him in the race world revolutionary struggle. to the Soviet Government and the Russian likely candidates; but one never knows. Party; since a Moscow Executive wholly dominated by Russian policy controls the action of all the National Parties affiliated to the Third International, since every day this policy becomes less revolutionary, the rise of a Fourth International has become inevitable.

British paper to welcome the Third Interna- for the unemployed [the I.L.P. work, of course] tional; it now has the honour to be the first to in both Municipal and National bodies is welcome the Fourth International.

The Fourth International represents the Communist principles and tactics which we believed them in these columns we declared to be those and such a result! of the Third International until we were regretfully undeceived.

Since the Fourth International represents our opinion, we at once announce our adherence to it, and issue an invitation to Communists, and groups of Communists who are of the same mind, to send us their names for enrolment in the Communist Workers' Party, which will shortly be organised.

THE IGNORING OF PARLIAMENT.

Lloyd George "settles" the Unemployed Problem In this so-called "democratic" land of ours, we have departed from Parliamentarism, and instead of rule by the King, who must defer to his barons, because they provide him with troops, we have Lloyd George, who must defer to his

Whether in Gairloch or in London, he rules Mr. MacDonald proceeds to say, that when as he and representatives of the great capitalist these ignorant unemployed spokesmen interests think best. Having decided what shall with local bodies upon which Labour is rem be done, he orders Parliament to give its assent; sented, they exploit them without the least or and Parliament obeys. The latest "stunts" for "settling" the unem- mands made upon some of the London Labour ployed problem which Lloyd George and his Councils have been atrocious in their mischien backers are said to have evolved, are an exten- ousness, and were they accepted, would lead to sion of the export credits scheme, which means the triumphant re-establishment of the work putting more capital into the hands of the forms of reaction in London Government. capitalists, at the people's expense, and a agitation is concentrated on local bodies on guarantee that they shall not lose if they lend diverts attention from Government responsibility money to Boards of Guardians. Meanwhile, the At the same time, it completely subverts Labour Government has refused a loan to Dudley policy and gives the outsider to understand the Guardians, and the unemployed in that district it is nothing but an endless dribble of doles."

SINN FEIN V. BRITISH GOVERNMENT

We publish on another page, extracts from Lloyd George's final letter to Sinn Fein, on the Manifesto of the Workers' Communist In- the Conference question, was a climb down; but ternational, which has just been inaugurated in the situation still remains that unless Sinn Fein, that a Labour Party Cabinet may presently be ideals, as to every good fellow similarly Berlin. Its conclusions appear to us irrefutable, is prepared to compromise, and that seriously, trying to hold out against just the same sort of placed, is the daily neg ting for pallia-

McLEAN ON HUNGER STRIKE.

London crowds are demonstrating for the re-

We hope that Glasgow comrades are doing as expensive demand! much for Communist John McLean, who faces death by the hunger strike, and is to be subjected to the torture of forcible feeding.

McLean is fighting for Communism, not for a

Show a sense of proportion, comrades! McLean is reported seriously ill.

The Manifesto of the Fourth International Ramsay MacDonald means to be a member of rendered inevitable the failure of the Soviet Minister, MacDonald's articles in the Glasgow for the first Labour Premiership. J. H. Since the Third International is firmly bound Thomas and Arthur Henderson appear more > MacDonald, in a recent Forward, took the ment any reason to assume that if it shirks it unemployed seriously to task. He is thoroughly responsibilty, men will starve quietly." Having shocked by the behaviour of some of their urged on his followers to destroy those of the spokesmen, and declares them guilty of "pitiable vanity, ignorance, and incompetence."

The Workers' Dreadnought was the first Mr. MacDonald proudly says that "our work on record," and says that "the demand work or maintenance" was the result of the I.L.P.'s unemployed agitation.

would find acceptance in the Third Inter- How disgraceful of those ignorant unemployed tional, and which, when we gave expression to spokesmen not to be satisfied with such a record

> But those unemployed spokemen are so deplorably ignorant; Mr. MacDonald tells us that, " being in touch with no responsible organisation, they produce no programme of demands that can help anybody or any movement." That is a warning to us all not to give our pennies into the unemployed collecting boxes, but to save them for the I.L.P. Parliamentary Election Fund, through which we shall secure much more satisfying results. Although our donations will fill the stomachs of our workless brothers and sisters, we shall have the substantial consolation of knowing that if our money should help to secure the election of any I.L.P. candidates, every word of their speeches in Parliament on unemployment will be reproduced in the verbatim report of the Debates: thus we shall have taken a hand in making the history of our time.

cern for their wellbeing. For instance, the de-

Mr. MacDonald is "glad that the London with the blandishments of employers of Labour Party has at last put its back up and has a labour, who would like to draw his oratorical issued a warning against this kind of agitation a teeth and make him harmless, is by no firm stand."

Mr. MacDonald is far-seeing enough to realise Still more dangerous to his revolutionary agitation, and he is wisely taking care to protect tives to make this present system just a made were acceded to in Woolwich, the West petual compromise. The fact that he feels workers. £5,000 a week, an amount equal to a sixpenne Rate. Surely all but ignorant, vain, and incomthan make themselves responsible for such an

Does that mean that an agitation which does not face the fact that the unemployed are hungry and cannot wait for a meal to see whether Labour Government will give it them is an imexplain, is from Mr. MacDonald's article; it means that every agitation must face the fact that to relieve the unemployed adequately would be exceedingly costly, and that, therefore, the unemployed must continue to go hungry.

expose and discredit them."

