FOR GOING TO THE ROOT.

Vol. X. No. 46.

February 2nd, 1924.

WEEKLY.

PRISON POEMS WILFRID SCAWEN BLUNT.

MITIGATIONS.

Fellow ex-prisoners will be interested in Blunt's prison poems :-

My prison has its pleasures. Every day At breakfast-time, spare meal of milk and bread, Sparrows come trooping in familiar way With head aside beseeching to be fed. A spider, too, for me has spun her thread Across the prison rules, and a brave mouse Watches in sympathy the warders' tread, These two my fellow-prisoners in the house.

But about dusk in the rooms opposite I see lamps lighted, and upon the blind A shadow passes all the evening through. It is the gaoler's daughter fair and kind And full of pity (so I image it) Till the stars rise, and night begins anew.

A DREAM OF GOOD.

To do some little good before I die; To wake some echoes to a loftier theme; To spend my life's last store of industry On thoughts less vain than youth's discordant dream; To endow the world's grief with some counterscheme

Of logical hope which through all time should lighten

The burden of men's sorrow and redeem Their faces' paleness from the tears that whiten;

To take my place in the world's brotherhood As one prepared to suffer all its fate; To do and be undone for sake of good, And conquer rage by giving love for hate; That were a noble dream, and so to cease; Scorned by the proud but with the poor at peace.

HER NAME LIBERTY.

I thought to do a deed of chivalry, An act of worth, which haply in her sight Who was my mistress should recorded be And of the nations. And, when thus the fight Faltered and men once bold with faces white Turned this and that way in excuse to flee, I only stood, and by the foeman's might Was overborne and mangled cruelly.

Then crawled I to her feet, in whose dear cause I made this venture, and "Behold," I said, "How I am wounded for thee in these wars." But she, " Poor cripple, wouldst thou I should wed A limbless trunk? " and laughing turned from

Yet was she fair, and her name "Liberty."

FAREWELL DARK GAOL.

Farewell, dark gaol. You hold some better hearts

Than in this savage world I thought to find. do not love you nor the fraudulent arts By which men tutor men to ways unkind. Your law is not my law, and yet my mind Remains your debtor. It has learned to see How dark a thing the world would be and blind

But for the light of human charity.

am your debtor thus and for the pang Which touched and chastened, and the nights of thought

Which were my years of learning. See I hang Your image here, a glory all unsought, About my neck. Thus saints in symbol hold Their tools of death and daring manifold.

THE LABOUR GOVERNMENT.

by Sylvia Pankhurst.

The Labour Government is as safe as Threadneedle Street" says Tory Mr. Garvin, in the "Observer"! Certainly it promises to be a government more acceptable to the Tories than to Socialists such as William Morris and Keir Hardie.

The inclusion in the Cabinet of Lord Chelmsford, the Conservative ex-Viceroy of India, and of Lord Haldane, one of the men who made the late war, must cause serious heartburnings to Mr. MacDonald's faithful followers in the I.L.P. to say nothing of Socialists of a robuster type.

The mention of Lord Chelmsford, the ex-Viceroy, recalls Mr. MacDonald's own pronouncement to India, his first public pronouncement since assuming the office of Prime Minister. In that pronouncement he declares to the Indian non-co-operators that "no party in Great Britain will be cowed by threats of force, or by policies designed to bring government" to a standstill. He urges Indians to "come nearer to us" which means, of course, to the Imperial Government. To declare that "no party in Britain will be cowed" by the agitation of the non-cooperators is a cruel travesty of the facts. The resistance of the non-co-operators is officially at least, and certainly on the whole purely passive. Mr. MacDonald indeed includes passive resistance in his strictures, calling it "passive force." Even were the non-co-operators active and not passive resisters to the Imperial Government, it would be a callous absurdity to suggest that in the desperate struggle of a subject people to free itself from an alien domination, there is any question of cowing the British home population or political parties in Britain. Mr. MacDonald cannot be ignorant of the essential falsity of his assumption. The non-co-operators are fighting with nothing more than their courage and willingness to suffer, against the might of the Imperial armies and the cowed torpor of a people submerged in ages of poverty, ignorance and oppression.

Shall the Indians who are striving for independence, for genuine self-determination, look in vain for any loosening of the grip of British rule now that a Labour Government is in power?

INDIAN POLITICAL PRISONERS.

The non-co-operators have demanded the release of all India's political prisoners, including Gandhi. Will the request be acceded to by the British Labour Government? The Govern-slogan that they will bring Glasgow up to the ment has the power to do this, since this is purely an administrative matter for which no vote of Parliament is required.

To Indian Nationalists, both in India and in Britain, the questions of the prisoners will be a first test of the MacDonald Government. The test is not a very difficult one. Many a capitalist government has done as much.

The inclusion in the MacDonald Cabinet of Lord Chelmsford, whom they regard as a reactionary is in itself an offence to the sentiments of the non-co-operators. Sir Sydney Olivier, the new Secretary of State for India, has been a Fabian. He has also been Governor of Jamaica and other subject territory, and he received his title for services to capitalist governments. These facts are not calculated to recommend him to Socialists of the school of William Morris or to Indian Nationalists striving to free their land from the oppression of Empire.

HOW ARE MINISTERS CHOSEN?

It is surprising that the Labour Government did not at least endeavour to choose for the offices of state which deal with industry persons who have a knowledge of the industries concerned. The Labour Government had opportunities of doing this which other governments have lacked and one really expected that it would pride itself on taking this commonsense course.

The exactly opposite policy seems, however, to have been followed. The time honoured Tory plan of choosing every man for the office he knows least about has been adopted instead.

For the Board of Agriculture, instead of selecting one of the men who have actually worked on the land and have been associated with agriculture all their lives, Mr. Noel Buxton has been chosen, presumably because he has made a special study of foreign affairs. The "Manchester Guardian" in eulogising this appointment, observed, however, that Mr. Buxton is the son of a landowner!

For the office of Parliamentary Secretary of Mines, instead of choosing one of the many miners who are Labour Members of Parliament, Mr. MacDonald has preferred Mr. Emanuel Shinwell, a tailor who has lately been organising seamen. Mr. Stephen Walsh, who has been a miner and is a miners' official, is made Secretary for War, a post for which apparently his only qualification is that he was a jingo in the late war. Mr. Hodges also an exminer and miners' official is made a civil lord of the Admiralty.

The Postmaster General is Mr. Vernon Hartshorn, another ex-miner and like the other miners' officials, a representative of a mining constituency. Mr. Ammon who has been a post office worker, is Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty.

The Minister of Health might have been chosen from the medical profession, or for special experience of sanitation. Since it is said that the provision of houses is going to be his greatest task, one might have expected an architect or a builder. The Minister of Health turns out to be Mr. Wheatley, a Glasgow publisher. We understand, however, that he has made a special study of housing. The appointment may therefore possibly prove one of the best made by Mr. MacDonald.

The Parliamentary Secretary for the Ministry of Health is Mr. Arthur Greenwood, a lecturer on economics, and the Under Secretary of Health for Scotland is Mr. James Stewart of Glasgow, a hairdresser. Glasgow unfortunately is not the only spot in the United Kingdom where housing is deficient. We are sorry that the Glasgow M.P.S. should raise the English level. That is hardly hitching the wagon to a star.

The legal offices according to precedent, are all filled by people who have had, at least some experience of the work they are supposed to undertake. Obviously the legal trade union is still the one that is most efficient in protecting its craft! Even under the guise of Government it allows no invasion of its province by laymen.

No doubt it is reassuring to all lovers of the established order to find Mr. Arthur Henderson occupying the responsible post cf Home Secretary. They will feel confident that he can be trusted to deal firmly with the Reds, since it was Mr. Henderson, who when a member of Mr. Asquith's Coalition Government, deported the Clyde shop stewards.

One might have expected Mr. J. H. Thomas to be Minister of Transport, but he is Colonial Secretary. Perhaps it is as well for the locosomewhat removed from home affairs.

of transport workers is Minister of Transport. several persons there is a larger probability Party claim to be Socialist) the existence of Thus, so far as the industrial departments are that some have had previous knowledge of the an employing class is a social evil, to be abolconcerned he is almost the only exception to work in hand; there is moreover, a wider pos- ished as soon as possible. the rule of placing the Minister in the position sibility of the management acquiring detailed It is strange to find in a government calling he knows least about.

A "Safe" Chancellor.

Everyone expected Mr. Philip Snowden to be Chancellor of the Exchequer. That had been long announced. The capitalists will feel that he is really a safe man, as he has made it plain that confiscation of private property without compensation would, in his view, be an "outrage" and because he has so fiercely condemned the Russian revolution.