And yet, says this cynical political schemers "it must do all this without giving the Governunemployed who have the courage and initiative to lead the rest to rebellion, he would have a few speeches made as to what the masses would pacifists in whom the workers still put their trust, were but to remove our restraining influ

MORE LIKE SOLIDARIRY.

Paris, are on strike against the manufacture of was thought or action having been done. material, they suspect it to be destined for Poland The Pallure of the 100 per cent. Industrial Union or Roumania for use against Soviet Uussia.

DREADNOUGHT DEVELOPMENT FUND G. Marks 10s., Mrs. Cahill £1 10s., G. L Anon. 10s., Mrs. Brimley 10s., Ferndale Maerdy Lodge, M.F.G.B., £1 7s., S. African B. T. Bloom £1 1s. Total, £11 16s. 0d.

BADGES.

SOVIET ARMS, in gilt on red enamel, 1s. 3d. un Street, E.O. 4.

EW TACTICS-continued from page 1.

on has been reared by stronger brains his in the school of the industr ow with a volatile impulsive temperant and has many times suffered impriment for the proletarian cause. Elevan to the official position which gave him salary of £504 last year, with various tra monetary windfalls, has made his sent life perhaps a trifle too comfortable be quite healthy from a revolutionary dooint. A seat on the M.F.G.B. Execuand the local Borough Council, brings admits, rather ruefully, when talking comrades in his more expansive moments. "An agitation which does not face facts is when the Executive decided to accept those of them! fraudu'ent imposition upon starving people." terms. Cook, against his own convictions, and file to accept them. position? Oh dear no! that would be altogether themselves, as of course Cook is telling him-educating the more enlightened sections of actionary officials. the masses and preparing them to create he supreme crisis. Those who have accepted official positions in the old unions are leaving the work of preparing the relution to other people.

The Fallacy of Revolution by Accident ... Cook and those who have taught him his plitics, are still in the dark and cannot if we of the I.L.P., we, the wise and saintly see the path to the proletarian revolution on which recent events have shed so much

Still they cast around them, as of old, for some easy palliative which will raise And so let them starve, those ignorant unem the cheap cheer of the thoughtless and ployed; whilst Ramsay MacDonald sits in his unenlightened, gulling themselves, just as comfortable easy chair and reads his Bolingbroke, they have been doing all these years, that in the high-tide of some enthusiastic meet ng to demand a little palliative the great social revolution may Lurst upon us without an hour's constructive preparatory work in exercise the pressure that was yielded when trade depression has lost its power. employers were getting rich quick and could ionist direct actionists. He is a good not secure as much labour as they re- away from the Federation, which is so exquired, and when the Government was en- tensive, Cook, just like the complete reacgaged in a life and death European struggle.

Still, Cook and those who have trained im, pin their faith to the hundred per cent. Industrial Union; and now that the hundred men for every job.

Cook and his school refuse to realise that since the strike weapon the only effective weapon ever weilded by the old industrial unionism is powerless now, the old industrial unionism is itself deprived of

Cook and his school cannot adapt themselves to the changed position; they cannot discover new tactics.

Limpet Leaders retained by Unconscious Masses The rebel rank and file is feeling, and that " the Woolwich Party has also taken means good for his spiritual vigour, as though not always consciously, the need for new tactics; it realises that the hundred per cent. Industrial Union has been tried in the struggle with capitalism and found wanting. The rebels declare that the proletarian cause has been "sold" by the leaders which the hundred per cent. Inhimself beforhand against any change of incon. Ittle more bearable, which is entailed by dustrial Union chose for itself, and which his position as miners' agent, and which it continues to hold to, though those leaders If the demands which the unemployed have forces him to live in an atrophere of per- are clearly shown to have betrayed the wich Labour Party declares that they would cost himself bound in honour to carry out the Cook joins the cry of the rebels; he, policy of the reactionary executive, of which too, says that the proletarian cause has he is both a member and an employee, is been "sold" by Frank Hodges and the petent unemployed would prefer to starve rather the worst possible thing for him. Cook on others in control of the Miners' Federathe Miners' Executive, of course, opposed tion; but Cook goes on endeavouring to line the terms offered by the Government and up the masses behind the old false leaders. the employers in the late lock-out; but because, he says, it is impossible to get rid

The rebel rank and file in the coalfield: felt himself bound to recommend the rank those who to-day call themselves Communists, and many who have not yet gone so Revolutionaries who accept an official far also see the impossibility of ridding the position in reactionary organisations tell hundred per cent. Industrial Union of the reactionary leaders; they see the impossi too obvious a remark; the quotation, we must self, that when the supreme moment comes, bility even of getting rid of Cook now he they will burn their boats and defy the is turning against them, although it was Executive, either resigning or allowing only the other day that they put him/where nemselves to be dismissed. Vain hope! he is. They begin to realise the fact to Once the supreme moment arrives their pre- which Cook and his fellow industrial unionsent submission to the reaction will have ists are still blind; the self-evident fact robbed them of any capacity to recognise that when an organisation comprises a hun-Mr. MacDonald says that the I.L.P. must do it. Who knows, after all, which is the dred out of every hundred men in an inits duty: "it must not allow the local authorities supreme moment? We leap into the future dustry, and whilst from 50 to 80 out of county authority. to bear the brunt, either of the blame or the without security in matters of Revolution. every hundred men in the industry are cost . . . it must stand up to the mis Meanwhile Cook and others like him are either reactionary or indifferent, the or- of Ferndale, to name one member of the leaders of the unemployed and not be afraid to neglecting the hard and arduous task of ganisation will continue to maintain re- Communist Party occupying such position,

A Union of Revolutionaries Essential.