India versus Scotland,

It was a foregone conclusion that, according to precedent the Scottish offices should be occupied by Scotsmen. Mr. MacDonald would have shown himself a man of greater courage, larger heart and more sense of justice, had he created a similar precedent for India, since he has neither the power, not, it seems, the will, to set India free from the Empire.

Woman and the Cabinet.

have been given an Under Secretaryship.

The stupidity of Ministerial Management.

The real stupidity of Cabinet and Ministerial government is in nothing more clearly evidenced than in the manner in which Ministers are appointed to supervise work of which they have no knowledge. As a rule, Cabinet Ministers stay but a short time in the responsible highly paid posts in which they have the cades is a pleasant and friendly gesture of the power to influence the lives of thousands, even Labour Prime Minister. Incidently it re-opens millions of persons. The real administrators the way for those propaganda demonstrations in are of course the permanent officials, but the Downing Street which had become so frequent Cabinet Ministers are supposed to determine in pre-war days. Will it be Indian nonthe larger and more important issues.

tain extent, the carrying out of the great ser- haps the unemployed? vices of the community by private capitalism. Were the large industries and services to be nationalised the inefficiency of the Cabinet system of management would be increasingly felt. The Cabinet system necessarily entails an inefficient Chief, for, obviously, no man can learn the business of managing a great department in a few days, as is expected of Cabinet Ministers. The Minister at the head of the department, possesses absolutely autocratic power in conjunction with the Cabinet, which knows even less than he of the business. The power of a Government Department over its employees and over the work of the department as a whole is much less restricted than that of the ordinary employer of labour. No employee has a chance of getting the redress, for instance, for dismissal from a government department which he might obtain from a private employer.

The Futility of Parliamentary Nationalisation. Democracy is a word which has fallen into bad odour now-a-days because democracy in a class society, based on private ownership, cannot exist.

To-day those who realise this truth recognise that nationalised industry, managed as the Post Office is managed would be managed with radical inefficiency at the top and would offer to the worker no freedom, no share intelligent co-operation.

Ministers versus Committees.

cepted by Mr. MacDonald or by his most pow- erate no pretence of impartiality as between erful colleagues, that the Ministerial system the capitalist and the worker. They will say that should be changed for the Committe system after a generation of effort, the Trade Union which is employed by Town Councils and other officials have been put into the seats of governlocal bodies. The Committee system is only a ment to act as the friends of the wage workers, shade less evil than the Ministerial system The who are the majority of the people and the Committee system is more democratic than the producing section of the community.

motive men that the office of Mr. Thomas is is not vested in the will, or the whim of a the balance even between employers and emsingle man. It has a possibility of being more ployed. Mr. Gosling, who is an official of one section efficient, because amongst a Committee of Moreover, to the Socialist (and the Labour knowledge when several persons are able to itself a Labour Government, such personalities apply themselves to the vast field of inquiry as Lord Chelmsford and Lord Haldane. which a state department represents.

sibilities also for greater inefficiency than a in every struggle. Minister, for in the battle of policies inevita- It will be some little time before they realise ble amongst the representatives of warring that by setting up their own workshop counc parties, the main result will be talk, and the they can better attend to their own affairs. decisions made may frequently hinge on some It is certain that the men of lowly birth wh rivalry of party or personality which has no have climbed into the seats of the mighty will essential relation to the work in hand.

mittee is outside and apart from the depart- ficiently as any of their blue-blooded predeces. ment it is supposed to manage. It is a body sors. Some of them may even become real of persons not trained by actual experience converts to Socialism, realising that within the in the department, and in no sense represent- Capitalist system an equitable system of society of such a production. For his part the diring or in touch with those who work in the cannot be devised.

The Ministerial system and the Committee system are alike undemocratic and inefficient. They must inevitably check spontaneous development from amongst the body of Mr. MacDonald is being widely criticised persons who are doing the work of the defor not having put a woman into his Cabinet. partment. It is the worker in the department The critics are right. We suspect that Miss or industry itself who should, and will in a true Bondfield would have got a seat in the Mac- democracy, undertake all management. Man-Donald Cabinet had she been a man. Miss agement in the form of an autocratic outside Susan Lawrence, if a man, would probably body, imposed from above, will no longer exhave got into he Cabinet or at least, would ist when democracy is actually achieved. Willing co-operation will remove the need for the coercive element in management which is present to-day. Co-ordination will be mutually developed, mutually agreed upon.

Downing Street,

The removal of the Downing Street barrico-operators whom the police will first arrest The Government at present occupies mainly for ringing at the Prime Minister's door or the position of an outsider in regard to indus- chaining themselves to his railings? Or will try. It merely inspects and regulates to a cer- it be the wives of dockers on strike, or per-

The Government and the Strikers.

Apparently the Labour Government took no active step in the railway stoppage. Not only the engine drivers who faced the dread arbitrament of starvation to maintain their wages, but the large numbers of miners and others who had been incidently deprived of employment and the miners and dockers who are on the verge of striking, waited to see whether the Labour Government would come forward as the friend of the workers.

Capitalist Governments have frequently intervened to assist the Capitalists in time of strike. They have not done so when the employers have been winning, only when the solid unity of the workers has shown that they Brigadier-General Thompson. could not be beaten without undue losses to

When the workers' strength has thus been manifest, Capitalist Governments have stepped in to coerce with a pretence of impartiality.

First they have ensured either by force or negotiation, that the deadlock created by the workers should be removed. Then the decision of the case has been handed over to some member of the employing class, some successful lawyer or business man, or a member of the hereditary nobility who has awarded the workers as little as they would quietly ac-

The workers will expect other methods from It has been suggested, but we think, not ac- a Trade Union Government. They will tol-Ministerial, for the choice of the Committees Trade Union officials were not returned to hold

Nevertheless, masses of workers are looking On the other hand a Committee gives pos- to the Labour Government to prove their friend govern, even with the handicap of dependence Just as is the Minister, moreover, the Com- on Liberal votes, at least as worthily and cf-

CHICHERINE ON THE LABOUR GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Chicherine, the Soviet Commissary Foreign Affairs, has been interviewed by Arthur Ransome as to his views on the Brit Labour Government. Mr. Chicherine's word are courteous, but they have a decidedly ac flavour of scepticism.

Speaking of Mr. MacDonald he says:

MacDonald and Gladstone.

"I cannot, however, observe without some apprehension his advent to the Fo eign Office. I remember another n whose oratory had the same moral anthropic character, the same religiou est condemnation of violence toward weaker nations, the man who when Opposition had opposed colonial expasion, and particularly opposed Eng colonial policy in regard to Egypt, himself the man who bombarded Alexa dria. With the best wishes for the succe of Mr. MacDonald, I think I can all myself to quote the example of Gla stone's colonial policy with the Lat words, 'Vestigia terrent'."

The Trade Union Leaders.

Mr. Chicherine adds:

"It is difficult for me to make genera remarks about the Trade Union Leade who have now come to power because so far as I know British politics, t Trade Union movement had no unique foreign policy, and every Trade Uni Leader had his own policy, Tillett on Smillie another, and Clynes a third. am very impatient now to learn wh will be the common foreign policy these Leaders working together.

Humanitarian Views at the Air Ministry. Sharp irony distinguishes the references in Moscow, when I had the pleasure talking with him on the repatriation fugitives and on other humanitarian n ters. I am glad that he will be able apply his humanitarian views to the co trol of the air force."

From Spain.

Since the reactionary coup in Spain Liberals have practically disappeared and forces of Left Wing Communism and revolutionary Syndicalism have been greatly German Militarists and Toller Play.

The "Observer" reports:

"The production of Ernst Toller's new plants "Hinkermann" at the State Theatre in Dre den has led to the biggest theatrical distu bance since Schnitzler's "Reigen" was p duced in Berlin. Toller, who is still impris oned in Bavaria for his active sympathies he time of the Räte-Republik, has been the particular object of nationalist students' ani- from the Communist Workers' Group of the mosity for some years past. The organised protest and panic that occured early in the first act of "Hinkermann" was political in inciple, though it professed to be the outfighting for the ideals of unsullied morality. experience in political intrigues, cried wishers. His hero, Hinkermann, is a war will hang you to the telegraph poles. You victim, sexually mutilated. The audience carry the guilt of the international carnage will go to the meetings of workmen and will solit into two factions, one pleading for a in which the working people of all countries further hearing of what might turn out to were drowned. You have murdered Rosa be a perfect work of art, the other demanding Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht.

whose upkeep they pay for, for the staging every step." The readers must admit that people! They lept and they jumped, they tor expresses a desire to try the play again for an unbiassed audience in the interests of art, Socialism, and Ernst Toller."