The obvious fact is beginning to dawn that only a keen coherent body of revolutionaries can be expected to make revolution, and that the only serious solid work to be done for the revolution is to begin building up such a body. In Germany the prolonged struggle of the Proletarian Revolution, so bitter and harsh in a highly to get more money for us. Party of Germany, which has now a mem- owner cannot afford to pay. bership of between 70,000 and 80,000, is If the unemployed answer: put up the insurrection in March of last year.

ganised capitalist State a highly organised occupants are too poor to pay; enforce the compact and reliable body of revolutionary Rates only against the collieries and their fighters is more necessary than where capi- officials; then Councillor and Guardian John talism is weak. The hundred per cent. Bowen answers that the colliery owners and per cent. union has been shattered, poor union with its preponderance of indifferent managers would refuse to pay the Rates Cook and his like, can only strive to build members will never form such a body. under such conditions, and we have not the

it up again, believing that the old bluff and The rebel cry that the leaders sold the power to enforce payment of the Rates. not, in the latter case, go to buy anything to £4 6s., Aram Daniels £1, T. I. Nicholas 178, Confidence of the war time days, when miners in the lock-out is causing some of If the unemployed say to Guardian-Counlabour was scarcer than the demand for it, the South Wales miners to retalliate by cillor John Bowen and his colleagues: Give will return, although now there are several refusing to pay their dues to the Miners' us productive work: then you would get a Federation. A much larger number of the return for your money that would enable Cook can only think of getting back the unenlightened cease to pay their dues, be- you to carry on. Then Councillor Bowen hundred per cent. membership; he refuses cause they are now finding a difficulty answers: we have not money enough to start 9d. each, 12s. and 6s. per dozen. -Apply 10 realise that a membership of men who in making ends meet, and because the re- productive work: we cannot pay Trade Manager, "Workers' Dreadnought," 152, Flee unemployed, because the mineowner cent defeat has destroyed their faith in Union wages nor buy materials. Moreover, loes not want them, and of men who are the Federation. Some of them do not blame we cannot undertake such works without ly partially employed and who may be the reactionaries, but the extremists for the Government sanction. remployed to-morrow because the employer disaster, but, like the Left Wing, they does not want them much, is powerless to realise that the Federation in this period of

For the failure to pay dues, the dropping tionaries, casts all the blame upon the Communists. Having resigned from the Party, he has rushed hysterically to the capitalist press to denounce the Communists. He hopes thereby to win back to the Federation the timid and the reactionary who excuse their desertion of the Federation on the wholly false plea that the extremists are in control of it. Cook is certainly playing a cowardly part, unworthy of his good fight-

The Election Fallacy.

Meanwhile those South Wales Communists who have but recently escaped from the toils of the industrial direct actionists, to which Cook remains in bondage, have now linked themselves up with another school of half-evolved triflers with revolution; the Parliamentary Local Government school, which professes to be able to use the electoral and administrative machinery of capitalism for Revolutionary ends.

The Labour Party, with a sprinkling of members of the Communist Party of Great Britain, is in force on the local bodies of South Wales, but hitherto the fire-eating Communist representatives of the locality have failed to show even so much initiative as has been displayed by the Christian-Reformists of the Poplar Labour Party!

Paltry Doles to the Unemployed.

In Ferndale and Maerdy, and neighbourhood in the Rhondda, the scale of Poor Law relief is only 7s. 6d. per adult and 5s. per child. I have the figures from Noah Tromens of the Labour Party. It is surprising that fighting South Wales consents to such disgraceful doles!

The Rates for the district amount to 8s., and only 4s. Id. is spent on Poor Law relief. but the Labour Guardians and Councillors have not yet even followed Poplar's simple expedient of embarrassing the Government by spending the whole of the Rate in the locality, and passing nothing on to the Guardian and Councillor John Bowen, is as helpless as any ordinary Labour Party representative, or, for that matter, any member of the Liberal or Tory Parties, when he faces the unemployed. We are bankrupt, he says, we have no money to relieve you. The Government has given us permission to borrow money from the bank, but the bank refuses to lend.

If the unemploy reply: put up the Rates organised capitalist State, is bringing into John Bowen answers, like Noah Tromens being revolutionary industrial unions exist- of the Labour Party or any Liberal or ing side by side with the old, flabby hundred Tory: we cannot put up the Rates, because per cent. bodies. The Communist Labour the working class householder and houseresponsible for this policy, and as everyone Rates and let the Guardians' assessment knows this was the party which bore the committee reduce the rateable value of all main burden of the fight in the Ruhr Valley the working-class dwellings, or excuse payment of the Rate altogether to working In countries where there is a highly or- class householders, on the ground that the

Continued on page 7.

of the I.L.P., the Fabian Society and the a magisterial air. National Guilds League, and had written several "Not much!" said his brother. "They'd fellows in their places. books on Social questions. Bob Haw had not never spend the money! They'd be afraid of read his brother's books, but he was proud of putting up the Rates! More likely to be done them, nevertheless, and when he discovered that by Gordon Selfridge, when he's bought the Frank Penman and Miss Mayence were inclined whole street, or some other Yank! Now there to be "Bolshies," as he called anyone who took the chap is right; it's more likely to come from the faintest interest in Socialism, he insisted that America than anywhere else; but I'd rather back they should meet his brother.