A complete translation of this play of Toller appears in Germinal from 152, Fleet Street, London, E.C.; from Henderson's, Archers, and by order through all newsagents.

LENIN.

So many articles are written on Lenin now that even the best of them are wearisome. When Lenin was a lonely pioneer people did not write of him. Most of those who euloe him to-day were coldly indifferent, contemptuous, or hostile when Lenin faced real nger and hewed out for himself the posion for which he is to-day admired.

undertones concerning foreign policy- Make no mistake; it is not Lenin, not his namely, Gladstone. I cannot forget that personality, his thought, his conception of Gladstone, the man who had the strong-sicial life which is so widely admired nowit is the power he weilded, the prominent posin he held which is regarded with awe.

Many who were aloof and doubtful when e dauntless few were fighting the struggle 1917-18, are prepared now to make a very od of Lenin, to proclaim him the man who was always right, who "never made a mis-

This of course is absurd. It is a claim Lenin would never have made for himself, mbative and keen as he was on his own ndpoint. He believed in his theories, his tactics and policy, but again and again he of arse knew that he had made mistakes, he of rse regretted them and strove to overcome e results. An eager, vital, enthusiastic hubeing, he was struggling by the untried vays of social progress.

Certainly he was as the poles apart from the e popes who would make a god of him to hance themselves. His merit is not that he was infallible; that he never was, but that had great energy, great determination, eat courage and that curiosity of the mind which causes people to seek for the truth, lowever unpopular, or unpalatable it may

The little popes who sing his praises to-day do not possess the spirit of investigation tion. "Brigadier-General Thomson has been which raised him above the many; they keep to the mental pathways he has made, and w that he is dead they will try to stereonich can never be amended or extended.

The simplicity that made Lenin the loved itch of his comrades is quite alien to such atic in argument and strove hard to prevail because he desired to be deified as an ke converts in the interests of the results believed his policies would bring forth.

For ourselves we have differed from Lenin; the Treaty of Versailles. differences remain, but we do homage to inciple, who burnt his bridges and threw thout praise or encouragement till others ould be converted to his views.

Of such are the makers of history

A MANIFESTO FROM RUSSIA. Russian C.P.

(Third Instalment.)

Every Bolshevik and especially the average ward and visible sign of outraged youth, members of the party who possessed little ing in Sweden and Ebert in Germany. Com-"Toller has been unfortunate in his subject, every street-corner to the Mensheviks: "you even from the point of view held by his well- faithless traitors of the working class! We ialist government with communist supplement. the curtain at any price. In the general com- streets of Berlin become red; thanks to Communists will receive one, even if the worst notion, amid an atmosphere vitiated by the your atrocities, with the blood of the workers is-bombs the disturbers had brought with who rose in indignation against the capitalist. It will be voted and decided to give it. They em, one member of the audience died of exploitation and oppression. You are the will tell the whole working class that the makers of the treaty of Versailles, you have Communists have recognised that only togeth-"Certain Dresden ratepayers demand an ex- committed numberless crimes against the in- er with them and not against them is it possianation from the director of the theatre, ternational proletariat by betraying them at ble to fight for Socialism. Only look at these worker with such an attitude the "socialist have they come to us. united front" i.e. a united front with Noske > are not entitled simply 'Socialist united front' cate of political poverty. What is really the but 'on the unified workers' front and on the relation with the workers who follow the also to those who support the Anarcho-Syndi- instead of a gibbet? calist organisation." The same comrade Only a little previously had he sung the Zinoview who writes these theses, a little burial hymn to the 2nd International and comearlier had invited us to take part in the plained against its spirits. Why does he sing funeral of the 2nd International. He has ap- now a panegyric? Shall we see its resurrecparently received news from this Interna- tion and worship it? tional that the announcment of its death is a little exaggerated. Therefore comrade Zin- this question thus: "The economic world crisoview has not lost his presence of mind and is is sharpening, unemployment is increasing, invites us now the the marriage of the Com- capital is taking the offensive and endeavmunist International with the 2nd Internation- ours to press down the standard of life of the > en of only with the parties of the 2nd and more to the left. The reformist illusions 2½ Internationals. Every workman, even if are destroyed. The broad workmen's circles he has been a refugee abroad, knows that begin for the first time to prize the Communist the parties are represented by their head of- vanguard and therefore one must form fices and there sit Vandervelde, Branting, a united front with Scheidemann. Scheidemann, Noske and Co. With them, an agreement will be arrived. Who was at ginning. We would not be just unless we the Berin Conference of the Three Interna- added a few more grounds which comrade tionals? To whom has the Comintern offered Zinoview adds in his defence of the united its heart and hand? To Wels, Vandervelde front. He makes a wonderful discovery:

Have they tried to come to an understand- And how can it do otherwise than through a ing with the Communist Workers' Party (KAP) of Germany, although the same comrade Zinoview says that in it very valuable proletarian elements are to be found.

theses that no amalgamation at all of Comintern with the 2nd International is at- sired to become united? Everyone who has tempted and that the former will keep its organisationary independence.

The Communists impose upon themselves a discipline in activities, but they must preserve unconditionally with it the right and the possibility, not only before and after but even when necessary during action, to give expression to their opinions about the politics of all workers organisations without excep-

Discipline in action and independence in ex- essary to organise and lead the working class pressing the views is formally recognised for the inner party life in the Statutes of the ope his utterances into a series of dogmas, C.P. of Russia. That does not mean anything other than: one must do what the majority has decided.....you can exercise only criticism..... Do that which has been commanded diffication. Like others who rise above the to you, but if you are too angry and know derilities of small minds Lenin was dog- quite definitel. that it does harm to the cause of world revolution, then you can give your anger free vent, during, before and after acallible but simply because he wished to tion—speak. That is synonymous with giving up independent action, exactly as Vandervelde had provided a clause when he subscribed to

In the same theses the executive gives out the as one who fought wholeheartedly for watchword of 'Workers' Government' whereby it slyly substitutes for the slogan of the mself into the thick of the struggle, who "dictatorship of the Proletariat" the slogan as not afraid to go forth alone, toiling of "Socialist Ministries." What is exactly then 'Workers' Government'? It is a government which will be formed out of the Central Committees of Allied Parties and Ebert (Socialist) is President, f.ex. in Germany—even if a cabinet, as befits him, is added,.....we get an ideal programme which is built upon these theses. Then when this watchword is not accepted, the Communists must support with their voice the Socialist Prime Minister Brantrade Zinoview offers them the united front and proposes to them the formation of a Soc-

Noske, Ebert, Scheidemann and Company tell them that the Comintern has declared amnesty and offers instead of gibbet, Ministerial The Chairs. But upon one condition, viz. that the Ministerial Chair. To give or not to give?

The Communist International has certified Scheidemann, Vandervelde Branting and Co. the political trustworthiness of the 2nd In-It must be somehow masked. The theses ternational and has received from it a certifi-

Why does comrade Zinoview offer Ebert, 2nd, 21 and Amsterdam Internationals and Scheidemann and Noske a Ministerial seat

The theses of comrade Zinoview answer proletariat." Also a war is inevitable. For An agreement with the workers is not spok- these reasons, the working class is going

The end does not correspond with the be-"The working class strives towards unity. united front with Scheidemann?!!!

Every conscious worker to whom the interests of his class and of the world revolution is not foreign, can ask: Is it only now, in the It is true, comrade Zinoview says in the movement when the necessity of united front is supported, that the working class has delived in the moment of the appearance of the working class on the arena of political struggle, knows the desperation which rises in every workman: why do the Mensheviki, Bolsheviki, the Social-Revolutionaries and the members of the Workers' Party fight one another? They all want the best for the people. Then what do they fight each other for? Every workman lives in this doubt. But what conclusion must one draw from that? It is necinto a self-dependent class-party, in which act one must place oneself in antagonism to all other parties. That our petty-bourgeois prejudices must be laid aside, was correct. It is true also till to-day. We must prepare the working class in all capitalist countries where the era for social revolution has arrived, for open armed attack, exactly against International Menshevism and Social-Revolutionaries. In this case the experiences of the Russian Revolution must be considered. It must be tightly hammered into the working class of the whole world that they, the Socialists of the 2nd and 21 International are at the head of counter-revolution and will continue to remain there. The propaganda of united front together with the social traitors of all shades attempts to convince that the latter also fight for and not against Socialism.

The time when the working class could im-

(Continued on p. 8.)

Morkers' Dreadnought Founded 1914. Editor: SYLVIA PANKHURST.

All Matter for Publication - To THE EDITOR. Business Communications - To THE MANAGER. WORKERS' DREADNOUGHT, 152, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.4. SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Three months (13 weeks) 18. 71/2d. Six months (26 weeks) 3s. 3d. One year (52 weeks) 6s. 6d. Subscriptions can start from any week.

Vol. X. No. 46. SATURDAY, FEB. 2ND, 1924.

Our View.

THE RAILWAY STRIKE.

The result of the railway strike is certainly amazing. The reduction in wages against which the strike was directed is still to take place, but will now be gradually imposed. The first cut will be immediate, the second in July, and the last in January, 1925.

The strike has been terminated without consulting the rank and file, who suffered its hardships, whose ballot vote decided it, and who, of course, are the people whose wages are reduced. The fact that prices have been steadily rising during the last six months is overlooked in all these wage settlements.

Here, once again, is shown the undemocratic character of trade union management. The strikers, it seems, were ordered back to work without even being told what the terms were. It was late on Tuesday afternoon before the newspapers announced the facts. Mr. Bromley says his union has contributed to "stopping the rot which has set in against wages and conditions of all workers."

No, Mr. Bromley; you have merely slowed down the process a little, although solid action the railway service. strike, short of victory, unless the rank and teaching required to develop a Socialist movefile had themselves decided to accept a com- ment.

The necessity for the setting up of Workers' Councils becomes always more evident.

MR. McKENNA AND THE CURRENCY.

railway strike.

From the Trade Union Executive they will out from the crowd.

the workshop councils, the councils of them- wages. selves, organised at the point of production, alone can enable them to fight effectively.

The see-saw of wages contests is a very depressing one. It is a struggle that never will end till the wages system is abolished.

WILL STRIKES DESTROY THE LABOUR GOVERNMENT?

salaries in the neighbourhood of £1,000 a year One contrasts his insistence that "whatever out of the Labour Movement, can find it in else is postponed, this matter calls for instant their hearts to ask poor people whose wages redress" with his own desire to postpone the are below the subsistence level, to refrain from urgent case of the miners and dockers at home. striking to better their economic position.

ford had a bitter attack on the railway strikers, ment with a crash " is hardly in harmony with Post free. which evoked many protests from his readers. the fact that the railway strike and the Labour This week he again denounces strikes, and, Government came in together. moreover, calls Mr. George Lansbury to Mr. Lansbury takes another line than Mr. reinforce his arguments.

movement has been at a low ebb for several strikes appear inevitable" to wait a few weeks years, and that the workers have therefore to give the new Government a chance to do turned instinctively to political action. Thus something for them. Under normal condition the Labour Party has got its chance: the mines, would delay any improvement regions or nationally." Labour Government with a crash, and measure of radical improvement.

This is not Socialist teaching; it is sheer Parliamentary game in an effective way. of the members of the A.S.L.E. & F., with the Liberalism. We urge all good I.L.P.'ers to support of N.U.R. comrades, had paralysed realise that. Let them read Mr. Brailford's words with careful impartiality. They will not It was a shame, in our opinion, to stop the fail then to recognise that such is not the

Mr. Brailsford does not know that his argument is not Socialist. He ought, however, to understand that it is harshly callous. He, with his snug thousand a year as reward for the leisurely, pleasant work of editing a small weekly paper, assisted by a professional sub-Mr. McKenna, in his address to the share- editor, beside the usual office staff and numholders of the Midland Bank, made a plea for bers of able contributors, should contrast himinflation of the currency. That means in- self with those engine drivers, rushing through creased prices, and prices already are steadily the country with their anxious freight of lives, rising. From the already rising prices wages rising by night, in all weathers, at any hour, are suffering a continual reduction. They will when the call for a driver comes. The railway be reduced still more if Mr. McKenna's policy companies have said that some of those drivers is adopted. We anticipate that it will be, since get £6 a week, but Mr. Brailsford, for his Mr. Keynes, who is in many ways the financial genial, dilletanti strolling through the short ment would take immediate steps to recogn leader of the Labour Party, favours a large columns of the "New Leader," gets £20 a Russia, but now there are rumours that a deadinflation. In that case, inevitably, the workers week. Let him compare himself, moreover, lock has arisen. Mr. J. J. O'Niell, the Liberal will be forced to revolt against their present with the miners in their hard, dangerous toil low wages, the purchasing power of which below ground, whose earnings are now down will become less. The workers will then look to the poor law level; and the dockers; aye, for something more robust from the Labour let him go down to the docks some morning, Government than the passivity displayed in the and fight to be taken on, and shoulder his load with the rest, if he be so lucky as to be picked of British creditors upon Russia have been expect better tactics than the present habit of Mr. Brailsford does not pretend the Labour cause it had been widely stated that such allowing one section of workers to fight its Government will raise wages; he tells the questions would be left over for discussion battle alone, before the next section takes the wage earners they must wait for an improve- after the recognition had opened the way ment in trade to better their conditions. He diplomatic intercourse between Russia Certainly, as the struggle for existence knows that the financial politicians are plan- Britain. Certainly that was what seemed grows keener, it must be borne in upon the ning to inflate the currency and reduce the be implied, both by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald wage workers, just as it was in the war, that purchasing power of the present miserable Albert Hall speech and his recent pamphlet of workers, who have lost the legal eight hour day, the last relic of what they won by their revolution, one feels that his words ring hollow. Mr. Brailsford professes "amazement and indignation " that " men in British uniforms" are requisitioning labour, to replace the German strikers who refuse to work a ten It is strange that men who are drawing hour day in the British zone of occupation.

When Mr. Brailsford turns in his next paragraph to express sympathy for the German Mr. MacDonald is finding difficulties in the

Mr. Brailsford's plea that a series of strikes In last week's "New Leader" Mr. Brails- "would bring down the first Labour Govern-Brailsford; he asks the ill-paid wage earner Mr. Brailsford postulates that the industrial whose conditions are "so bad as to make Mr. Lansbury says he considers the proper "Its main task is now, by setting in answer to Lord Devonport would be "nothing motion its plans for unemployment and but a strike," but he urges "conditions are housing, by its foreign policy and by not normal." He begs the dockers to wait til administrative action converging on these their officials have hammered out a scheme central problems, to bring about a revival "to deal with the whole transport business so of trade. That will mean more for the far as docks and wharves are concerned which whole body of workers, now and for years can be brought before Parliament by to come, than a whole series of victories Minister of Labour." To the miners M. (if victories were possible) won by strikes. Lansbury makes the same plea, asking then The two methods cannot easily be com- to wait for the means to buy more food, till t bined. A series of strikes, first on the Labour Government has secured legislation railways, then at the docks, and finally in "to get the industry reorganised, either i in trade, and for a time at least aggravate Such measures take many months, at least the general unemployment, and make it to find a way through Parliament, and meanharder than ever to raise revenue for our while the dockers and miners are in need; their social aims. More certainly than anything children are short of bread. The Labou else, they would bring down the first Government has no majority; it can pass n after creating dissension in our own ranks, If they were frank and fearless and wise, and distrust among the public, postpone these Labour Party politicians, they would sa for many a long. year our hopes of attain- to the workers: We can do very little for you ing a majority in the country. Our but if you will create an impossible situation strategy must be concerted between the we may be able to use their fear of you t political and the industrial movements. manœuvre the Liberals and Tories into accep-If they work independently, and, worse tance of some ameliorations.

Parliamentarism is bound to fail, but these still, at cross purposes, both are doomed Labour Party politicians do not even play the MILITARY JUSTICE.

On February 13th, 1915, Lucien Bersot, private in the French Army, when issued whith duck trousers, refused to accept a pair which had been soiled in store. No doubt the poor fellow would have been punished had appeared in them. For his refusal he was condemned to a week's imprisonment. H comrades were indignant. They sent a profest to the lieutenant. Thereupon the colonel the regiment sentenced Bersot to death. A was shot next morning. The Court of Appeal has now quashed the sentence and awarde the widow of Bersot 20,000 francs.

THE RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA.

It was expected that the Labour Govern-M.P. for Lancaster, has confidently asserted as though he were in the inner councils of the Labour Party, that the Labour Cabinet co sidered the question at its first meeting, b recognition cannot take place until the clain settled. The statement was surprising, Labour Party foreign policy.

The Daily Telegraph, however, persists th willingness to enter the League when the sion-not the suppression itself. Allied Powers permit. The old Anglo-Russian Treaties are mentioned as another barrier, and, yet another, the suggestion that recognition would nullify the political clauses of the Trade Agreement, thus setting the n the East. It is also suggested that the countries bordering on Russia may be unfavourable to the recognition of Russia by Britain. It is hinted that Lords Parmoor and Chelmsford may also be raising objections.