So he arranged a little supper party at the day in the week!" invited his fellow students, as well as some of the rightly observed, Bob, it isn't Socialism." younger frequenters of the Fabian "Nursery": "Bellamy claims, of course, that developand girl, and Miss Pilmore, who had masses of been established," said Penman. man agreed with him, that she was always in- continuously progressive." clined to be "catty"; then there was Bomber "The Social Revolution will have something " Nursery."

unscientific in their opinion.

the first country to introduce it. All the same, away with a gesture of disgust. he is very ingenious and he has worked out a "Quite right, Dick," said Penman; "of kind of skeleton, which is quite useful as a basis course, it's only an incident ." of discussion and criticism."

its a nobby idea, but it could be done just as well count then." would be a score!"

"I thought it was rather a stuffy idea," said Miss Mayence "Why should people be afraid of a little rain? I never carry an umbrella."

"You haven't much consideration for your clothes then," said Miss Pilmore, with an acid little smile; " but perhaps yours don't matter."

"Miss Mayence continued: "I suppose the awnings wouldn't interfere much where the shops are: many of them have the electric light on most of the day in any case; but fancy being obliged to put out a 'nasty black waterproof it! So dull, and so unnecessary. Bellamy ad- ment, for instance, must be granted special re shelter in front of your house to keep out the light and air! I think it would be quite

"I don't see why the awnings should be made of nasty black waterproof," said Bob Haw; "they might be of transparent celluloid, or even of glass, on the principle of an American rolltop desk. Someone is dead sure to invent something presently, if there is really a demand for the thing. Anyway, there's no reason why it should be an awning sticking out from the houses; there might be a pavement in the centre of the road for pedestrians, and it might be arranged just to cover that, spreading out on both sides of central uprights. For that matter, it might be worked from central uprights to cover the whole road and keep the horses dry, as well as the people."

"Give us a little air," groaned Miss Pass. of air without any difficulty. Wouldn't you like it in snowy weather: shut the whole thing out and keep the streets as dry as this room?" couraged Bomber, and amid a general chorus of and quivering with indignation, approval, Miss Pilmore simpered: "Hurrah! Bob Haw, who was having a quiet little conno more goloshes!"

Bob Haw took no interest in politics. He "As you say, such a scheme need not await subjects with Miss Pilmore, looked up, suddalways said that if he did, he would be a Con- the advent of complete Socialism: it might be sensing that someone was challenging the wind. servative, because that was simplest and led to undertaken to-morrow by one of our great of his important brother. He was surprise least discussion; but he was very proud of his Municipal Councils, or by the London County see Penman's angry expression, but he return brother, C. D. E. F. Haw, who was a member Council itself," observed C. D. E. F. Haw, with his attention to Miss Pilmore, with the come

Peter Robinson or Lyons against the L.C.C. any rooms he and his brother shared together, and C. D. E. F. smiled indulgently: "But as you

Miss Pass, with her red hair and green eyes, who ment along that line will be set free from its really seemed to be something between a boy present hindrances, once common ownership has golden hair, and was really so very pretty, only "There is much to be said for that standthat she was rather pale and sulky-looking, but point," adjudicated C. D. E. F. "On the other she had a "stunning" figure, and she could hand, our great Municipal bodies already underwake up and be ever so agreeable when she taken responsibility for very extensive enterliked, although Bob thought, and Frank Pen- prises, and their development in this direction is and Dick Barbour who didn't belong to the better to do than saving some of you people from audience : getting your feet wet! What about the dockie Somehow the talk drifted to Bellamy's that's got to work in all weathers? What "Looking Backward." Miss Mayence had just about the navvy; what about the collier, with a been reading it on Penman's recommendation. flood of water running over him when he's hew-The Nursery people were very contemptuous ing coal? There's worse things than a drop of about it: it was quite out of date and wholly rain! What about the stokehold! You might be cats; afraid of getting your feet wet," Dick "That is true in many respects," agreed Barbour blustered into the conversation, thump-Penman. "Certainly Bellamy was mistaken in ing the table, rumpling the nice white cloth and thinking that Socialism would come quite easily sending the cigarette ash he had dropped on to by general consent, and that America would be it blowing along to Miss Pilmore, who brushed it

"A bit of silly Utopianism," growled "I don't see what his idea about continuous Barbour. "Your middle-class Socialists don't awnings for the streets for use in wet weather know anything about the class war. We'll have has to do with Socialism," objected Bob Haw, done with all you politicians when the Revoluwho hadn't read the book, but had heard Miss tion comes. The practical man in the workshop, Mayence and Penman discussing it. "I think the man with the tools, will be the only one to under Capitalism, and I expect it will be some "I don't see it," said Bomber. "I'm about day. It would do away with umbrellas, that fed up with the workshop: I've spent all my life there, and I want to see something outside of

> "I like Bellamy's idea of all wages being equal," Miss Mayence broke in; "but I don't see why there should be wages at all: all that pricking off expenditure on cards that he speaks of would be so complicated, and so stupid, in my

"Why stupid?" asked Bomber. "I thought recognition of merit and an incentive to efficiency. it was rather practical."