We imagine that all this is mere speculation, and that the Labour Government will carry out slavery of a cruel type. its pledge to recognise Russia without delay.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

We have often said that the next war will be called by the British Government a war for Reparations Committee recommends the estabthe League of Nations. It will, of course, be lishment of a gold bank in Germany. n reality a war for the harmony of Europe between Britain and France.

Mr. MacDonald's Government has begun by giving the League of Nations greater promi- a German revolution. If the German revolunence than has hitherto been accorded to it. tion is a genuinely Communist revolution and Lord Cecil, who represented the last Govern- abolishes the money system, the gold will be ment on the League of Nations Council, was thereby rendered practically valueless in only a sort of unimportant accessory to the Germany and the depositors, may do as they last Government. Lord Parmoor, who is to please with it. represent this Government on the Council, is an important personage in the Government, and will be in charge of foreign affairs in the House of Lords.

so ably exposed by Mr. E. D. Morel, M.P., cases. It is that 80 per cent. of the oil reserves both broke the Covenant of the League of has been so readily sacrificed. Nations we would have nothing to do with either of them; but that if one of them broke the Covenant and the other stood by it, then we would take action, not for way you can get real security."

The Daily Telegraph observes that Mr. section controlled." Bonar Law adopted that idea a year ago, and military convention with Britain.

THE PALATINATE.

The anxiety which the Powers are displaying as to the independence or otherwise of the Palatinate is explained by the fact that it inludes one of the big Rhine harbours and one of the greatest dye works in the world. It has, moreover, a backbone of hills and ridges suitable for defence in war, and is wedged into the corner formed by the Rhine and the rontiers of Alsace Lorraine and the Sarre

THE SWISS FREE ZONES.

way of recognition. The wish is probably Government. During the past few weeks or air preparations or alliances with other ather to the thought, but the Telegraph France has incorporated into her own economic Powers which will add their forces to those of declares that a number of obstacles have been system the Savoy free zones contrary to the Britain, then the abandonment of Singapore discovered. Not only are the British debt Treaty rights of Switzerland. M. Poincaré will prove but a passing and minor incident. claims raised up as a spectre by the Telegraph. has agreed to allow the dispute to be arbitrated, Pacifist effort in a capitalist society seems It discovers also that Mr. MacDonald will provided that the right of France to suppress all too often, indeed, like carrying water in a make recognition conditional on Russia's the free zones is excluded from the judgment! sieve. To realise this fact in all its force, we acceptance in principle of the covenant of the All that M. Poincaré is willing to discuss is the must remember that the very basis of League of Nations and an expression of problems which have arisen from the suppres- capitalism is competition, and conflicts of

CHILD EMIGRANTS.

We recently published information regarding the conditions under which child emigrants Soviet Government free to carry on propaganda are sent from this country to the colonies. The suicide of a boy emigrant to Canada, who had been thrashed by his employer, and the rider of the jury that the inspection of the children and their homes is inadequate, come to confirm our warning. Disguise the question as one may, this traffic in child emigrants is

GERMAN GOLD BANK AND REVOLUTION.

The Committee of Experts appointed by the

It is proposed that the capital of the bank should be placed in a neutral country to prevent seizure by an enemy Power or in case of

THE U.S. OIL SCANDAL.

The important thing about the leasing of U.S. Government oil pools to certain private Lord Grey, whose responsibility for the companies is not so much whether there was plomacy which created the last war has been what the Americans call "graft" in particular and Mr. H. N. Brailsford, is now making pro- which the United States was supposed to be nouncements which seem to be in substantial setting aside for its Navy as a measure of accord with the policy of the Labour Party. national defence have passed into private "Germany should be got to sign the the difficulty of maintaining public spirit Covenant of the League of Nations, as and care for the general good under a well as France and ourselves. And then social system based on capitalist competition. I think this country might come to an It is not the oil wells and the Navy that matter, agreement that if France and Germany but the fact that the interest of the community

CONTROL IN THE COTTON TRADE.

the sake of supporting one country against by Sir Charles Macara, and the Provisional a cheap score of it as 'Russian gold.' "-Mr. another, but for the sake of supporting Emergency Cotton Committee, is on the eve T. Johnston, M.P., in the "Forward." the Covenant of the League and the of becoming an established fact. This control, country which stood by the Covenant. In as recently explained in our columns, includes that way you will get security which is an restriction of production, the fixing of basic equal security for every nation which selling prices for yarn, and levies on employers signed the Covenant, and that is the only and employed to compensate workers unemployed through "the state of trade in the

This is the capitalist alternative to Socialism. said: that Lord Cecil was instructed to take secret It is a desperate attempt to attain security for soundings on it at Geneva. M. Poincaré, the manufacturer and to modify for him the however, would have none of it, and demanded evils of competition by his compatriots and from abroad. There is also an effort to combine to insure raw material.

The worker remains a wage slave, and the security offered to him by the contract is of a very meagre and conditional variety.

Sir Charles Macara and his Committee have by great energy, in an incredibly short space of time, secured the acceptance of controlled capitalism amongst a very conservative body of capitalists. We should display a much more fervent energy and faith in converting the workers to the abolition of capitalism.

THE SINGAPORE BASE.

The expected abandonment of the Singa- too undeveloped to desire. It is stated in many quarters that France is pore base is one of those rare earnests of The belief that the workers must become moving to the Left, and that, therefore, the pacifist intention which governments occa- conscious Communists lays on us the obliga-French Government is becoming less aggres- sionally offer. Yet even this must be taken in tion to be, not the dominant leaders, or the sive. It requires keen and optimistic eyesight conjunction with many things. If for the clever wirepullers, but the brotherly ones, o discern such tendencies in the French Singapore base are substituted military, naval prepared to discuss our complete belief with interest. A sort of war, like a low fever ravaging the body politic, is always going on, between the producer and the employer, between the vendor and the purchaser, and between the rival vendors.

MR. J. H. THOMAS ON ROYALTY AND DEMOCRACY.

"We have all settled down to the fact that there has come into being, and is governing our great Empire to-day, a new party. There were many who were apprehensive. The least apprehensive was our guest of to-day-the Prince of Wales. The only exception to him I would make would be his illustrious and distinguished father. They were the least disturbed of all people, and they were the least disturbed because they were the most wise. They were the most wise because they knew their people better than others. . . .

I hope that in 136 years' time our successors will be able to say that we did nothing as pioneers to weaken this great Empire of which we are all so proud. I accepted the seals of office with pride and gratitude-pride because I can look back to the day when I was a little errand-boy nine years of age, gratitude to the Constitution that enables the engine-cleaner of yesterday to be the Minister of to-day. That Constitution, so broad, so wide, so democratic, must be preserved, and the Empire which provides it must be main-

"Mr. J. H. Thomas's statement in the House of Commons last week that he was a At Cannon Street Hotel the other day he said: hands. This is a remarkable instance of recipient of Russian gold, because he got £2,000 damages in his libel action against the Communist newspaper, cannot be allowed to pass. It is true he got £2,000, but not from the Communists or the Russians-they paid nothing. The £2,000 he got, and he must know it, came from the National Labour Press, a venture of the I.L.P. He insisted upon prosecuting the printers of the paper as well as the Communists who owned it. It was the I.L.P. he skinned Control in the cotton trade, as agitated for of the £2,000, and it is rather shabby to make

THIRD AND FOURTH INTERNATIONALS.

The manifesto of the Communist Workers' International, which we published last week,

"We believe in a majority of the workers becoming consciously Com-

That is a very sound saying. It is one with which we wholeheartedly agree. That belief must guide our whole policy. It contains many deep implications. It forces us to be thorough in our educative propaganda and organisation, not to rely on chance or fickle impulse to achieve that which can only be brought forth by earnest labour. It forever cuts us off from the race for popularity, the effort to be all things to all men. It removes us from the temptation to pander to prejudice, and to disguise our real objectives, in the hope that by securing office, we can impose on the masses for their good, a millennium they are desire to hear, and avoiding mention of those

WORKERS AND PEASANTS.

A point which frequently crops up in Continental manifestoes is the relationship of the worker and the peasant. The Fourth International manifesto we published last week referred to the fact that the Third International believes it can build a dictatorship of workers and peasants. of the term "dictatorship," let us consider the them to be Communists. relationship of the worker and the peasant. We believe that what most retarded the the cobblers, and other small craftsmen, who they had gained. keeper, because he has a permanent property ing that things are all right as they are. peasant class grows up.

munist society there will be no peasants, not production and town economy.

Of the many discussions which naturally, and rightly, are held on the tactics of the Russian Revolution, the most heated point of contest is whether there should have been a "dictatorship of the industrial proletariat," or a "dictatorship of the industrial proletariat plus the peasants."

In spite of its time-honoured character, we must affirm that, in our view, the use of the term "dictatorship" in such discussions is responsible for much confusion and misunderstanding. Let us put the matter in another way; let us consider whether the peasants on the land and the workers in the factories can co-operate in constructing a Communist community-in which, of course, property is held in common and production is for use, not

We see at once that before this can be done, not only must the town workers cease to be the employees of capitalists, but the peasants must cease to be peasants: that is to say, they must cease to be owners of land and to produce for sale. Otherwise there is no com-

No reasonable person believes that what was required in Russia was that the relatively small number of industrial workers in Russia should act as the dictators-in the sense that the Czar and Napoleon were dictators-over the vast peasant masses of Russia.

Those who join issue with the policy pursued by the Third International, and oppose the attempt to build a new society on the basis of peasants and proletariat, argue that the existence of a peasant proprietary ought not to have been accepted as a factor upon which to Sir George Buchanan. The Czar replied that one at lunch or dinner, and immediately debuild. The effort, constant and unremitting, he could not at such a time make public his cide that he would make, for instance, an ideal ought to have been to secure the socialisation distrust of an Allied representative. Whether Minister of the Interior. The thing would be of the land, as well as of the industries, and to the Czar wrote to King George on the sub- no sooner said than done. brand individual ownership of land as essen- ject at all, Mme. Viroubova does not know. A few weeks of confinement in the under-the peasants, to seize the land and cut it up tirely to the Grand Dukes. for individual ownership, the right course was Mme. Viroubova insists that the Czar was such hideous punishment should be meted out to have endeavoured to induce them to seize not a weak man, but again and again she by the revolutionary governments of course, the land for common ownership, its products shows that he was extremely weak and ex- but she forgot that those hideous cells were being applied to common use.

have been made.

continued, and continued.

people because they happen to be employed who stayed to lunch with him. Mme. Virou-Leaving aside for the time being the question on the land, and decide it is unnecessary for bova cannot understand why the Czar allowed

In England we have no considerable class of development of the Russian Revolution was engrossed in the war that he thought "the peasants, tilling their own soil and employ- the cessation of effort to secure communism by plotter's gossip" harmless. ing no hired labour. In England the labour the vast majority of the active propagandists, on the land is mainly that of hired workers, who, under Bolshevist influence, became exieff dismissed a faithful old General Ivanoff whose position is precisely that of the factory infected with doubt in the possibility of further falsely telling him that his dismissal was due worker in the town. The peasant who employs progress, and imagined that if they did not to the Empress and her accomplices Rasputin no hired labour is more suitably compared to stand still, or retreat, they would lose what and Mme. Viroubova. General Ivanoff told make and sell their own wares, or even to the As a matter of fact, the history of all revohawkers and the small shopkeepers, than to the lutions is that as soon as they cease to advance, wage worker. The peasant with his plot of they begin to retreat. In or out of revolution, land is, however, in a more secure economic there is nothing to be lost by endeavouring to position than the small manufacturer and shop- progress; no advance can be made by pretendin his land, and because he can raise his own The attempt to build a Workers' Republic, food—or some of it, at least. It must not be on the basis of private ownership of the land forgotten, however, that in bad times small and production of agricultural produce for peasants are often driven to sell or mortgage sale, coupled with State Socialism in the towns, ister, the Czar expressed regret saying: their land, and from their loss a richer proved abortive. The result was the new "They demand it; I cannot refuse them at Economic Policy, which was the re-introduc- such a time as this." He referred to the Of course, we are all agreed that in a Com- tion of private capitalism into industrial Grand Dukes.

die out, but that which makes them peasants bringing the land workers to a state of Com- plied with complete evidence that it was the -the ownership of land-will disappear. munism led directly and inevitably to reaction, Land will be held in common, production from the saddest feature of which is the attempt of move to punish them, save to order two or the land, as in industry, will be for use, not those in power in Russia to check the essential propaganda and organisation for Communism. E. SYLVIA PANKHURST.

AN OIL CLUE.

General Obregon by the United States and the placing of an embargo upon the supply of Kerensky to investigate the associates of the munitions to his enemies is to be found in Russian Imperial family. This report conthe fact that General Obregon has recently established the oil concessionaires on unusually advantageous terms. The rebels against the bova herself of all the charges made against government of the General have seized the cil her. wells and so displaced the concessionaires a large proportion of whom are subjects of the

The United Sates has also permitted Obregon's forces to march across American soil on and has sent a squadron to the oil port of Tampico to prevent a rebel blockade there.

FROM THE PUBLISHERS MEMORIES OF THE RUSSIAN COURT.

by Anna Viroubova. (MacMillan)

this book is that the British Ambassador in selves. with the Grand Dukes to overthrow the Czar have been made under the influence Nicholas II and replace him by his cousin Rasputin purely for the enrichment of the Grand Duke Cyril Vladimirovitch in order his purse, Mme. Viroubova unconsciously to weaken Russia as a factor in the future reveals the evill of the system which peace conference.

matter to his cousin George V. and the Em- mense country with a population of over two press advised him to demand the recall of hundred millions. The Czar would meet sometremely superstitious.

Instead of urging the peasants, and leading revolution and the fall of the Czardom en- Paul, were naturally very terrible to Mme.

all who are prepared to listen. For us there It may be argued, but it cannot be proved, She gives a striking instance: in November. can be no question of expounding a diluted that had the Bolsheviki called for the common 1916, Grand Duke Nicholai Michailovitch doctrine, of telling people only that which they ownership of the land they would have failed. brought a letter to the Czarina charging her Rosa Luxemberg, herself a Russian Pole, specifically with mischievous political machinaprinciples to which our hearers are not yet declared at the time that the effort ought to tions and saying: "unless this is stopped murder will certainly begin. This letter For us, whether the effort would have meant the Grand Duke had laid on the Czar's early success or not, the effort undoubtedly desk. The Czar transmitted it to his should have been made and continued, and wife, who was overcome with indignation and grief. All the staff knew the "We believe in a majority of the contents of the letter and expected the Grand workers becoming consciously commun- Duke to be ignominously ejected from the Czar's room. On the contrary the Czar re-Therefore we cannot cut off a section of the mained quite friendly with the Grand Duke, She concludes that the Emperor was so much > Again she tells that a certain General Al-Mme. Viroubova the story, and she, in turn, told the Czar, but without result.

"The Emperor's wrath against Alexieff was indeed kindled but he evidently felt that he could not at that critical hour, dismiss an officer whose services were so urgently demanded. Afterwards, however, his manner to old General Ivanoff became conspicuously kind."

On another occasion, in dismissing a Min-

When Rasputin whom the Czar regarded that the people who are peasants will actually The attempt to save time by refraining from as a saint, was murdered, the Czar was sup-

Mme. Viroubova is at pains to defend Rasputin from all the charges levelled against him, but quite incidentally, she observes that the saint, as she regards him, had an unfortunate weakness for strong drink. She The clue to the supply of armaments to subjoins, by way of appendix to her book, a statement of Judge Roudneff, appointed by tains decidedly unsaintly evidence against Rasputin, though it exonerates Mme. Virou-

The Roudneff report shows that Rasputin obtained considerable sums of money from those who approached him to secure them government posts, railway concessions and so

Mme. Viroubova testifies that both the Czar and Czarina believed Rasputin to possess the power of prophecy and to be in direct contact with God for the special benefit of Russia and its Royal House.

The Roudneff report shows that the court officials being aware of this belief on the part of their rulers thought it desirable to give effect to the recommendations of Rasputin in Perhaps the most remarkable statement in order to retain the favour of royalty for them-

Petrograd, Sir George Buchanan, conspired Apart from any appointments which may be hearthurn his face was tormented Without looking at her, Pavel spoke, not asked, interrupting his speech. permitted one individual to appoint and The Czar said he would communicate the depose at will all the high officials of an imtially anti-communist, and to be condemned. She attributes the original outbreak of the river cells of the fortress of Saints Peter and Viroubova. She was greatly indignant that created and maintained by generations of that signately desires to recall.

ulous and superstitious woman with exceeding- finding him at home, they remained away. v limited intelligence and education. The read only devotional books and novels. She that she was assisted by an American Journalist. That would make for exaggerations.

children, mainly, it seems, in religion and sew-

Her account of Gorky and his statement to her that the Czar was not even an aristocrat but a bourgeois caring for his wife and family is one of those foolish pieces of bourgeois sentimentality which ignore facts.

THE OIL TRUSTS AND ANGLO-AMERI-CAN RELATIONS. Davenport and Russell Cooke. (Macmillan, 7s. 6d.)