"All that clerical work: fancy having to do the responsibilities attaching to the manage mits the people could buy more with their cards cognition, if only in order that it may be than they actually did, and that the community sured that management shall rest in the most could produce more than the people could use: capable hands. Nevertheless, I am an upholder then what was the use of checking them? Why of workers' control of industry. I would give shouldn't people just get what they want, and the workers representation on the body wh would allow of no machinery for graduating re- eareful graduation, of the value of Labour classes is, above all. due to the fact that the two bourgeoisie) and members of the Party. muneration in accordance with ability, industry, credits." responsibility and length of training and of service. Such graduation is essential in any system Socialism, Communism, or whatever you c

"I can't agree with that!" Frank Penman was emphatic. "I don't know whether Miss it were to be like that, we should still have the Mayence is right that we could do without money beastly class distinctions; we should still have and wages altogether; but I hope so: I think we the children kept down and put in an infe ought to be able to, ultimately, at any rate; however, there may be some difference of opinion about that; but I can't conceive how there can "There could be arrangements to let in plenty be two opinions about an equal economic status amongst Socialists! I don't see how a man can call himself a Socialist at all if he does not accept economic equality as a basic principle that cannot "There's something in that, anyway," en- be compromised!" Penman's face was flushed versational feneing match on wholly frivolous able thought that C. D. E. F. would put all the

C. D. E. F. Haw regarded Penman scornfo with a curling lip and an irritated toss of handsome head, but good-natured Bomber

" Economic equality is all right on par isn't it, Haw? But it's easier said than done agree with you. You've explained your posit on that, I believe, in some of your books: but how would you work out this wages question? I wish you'd explain it.'

"I wish you would; it would be awfulle ripping of you!" gushed Miss Pilmere, archly. she had only given a third of her attention to that blundering Bob.

Miss Pass leant forward her elbow upon the table, her chin in her hand, and fixedly gazed at C. D. E. F. Haw, with an appearance of wrant

He could hardly resist the appeal of such an "Rations of staple necessaries: bread, milk. and so on-one cannot say precisely how many commodities the system would comprise-would be free, or rather, the charge for them would covered by a uniform rate, like water at the present time; we shall simply have an extension of the present practice. The articles chosen for this method of treatment will be selected on account of their universality and the fai general uniformity of the demand for them. State will also treat in the same way, commodi and services, the use of which it judges desir able to encourage. Free elementary education the outstanding instance in our own day; tain types of educational and recreative service will be added from time to time as opportur develops. For the rest, whilst actual wages will disappear, and the private employer will ceas to exist, Labour credits will be supplied in reti for services rendered, and these will exchangeable for commodities and the us certain services. The value of these La credits will be carefully graduated according the value of the services rendered; the quar of the workers' production, in cases where the In reality, two revolutions came to pass in this quantity may be measured, the amount of skill way in Russia. and responsibilty involved, the length of required for training before the necessary e ency was acquired, and the length of time which the worker has been in the service. It is eviden that such graduation is necessary, both as a It will be obvious, even to the extremist, use what they need, under a system like that?" selects the management. It is obvious that the

it: I wouldn't care for it at all if that were it meant!" cried Miss Mayence in distress. position because their fathers were in poor health stupid, or bad and lazy, if you like. T just what is so cruel and hateful to-day. surely don't mean to build up a brand n system with all the old evils bristling over it?

Bomber was sympathetic: he was always inclined to be kind to anyone who was u and he didn't like to see people getting exche

To be continued.

THE COMMUNIST WORKERS' PARTY.

The Marxian Fundamental Laws of Historic Development.

om this manifesto, which has only just ed us, we are able to print this week merely extracts. The whole will shortly be pubpamphlet form. And we shall give a ted by it, has become the ruling class.

instalment next week.

er. Till then it had no bourgeois revolution, doing so.

sian Communists, the Bolsheviki, could not towns. rade the law of history; they were compelled iron facts of necessity.

he Development of the class struggle. r side, but also the serfs, to whom they pro- for profit to the large towns.

the large towns it was a change from capim to Socialism; in the country districts the ge from feudalism to capitalism. In the large the proletarian revolution came to pass; e country, the bourgeois revolution.

. after October, two classes ruled nically at the same time in Russia: roletariat in the large towns, the bourhe, in the shape of the peasants, in the But there were and are absolute, ununtable contradictions: class contradictions; in consists the root, class antagonism, of ocracy. So long as the latter waged its war to the Russian proletariat. etariat burst openly forth.

anst the proletariat, partly through armed illiterate.

The attitude of the Soviet Government in the internal class-struggle of Soviet Russia.

to a fundamental change in their policy of production as to agriculture; but later also as to the produce these articles of consumption, over industries in the towns. The young, ambitious the proletatiat. That was the starting point of proletarian revolution, that is to say, a class of Russian petty peasants was hampered in the antagonism between the Russian Soviet Govwith the object of establishing pro- its progress by the compulsory State organisa- ernment and the Russian proletariat, which, at common property relations, can be set in tion of production, introduced by the Soviet Gov- the beginning of this year, showed itself. only when the bourgeoisie, in conse- ernment. It demanded, therefore, its abolition Summed up, it means an ever increasing passing of the capitalist property relations, and the granting of capitalist freedom of pro- of power from the hands of the proletariat into that is the perception that already Marx and Until then, the Soviet Government had re- petty bourgeoisie. als have laid down in consequence of their quisitioned from the peasants their products, for ric researches, and upon which they have the army and civil population, just according to tally based their tactics in the working- demand. The right of disposing of their labour products, on the part of the peasants, was When the revolution began there in 1917, abolished; the Government fetched what it ssia was throughout a country of feudal char- needed, and when there was the necessity for only very slight tendencies thereto. When At the beginning of 1921, the Government the Bolsheviks seized the power, it looked as if had (owing to the opposition on the part of the Russia the great exception would be demon- peasants, that arose, because they seldom, or ated, which would prove the rule. Russia never, received exchange values, like clothes, peared to be able, without a bourgeois revolu- boots, tools, machines, etc.) replaced the system for in the short period of bourgeois Govern- of requisition by a system of taxation. The ent, from March to November, 1917, it showed peasants had no longer to deliver up their entire o sign of bourgeois development) to jump into stock of products, but only a certain portion. Whatever they produce above this portion they supposition was mistaken. Even the are at liberty to dispose of freely in the large

By this step the private property of the bow to its hard dictates against their own in- Russian peasants was officially recognised by the ations. Their heroic will was wrecked on Soviet Government. That meant the approval of capitalist production for profit for the whole of agricultural Russia, and, as its consequence The Bolsheviki won not only the proletariat to also, the spreading of this capitalist production ised the legal recognition of the destruction of The Soviet Government had also, owing to this large landed-property, and its distribution concession, to abandon its administration of the ment from the wrath of the unemployed. reels, if they would help them to power. industries, and to take it out of the hands of its ally with the assistance of the peasants the Bol- owners, the proletariat as a class, and to pass it viki came to power. Thus they purchased over to individual capitalists, for the purpose of Councils in Labour hands, and half the eady their power, in October 1917, by that administration and management by them. It had st important concession: the recognition of to consent to the reconstruction of home industry, courageous body of enthusiasts have had right of private property of the peasants, who the payment of premiums to industrial workers, the hardihood to attempt the seiting up of been changed into petty landowners. They to the free exchange of industrial products against on abandoned the attempt to create, through foodstuffs, that is permitted to all factories which the Irish dairy workers on strike, with much alled "Pauper Committees," proletarian reach the fixed minimum in their production. smaller prospects of making an affectiveperty from a part of the large landed pro- Besides, they had then, to the greatest extent, demonstration, attempted this. Could there to grant freedom of commerce. With these be any better proof of our contention that steps, Capitalism, in spite of all the consequences, the Communists are wasting their time by had been recognised also in the towns by the accepting responsibility for Local Govern-Soviet Government as the prevailing method of ment Administration? production and distribution.

This apparently quite new policy of production of the Soviet Government had already before been prpared for. Its present relationship to the dustry. It has taken the first step already, by Government removing from the management of the factories, A proportion of the South Wales members ist society. Bourgeoisie against pro- the workers employed therein and the factory of the present Communist Party also see committees and by introducing in their stead that the old hundred per cent. Industrial "Oh, I join issue there," said C. D. E. F. specialist must be specially remunerated: in That these two contradictions did not immediate Commissions for the management of the con-Haw; "that would be wholly Utopian. It short, there must be a graduation, and a most stelly find expression in an open warfare of the cerns consisting of specialists (experts of the sses were still, by necessity, allied to on. Already these measures had shown certain convinced revolutionaries, prepared to act her. That was the necessity of the common consequences that proved the beginning of a together with unhesitating courage and he against the common enemy, the feudal change in the attitude of the Soviet Government singleness of aim.

prevailed. But as soon as this attack penetrated by bureaucracy and its well known the policy of their party. definitely combatted, the class antagonism effects. The personnel of this bureaucracy con- Therefore such genuine Communists are tes the open conflict of the peasant bourgeoisie Russian poulation was, and is still to-day, Government seats.

s, partly through the sabotage of produc- This bureaucracy has, by virtue of occupying and partly through the refusal to deliver the official centres that dispose of the articles of tural products to the Soviet Government. consumption, a tremendous influence on the en- munist Workers' Party awaits you,

MANIFESTO OF THE FOURTH COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL.

tire development of Russian conditions; and, indeed, this bureaucracy possesses, by virtue of The peasantry forced the Soviet Government its positions and "relations" of one to the other, a certain power of domination over those who duction and commrce. the hands of the bureaucracy, and thus of the

(To be continued in our next issue).

NEW TACTICS-continued from page 5.

But perhaps the unemployed will urge: do something illegal: do not wait for Government sanction; defy the Government. Coin your own money, which has been done in past times by towns and districts that were in conflict with the Central Government. Set us to build houses to replace the slum property that ought to be pulled down; seize the pits that have been closed down, and let us work them: seize the land lying idle; open boot and clothing shops. Guardian-Councillor John Bowen will then reply: that is Utopian; we cannot successfully organise such enterprises until the capitalist has been overthrown.

Yet Councillor-Guardian Bowen and the rest overlook the fact that it is something worse than Utopian to sit on these bankrupt Boards and hand out starvation doles to a people whose stamina is being destroyed by their present hopeless state. It is worse than Utopian to stand between the people and the Government protecting the Govern-

It is a strange thing that with the majority of the South Wales Boards and London Boroughs under Labour control, no an illegal Socialist Administration. Even Those Who See Clearly.

Amongst the members of the present Communist Party in South Wales a considerable proportion believe that Communpeasants was begun already in 1918, through the ists should shun the elections, keep off these dissolution of the so-called "Pauper Com- bankrupt Boards and Councils, and make mittees that had been formed by the Bolsheviki no attempt to get into Parliament, Freed at the time of their seizing power for the purpose from all responsibility for administering of socialising the soil. And with their present these organs of capitalism, they should stir internal policy of production with regard to in- up the wrath of the people against he

> Unionism cannot emancipate the working class, and that what are required in the industries are mobile, coherent bodies of

Though these are the policies which fainst the Soviet Government, through Deni- The State and economic machine of the appeal to them as the true one, they do not A, Koltchak, Wrangel and others, the common Russian, Government had gradually been strongly yet realise the importance of making them ween the peasant bourgeoisie and the town sisted of petty-bourgeois merchants, former using their energies in building up a party officials, handicraft-men, etc. That is easily ex- which is working for affiliation to the om this moment the peasants saw no longer plainable. These people belonged to the small Labour Party, chasing futile official posihistorically-given confederates in the pro- number of those in Russia that could read and tir is in hundred per cent. trade unions. ariat, but in the town bourgeoisie, respectively write, and therefore alone were eligible for such and spending considerable means in the foreign bourgeoisie. From this moment posts. For the preponderating majority of the attempt to win Parliamentary and Local

Wake up Communists. It is time you ceased dallying with side issues, and vent yourselves to your proper task. The Com-

BIRTH CONTROL.