IRISH NATIONAL TRADITION. By Mrs. Stopford Green. (Macmillan.)

PANZERZUG Nr. 14-69. By Wssewolod Jwanow. Translated from Russian into German by Eduard Schiemann. 2/-. A very vivid story of an episode in the Russian Revolution, when an armoured train was taken by the peasants. The scene is laid in Siberia.

FARBIGE WINDE. By Wssewolod Jwanow. Translated from the Russian into German by Eduard Schiemann. 2/-. Karl Hoym Nachf., Hamburg.

THE AWAKENING OF A MOTHER. By Maxim Gorky.

from everywhere else in the suburb.

windows. In one corner stood Pavel's bed, questioning expression.

Pavel tried to live like the rest. He did all again. a young lad should do-bought himself an "I want to ask you," she said in a low, accordian, a shirt with a starched front, a loud- soft voice, "what you read all the time." coloured necktie, overshoes, and a cane, and externally became like all the other youths of "Sit down, mother," his age. He went to evening parties and holidays he came home drunk, and always intense, painful expectation, waited for some- known, kindly caress. suffered greatly from the effects of liquor. In thing momentous. heartburn, his face was pale and dull.

Once his mother asked him: "Well, did you have a good time yester-

He answered dismally and with irritation: myself a gun."

His attendance at parties became less and less and pitied him. equent, and although he went out somewhere "Why do you do this, Pasha?" n holidays, he always returned home sober. He raised his head, looked at her, and said ing herself, were accustomed. is mother watched him unobtrusively but in a low, calm voice: losely, and saw the tawny face of her son "I want to know the truth." grow keener and keener, and his eyes more His voice sounded placid, but firm; and his perish." serious. She noticed that his lips were com- eyes flashed resolution. She understood with But it was pleasant to her to listen to his ld regime she so dearly loves and so pas- odd expression of austerity to his face. It for ever to something mysterious and awful.

The mother was glad to see her son turning was oppressed with sorrow and distress. Czarina, if one may judge from her letters, out different from all the other factory youths; "Don't cry," said Pavel kindly and softly; stirred in her heart when she observed that he farewell. spent her time largely in sewing, knitting, was obstinately and resolutely directing his life "Think what kind of life you are leading.

Mme. Viroubova's book has apparently been At first he tried to escape attention when read- and he did not know whence it came. He ing them; and after he had finished a book, he worked for thirty years; he began to work hid it. Sometimes he copied a passage on a when the whole factory occupied but two piece of paper, and hid that also.

"Yes, I'm all right," he answered.

"You are so thin," said the mother with a His eyes burned with a beautiful radiance.

He was silent.

same time she noticed that occasionally and her life. unintelligible to her, and that the coarse, rude, "What sort of a past can you recall?"

his mother. . . . The house stood at the edge of the village, Once, when after supper Pavel drew the cur- remote youth. She often discussed life with a low but steep and muddy declivity. A tain over the window, sat in a corner, and her neighbours, spoke a great deal about third of the house was occupied by the kitchen began to read, his tin lamp hanging on the everything; but all, herself included, only comand a small room used for the mother's bed- wall over his head, the mother, after removing plained; no one explained why life was so hard room, separated from the kitchen by a partition the dishes, came out from the kitchen and care- and burdensome. reaching partially to the ceiling. The other fully walked up to him. He raised his head, And now her son sat before her; and what two-thirds formed a square room with two and without speaking looked at her with a he said about her-his eyes, his face, his words a washstand with a small looking-glass over walked away, moving her eyebrows agitatedly. stood the life of his mother, and spoke the it, a trunk with clothes, a clock on the wall, But after standing in the kitchen for a moment, truth about her and her sufferings, and pitied and two icons—this was the entire outfit of the motionless, thoughtful, deeply preoccupied, her she washed her hands and approached her son

He put his book aside and said to her:

loudly, but for some reason very sternly:

"I am reading forbidden books. They are ing men must study. We must learn, we must forbidden to be read because they tell the truth understand why life is so hard for us." about our-about the working men's life. It was sweet to her to see that his blue eyes, seemed as if he were always angry at some- Everything in life had always appeared to her The picture which Anna Viroubova gives of thing, or as if a canker gnawed at him. At inevitable; she was accustomed to submit the Czarina to whom she is devoted, is of a cred- first his friends came to visit him, but never without thought, and now, too, she only wept softly, finding no words, but in her heart she which are filled with trivialities, apparently but a feeling of anxiety and apprehension and it seemed to her that he was bidding her and painting post cards. With the aid of a into obscure paths leading away from the You are forty years old, and have you lived? number of tutors she gave lessons to her routine existence about him—that he turned in Father beat you. I understand now that he his career neither to the right nor to the left. avenged his wretchedness on your body, the He began to bring home books with him. wretchedness of his life. It pressed upon him, buildings; and now there are seven of them. "Aren't you well, Pavlusha?" the mother The mills grow, and people die, working for

She listened to him eagerly and awestruck. Leaning forward on the table he moved nearer to his mother, and looking straight into her They spoke infrequently, and saw each other face, wet with tears, he delivered his first very little. In the morning he drank tea in speech to her about the truth which he had silence, and went off to work; at noon he came now come to understand. With the naïveté home for dinner, a few insignificant remarks of youth, and the ardour of a young student were passed at the table, and he again dis- proud of his knowledge, religiously confiding appeared until the evening. And in the in its truth, he spoke about everything that was evening, the day's work ended, he washed him- clear to him, and spoke not so much for his self, took supper, and then fell to his books, mother as to verify and strengthen his own and read for a long time. On holidays he left opinions. At times he halted, finding no home in the morning and returned late at night. words, and then he saw before him a disturbed She knew he went to the city and the theatre; face, in which dimly shone a pair of kind eyes but nobody from the city ever came to visit clouded with tears. They looked on with awe him. It seemed to her that with the lapse of and perplexity. He was sorry for his mother, time her son spoke less and less; and at the and began to speak again, about herself and with increasing frequency he used new words "What joys did you know?" he asked.

and hard expressions dropped from his speech. She listened and shook her head dolefully, In his general conduct, also, certain traits feeling something new, unknown to her, both appeared, forcing themselves upon his mother's sorrowful and gladsome, like a caress to her attention. He ceased to affect the dandy, but troubled and aching heart. It was the first became more attentive to the cleanliness of his time she had heard such language about her-Life in the little house of the Vlasoys flowed body and dress, and moved more freely and self, her own life. It awakened in her misty, monotonously, but more calmly and undis- alertly. The increasing softness and simplicity dim thoughts, long dormant; gently roused an turbed than before, and somewhat different of his manner aroused a disquieting interest in almost extinct feeling of rebellion, perplexed dissatisfaction-thoughts and feelings of a

-it all clutched at her heart, filling her with in front a table and two benches. Some chairs, "Nothing, Pasha!" she said hastily, and a sense of pride for her son, who truly under-

Mothers are not pitied. She knew it. She did not understand Pavel when speaking about matters not pertaining to herself, but all he said about her own woman's existence was bitterly familiar and true. Hence it seemed to her that every word of his was perfectly true, The mother sat down heavily at his side, and her bosom throbbed with a gentle sensation learned to dance a quadrille and a polka. On and straightening herself in an attitude of which warmed it more and more with an un-

> "What do you want to do, then?" she "Study and then teach others. We work-

They are printed in secrecy, and if I am found always so serious and stern, now glowed with "Oh, dreary as a graveyard! Everybody with them I will be put in prison-I will be put warmth, softly illuminating something new is like a machine. I'd better go fishing or buy in prison because I want to know the truth." within him. A soft contented smile played Breathing suddenly became difficult for her. around her lips, although the tears still He worked faithfully, without intermission Opening her eyes wide she looked at her son, trembled in the wrinkles of her face. She and without incurring fines. He was taciturn, and he seemed new to her, as if almost a wavered between two feelings; pride in her and his eyes, blue and large like his mother's, stranger. His voice was different, lower, son, who desired the good of all people, had looked out discontentedly. He did not buy a deeper, more sonorous. He pinched his thin, pity for all, and understood the sorrow and gun, nor did he go a-fishing; but he gradually downy moustache, and looked oddly aslant affliction of life; and the involuntary regret for began to avoid the beaten path trodden by all. into the corner. She grew anxious for her son his youth, because he did not speak like everybody else, because he resolved to enter alone into a fight against the life to which all, includ-

> She wanted to say to him: " My dear, what can you do? People will crush you. You will pressed in a peculiar manner, imparting an her heart that her son had consecrated himself speeches, and she feared to disturb her delight in her son, who suddenly revealed himself so new and wise, even if somewhat strange.