I.

THE ORIGIN OF LIFE.

One of the most wonderful revelations which Science has given to us is that of the common source of all forms of life—the single protoplasmic cell. This is the link which binds man to every living creature, even to the most minute water-weed. The development of the human body from the fertilised ovum, prduced by cell-union, is an almost complete recapitulation of the life-history of the race.

PRIMITIVE REPRODUCTION.

It is important to notice that, in the lower forms of life, reproduction is effected independently of sex. In the case of simple, unicellular organisms, the species is propagated by direct division of 'the original cell into two. Even in more complicated types, sexual differentiation is absent—a conclusive proof that the function of sex is not limited to reproduction. The marriage formula of the Church declares that the primary purpose of such estate is the "procreation of children," and many of its adherents condemn the practice of birth control on those grounds.

THE FUNCTION OF SEX.

The purpose of sex is to produce that variation which is the essential feature of individuality (Prof. Henry Drummond and Gerald Leighton). The fertilised ovum splits up into a number of non-sexual germ-cells, whose function is the continuance of the race, and one somatic cell, from whose further division the body is constructed. The primary purpose of the latter is to act as a protective agent towards the germ-cells. In the course of time, one of these unites with another provided by a trustee of the opposite sex. Some of the distinguishing properties of either cell are repressed in the process of union, so that the resultant ovum is a blending, or mosaic (scientists are undecided as to which is the correct term) of the characteristics of the two.

CONTROL AND THE INDIVIDUAL.

There are many and varied arguments in favour of control, based on considerations of economics, psychology, physiology, and culture. The economic aspect is closely related to the question of the distribution of income and the structure of society. We therefore hope to deal with it in a further article on "The Social Aspect of Birth-Control "; for the present we will confine ourselves to those matters which more closely concern the individual. With regard to psychology, we must remember that the sexual instinct demands an outlet: the neglect of this truth leads to many nervous and mental disorders. A thousand wonderful sppiritual and physiological reactions, of incalculable value in the development of personality, are concerned in the sacrament of intercourse-which normally requires a frequent celebration. The delicate chords of Love cannot maintain their beauteous harmony under conditions o fundue restraint.

WOMAN AND CULTURE.

One of our aims, as the heralds of a new social order, is to secure for every man and woman the means for the fullest possible development of his or her faculties. "A liberal education for all " is our motto. We look around us to-day, and what do we find? The so-so-called "cultured" classes steeped in a conservatism which is all but impervious to the inspiration of a new idea, caring only for wealth, pleasure and power-the masses sunk in intellectual apathy, preferring the distractions of the prize-ring and the cinema to the study of social and political problems. (Happily, there are exceptions!) The workers have at last secured one of the essentials to mental progress-leisure. Yet what leisure is available for the working-class mother with a large family? If she fulfils the claims of home she has neither time nor energy to take an interest in music, art, or literature. She becomes coarsened and degraded—while the smart society woman, who has avoided "encumbrances," wastes her superabundance of leisure in the frivolities of "fashionable" life. The catalogues of some of the smaller agricultural shows held in country districts provide a striking illustration of the degradation of family life. Along with the list of prizes for "best cow with calf," we find another list: "for the agricultural labourer who has brought up the largest family without parochial relief," etc. We have just perused one such list in which occurs the name of a man, aged forty-nine, with ten children! It is perhaps well that no mention is made of the overburdened mother whom, we suspect, has had but scant leisure to enjoy life, and has been prematurely aged by the excess of work and worry.

By T. E. MULLINS

" POTENTIAL LIFE."

One of-the arguments sometimes raised against birth-control, condemns it as " a waste of potential life." A little knowledge of physiology reveals the futility of this objection, since millions of cells are "wasted" whenever reproduction is effected. This is yet another point of similarity between man and the lower scale of being. Nature is supremely careful for the preservation of the species—so that we have plants producing thousands of seeds, and fish producing huge numbers of spawn. The majority never mature, yet the odds are so greatly in their favour that some proportion are almost certain to survive. If Nature is so careless of wasting such prodigious quantities of potential life, there can surely be no objection to the prevention of one single cell from achieving its destiny.

INTERNATIONAL NOTES.

How the Wind Blows in India.

The clash which took place the other day between Indian police and soldiers of the British army shows, more than many a riot could do, the spirit of rebellion against British rule which is growing up in India. In this case an Indian Sub-Inspector of Police is said by the India Office to have caused his subordinates to shoot dead a soldier who was quarrelling with a fruitstall man. Afterwards a British officer and a party of soldiers tried to force their way into the sub-inspector's quarters; he was wounded in the face by a short fired through the window, and a British non-commissioned officer short dead the sub-inspector and another Indian.

Soviet Russia threatened.

The Executives of the Communist International and of the Red Tape Union International have issued a manifesto declaring that the ignternational situation is serious in the full sense of the word. The workers are called upon to fight with determination against the criminal preparations of the imperialists of France, Poland and Roumania. The manifesto concludes: "Down with the criminals who are preparing an attack upon Soviet Russia." Prevent the transport of munitions to Poland, Roumania, Esthonia, Lettland, Lithuania and Finnland. Before all, sterngthen your relations with the soldiers, so that they will not again give themselves as the cannon fodder of international capital against Soviet Russia.