Pavel saw the smile around his mother's lips, the attention in her face, the love in her eyes; and it seemed to him that he compelled her to understand his truth; and youthful pride in the power of his word heightened his faith in himself. Seized with enthusiasm, he continued to talk, now smiling, now frowning. Occasionally hatred sounded in his words; and when his mother heard its bitter, harsh accents she shook her head, frightened, and asked in a low voice:

"Is it so, Pasha?"

"It is so!" he answered firmly. And he told her about the people who wanted the good of men, and who sowed truth among them; and because of this the enemies of life hunted J. H. Thomas, in joining the locomotivemen them down like beasts, thrust them into on strike, and in demanding a special meeting prisons, and exiled them, and set them to hard of the N.E.C. of the N.U.R. to reconsider the labour.

"I have seen such people!" he exclaimed passionately. "They are the best people on earth!"

These people filled the mother with terror, and she wanted to ask her son: "Is it so, Pasha?"

But she hesitated, and leaning back, listened to the stories of people incomprehensible to her, who taught her son to speak and think words and thoughts so dangerous to him. Finally she said:

"It will soon be daylight. You ought to go to bed. You've got to go to work." "Yes, I'll go to bed at once," he assented.

"Did you understand me?"

"I did," she said, drawing a deep breath. Tears rolled down from her eyes again, and breaking into sobs she added: "You will perish, my son!"

Pavel walked up and down the room. "Well, now you know what I am doing and where I am going. I told you all. I beg of you, mother, if you love me, do not hinder me !" "My darling, my beloved!" she cried, " maybe it would have been better for me not to have known anything!"

He took her hand and pressed it firmly in his. The word "mother," pronounced by him with feverish emphasis, and that clasp of the hand so new and strange, moved her.

Extract from "Comrades."

THE LABOUR LEAGUE OF INDIA.

The Labour League of India has been established in India with a view to bring together all trade unions and Labour Associations in that country and to uplift the conditions of all classes of Labour as also to see that Labour is not used by interested people for their own ends or creeds. It has already succeded in bringing together a large number of Unions and is taking up topics that affect Labour in the East. Mr. H. W. B. Moreno is the present President of the League and Mr. K. C. Roy Chowdbury, India's Labour delegate to this year's International Labour Conference, is a Vice-President. Mr. B. Biswas is Secretary of the League at 13, Wellesley Street, Calcutta.

Laborista Esperanto Klubo.

Public meeting will be held in England at 144, High Holborn, Top Floor, on "Esperanto and Labour." Questions and Discussion. 7.30, Saturday, February 2nd.

Refreshments provided. All welcome.

COMMUNIST WORKERS MOVEMENT.

(Anti-Parliamentary.) For particulars of membership apply Secretary, 152, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

Wanted, copies of "Workers' Dreadnought" for July 12th, 1919.

A LITERATURE PITCH.

Comrade Mrs. Ironside is organising a literature selling pitch in Oxford Street. Comrades willing to assist are asked to communicate with the "Dreadnought" office in order that we may forward their names to her.

SPICE.

DEMOCRATIC ? THINKING.

The Liberal "Manchester Guardian" looks favourably upon the Ministry of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. It observes that he has "an obvious need for quiet" and fears that the "noisy and quarrelsome Mr. Bromley" may distract his attention.

The existence of some thousands of workmen who make up the membership of the A.S.L.E. and F. is apparently unknown to the Liberal organ.

The prophet who is without honour in his own constituency.

The Derby Loco Section of the N.U.R. is most militant in denouncing the policy of Mr. strike.

"Manchester Guardian" and "Workers" Dreadnought."

The "Manchester Guardian" says: "The 'Morning Post' is quite unlikely to become a public danger. Its politics, like those of the 'Workers' Dreadnought' and the 'Communist' are so extreme."

The vague and woolly-headed Liberal organ intends its two-edged shaft to wound both ourselves and the Tory organ, which by the way, is the favourite newspaper of Mrs. Philip Snowden. The "Manchester Guardian" is evidently unaware that the "Communist" is extinct.

The "Manchester Guardian" leader concludes by observing that the "Morning Post" is "so useful a pointer-again like the "Workers' Dreadnought" &c. to what some ungoverned fanatics are thinking."

We make our bow to the "Manchester Guardian". To those who wait on the fence till causes becomes popular, their pioneers will always be regarded as "ungoverned fanatics" and to the centrist in social thought the advance guard is as hateful as the reactionary.

DREADNOUGHT £1,000 FUND.

Brought forward, £182 17s. 11ad.; F. Brimley, £1 11s. (monthly); N. Rosenbloom, 2s. 6d.; A. Golub, 2s.; S. N. Ghose, 8s. 6d.; G. Bairstow, 5s. Total for week, £2 9s. Total, £185 6s. 11½d.

CLERIAL WORK.

Volunteers are needed for Clerical and Organising work. Comrades should write to the "Dreadnought" office.

Germinal Circle. Fifth evening, Wednesday, February 20th, 7-11 p.m., Rehearsal Theatre, 3, Bedford Street, Strand. Admission Free. Silver Collection.

COMMUNIST WORKERS' MOVEMENT.

Sunday, February 2nd, 3 p.m., Hyde Park. Sylvia Pankhurst, N. Smyth.

Sunday, February 3rd, 7 p.m., New Morris Hall, 79, Bedford Road, Clapham. Sylvia Pankhurst, N. Smyth.

The Irish Nation

Weekly Review of Irish Republican Opinion

On Sale Saturdays

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION

A blue mark in this space indicates that your subscription is now due.

The high cost of production of the paper necessitates prompt payment.

WANTED, a copy of "Theatre Craft" (No. 8).

(Continued from p. 3.)

prove their material and legal position by strikes and entrance into Parliaments is irrevocably past. The fight now is a fight about power. We must drive home by our propaganda that, though we have called for strikes in various cases, these cannot really improve the workers' conditions.

But, you, workers, have not overcome the old reformist illusions yet and are carrying on a fight which only and chiefly exhausts yourselves.

We, the party, which desires the conquest of power by the workers themselves, will follow you but always and always remember that it will not free you from the slavery of oppression and hopeless want. The only way to happiness is the conquest of power by your rough hands.

(to be continued.)

TOM MOONEY.

Another effort is being made to secure the release of Tom Mooney, wrongfully convicted on purjured evidence of a bomb outrage which occured on July 22nd, 1916. Mooney was sentenced to death. His innocence being proved conclusively the U.S. authorities refrained from hanging him, but have held him in prison ever since. A photograph of Tom Mooney and his wife watching the preparedness procession from the roof of their home was seized by the prosecution and kept locked up in the prosecuting lawyer's safe till after the conviction. When the negative was afterwards developed by an impartial expert it showed the hands of a public clock pointing to one minute past two, the very moment at which Mooney was alleged to have committed the bomb outrage a mile and a quarter away. The man who took the photograph did not know Mooney. He refused to give his photographs to the defence and said he had destroyed the prints he had taken from the negatives held by the prosecution. The negative was only obtained from the prosecution for the expert to examine after a written order from the court.

The witnesses for the prosecution who testified to the bomb being placed on the pavement in a suitcase by Mooney include a drug fiend and a prostitute. The drug fiend contradicted himself on the three occasions he testified in court. The prostitute has made a sworn statement that she was bribed to give false evidence. Mrs. Sadie Edeau, another prosecution witness offered to give evidence about "old men" with a suitcase and when first shown Mooney and Billings, who were in prison charged with placing the suitcase, said she could not identify them. She did so however, in the witness box.

Dr. Moss and three reputable women witnesses, one of whom was wounded by it, saw the bomb thrown from the roof of a building.

The most damaging evidence against Mooney was given by a witness called Oxman. A Federal Commission, appointed by President Wilson, inquired into the Mooney case. This Commission reported that Oxman attempted to procure perjured evidence to corroborate his own testimony. The proof was contained in letters confessedly written by Oxman.

Most of the other U.S. political and industrial prisoners now having been released, a big effort is now being made for Tom Mooney.

Comrades in the United States believe that a Trade Union Government in Great Britain will assist them by endeavouring to influence the U.S. Government in this direction.

Resolutions for Mooney's release should be sent to Governor Richardson, Executive Mansions, Sacramento, Calefornia.

THE "ONE BIG UNION BULLETIN"

The One Big Union seeks to organise the werkers on class lines. Read about it. 10/- per year; 5/- six months. Plebs Buildings, 54 Adelaide Street, Winnipeg, Canada.

Published by E. Sylvia Pankhurst, at 152, Floci Street, London, E.C. 4, and printed by the Agenda Press, Ltd. (T.U.), at 10. Wine Office Court. London, E.C. 4.