The French Machinations.

Litvinov, the Deputy Soviet Commissary for Foreign Affairs, states:—

"The French government handed a note to Poland dated September 3rd, urging Poland to hand us an ultimatum, and promising far-reaching financial and military aid in case of war with Soviet Russia. As the Soviet government is at present tied up in the struggle with the famine, the French note finds the present moment favourable for aggressive action. The note demands the discontinuation of the Polish demobilisation, the transfer of the supreme command of the Polish army to the French staff, the transfer of the military intendance in Warsaw to the French Mission, and prophesies the breakdown of Poland in case it does not submit to the whill of France in "A similar note was sent to the Roumanian government; but replied that they would continue their threats without bringing the matter to a clash.

"These reports are absoluted authentic. They throw new light upon the French attempts to send agents and spies to Russia under the flag of philanthropy in the very moment of the preparations for a new war."

The French Socialist daily, Humanité, recently reported that several American steamers, which had been chartered by French shippers, had left Marseilles for Galatz. The steamer "Sioux Falls" left the harbour of Marseilles in the month of August with four thousand cases of ammunition and four hundred cases of Lebel rifles. The seamer "Lake Haresti" contained "twenty-two thousand cases of ammunition and six hundred cases of various arms! for Rommania." Two other ships have also left under the American flag for Galatz.

In order to keep the delivery secret the shippers in agreement with the French ministry of war chartered foreign ships.

These things prove that international capitalism still awaits any favourable opportunity to pounce upon Soviet Russia. No concessions to capitalism short of a complete surrender will placate the international enemies of the Workers' Republic.

Congratulations.

To John McLean on the fight which has again led to his arrest.

To Mrs. Councillor Crusall on her release, or, as she puts it, her eviction, from Holloway.

A Scandalous Proposal.

Westbury-on-Severn Guardians have agreed to make weekly loans to unemployed colliers with large families, who are existing on the 15s. unemployment dole.

By this method men may be saddled with debts for many years to come. What will happen if, on getting work, they do not repay? Probably the Guardians will get them sent to prison.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Mr. Ed. Collins writes: "I am sorry that Comrade Sylvia Pankhurst has been expelled from the C.P. Although I am a member, I disagree with the E.C. decision, but I think in the long run it will bring more and more Communists over to the Left, and that is what is necessary. The Dreadnought must continue in order to keep the Communist movement pure and clean in this country. I do like those articles by Alexandra Kollontai, especially the one on "Workers' Opposition," that appeared about a month ago. Those are the kind that are required to keep us on the right track."

BAKUNIN PRESS

We are asked by Comrade Rose Witcop to announce that the Bakunin Press. 17, Richmond Gardens, has for sale the following books and pamphlets:—
By Guy A. Aldred. (In Prison for Communism.)

"Michel Bakunin Communist." 6d. "Communism and Religion." Price 3d.

By Michel Bakunin. "God and the State." 8d.

"The Policy of the International." 1d. "The Organisation of the International." 1d.

Czeck Translations. "Our Grandfather." 9d.
"Poldik the Scavenger." 4d.

By Strickland. "The Black Spot in the East." 1s.
"The Smuggler's Dog." 2s. "The Extinction of Mankind." 2d. "Russian Fairy Tales." 2s.

By Margaret Sanger. "Family Limitation." Supplied only to persons over 21 years of age, who declare they consider family limitation necessary on national and health grounds. 9d. "What Every Girl Should Know." 2s. 6d. "What Every Mother Should Know." 2s.

The Spur. Cloth bound, complete. 12s. 6d.

'LEFT WING' COMMUNIST MEETINGS

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8TH,
Corner of Chrisp Street and Grundy Street, Poplar, 3 p.m.

East India Dock Gates, 7 p.m. SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15TH, The Grove, Hammersmith, 3.30 p.m.

ADVERTISEMENTS. OUR RATES.

"Workers' Dreadnought," 152, Fleet Street, E.C. 4.

DENTISTRY.

For Satisfactory Teeth see

F. ALDRIDGE, Communist, 44 Waterloo Road, S.E.1.

10 per cent. Discount for Comrades. TYPEWRITERS AND DUPLICATORS:

Rem. 7, £5 5s. Barlock, £6 6s. Yost 11, £6
Rem. 8, £7. Monarch, £10. Yost 20, £9 %.
Rem. 10, £10 10s. L. C. Smith, £10. Oliver, £8.
Gest. Rotary, £8. Roneo, £10. Flats, £2 10s.

PAYMENT ALSO BY INSTALMENTS.

W. FRANCIS DEACON, 91 Long Lane, Borough, S.E.1
Hop 3621.

SMALL ADVERTISEMENTS-1d. a Word.

IF YOUR Branch could do with a Reliable Typewriter or Duplicator, see my Advertisement above. Note Prices. Deacon, also at 14, Crooked Lane, E.C. 4.

DAY NURSERY STUDENT, who has just completed her training, desires appointment. Apply Box 10, Workers' Dreadnought Office.

TYPEWRITING articles, circulars, etc., 9d. per 1,000 words. Donald Mullens. Ansford, Castle Cary, Somerset.

Published by E. Sylvia Pankhurst at 152, Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4, and printed by S. Coris at 10, Wine Office Court, Fleet Street, London E.C. 4.